CUT AND FILL DUMP REPLACES DEBRIS BURNER

A long, long dump truck deposits another load of driftwood and debris from San Francisco Bay on the Army's dump in the hills at Fort Barry. The debris, skimmed up by the Army Corps of Engineers ships, totals 500 tons a month. The Army used to burn it at Sausalito, but the incinerator polluted the air and was shut down on request of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District. The debris now is buried and eventually will decay into the soil, according to the Army. The Fort Barry dump will last for 37 years at the present fill rate, and can be expanded to last 100 years. Keeping the bay clear and burying the debris costs $40,000 a month.

Trio Arrested In I-J Gunshot Case

Two Boys, One Adult Booked

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 45-year-old member of a newspaper printing union and two boys, 16 and 17 years old, were held today on suspicion of robbery and attempted murder in the shooting of Allan W. Daly, an employee of the Independent-Journal.

Meanwhile, Daly was reported slightly improved but still in critical condition in San Francisco General Hospital, where he had received more than 100 pints of blood since the shooting Saturday night.

Held in San Francisco City Jail without bail on suspicion of conspiracy, robbery and attempted murder was Frank Therber, 45, of San Bruno, a member of Newspaper Mailers Union 18 and employee of San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co., which prints and distributes the San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle. He was scheduled for municipal court arraignment Thursday at 10 a.m.

Held in San Francisco Juvenile Hall on suspicion of robbery and attempted murder were Larry G. Rutherford, 16, and Richard A. Wamsley, 17, both of San Bruno.

WIFE PICKS PAIR

The wife of the shooting victim identified young Rutherford and Wamsley in a police lineup last night as the youths who forced their way into the family's apartment at 407 Connecticut Street last Saturday night and demanded money, said Inspector John McKenna of San Francisco police.

Lt. Charles Ellis, chief of the homicide division of the police department, said after the arrests, "This was not a legitimate robbery." Before the arrests, he said the shooting "appears to be connected with the paper's strike situation." He did not elaborate.

San Francisco Typographical Union 21 went on strike against the Independent-Journal on Jan. 7, and has picketed the newspaper plant around the clock ever since. The Mailers Union, an affiliate of the International Typographical Union, had no contract with the I-J, having failed to win the right to represent mailroom employees in a National Labor Relations Board election several years ago.

The three were arrested in San Bruno last night by Inspectors McKenna and Hobart Nelson of the San Francisco homicide division and Sgt. Hugh Fraser of San Bruno police.

LATER ARREST

The two youths were arrested about 7 p.m. at the home of Rutherford's mother, which both gave as their address. Therber's arrest followed three hours later at his home.

Inspector McKenna said Therber was arrested and booked "based on information received that he was the one who had supplied the name (of Daly) to the two boys." He said the youths reportedly had been promised money for "staging a robbery" with Daly as victim, but claimed they had not been paid.

He said San Francisco police are investigating whether "there was someone behind Therber"

DALY STILL CRITICAL

61 Answer Call As Blood Donors

The Irwin Memorial Blood Bank in San Francisco and its branch in San Rafael today reported 61 persons answered the call yesterday and Sunday for urgently needed blood for Allan W. Daly, Independent-Journal employee shot in the stomach Saturday night at his San Francisco home.

Daly remained in critical condition today, San Francisco General Hospital reported, but said his condition has been stabilized.

I-J publisher Wishard A. Brown today said, "On behalf of the Allan Daly family and his fellow employees at the I-J, I wish to thank the citizens of Marin, San Francisco and Sonoma counties who have given blood through the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank to the Allan Daly account at San Francisco General Hospital. All of us associated with this newspaper deeply appreciate this response of life-giving blood."

Besides the 61 pints donated directly, the blood bank reports it has received an additional release of 40 units from the Marin reserve blood bank, of which 22 came from the I-J blood bank reserve.

The blood bank added that while it was imperative to get type O-Positive blood directly to Daly the first two days, which necessitated giving at the San Francisco branch, persons wishing to donate in the future may do so at the San Rafael branch at 506 Fourth Street.

The blood bank said the blood is moved from San Rafael to San Francisco three to four times a day.

Council Splits, Rejects Alto Cluster Proposal

The Mill Valley City Council, faced last night with a request for an increase of nearly 44 per cent in density as the price for open space in a cluster development, decided the price was too high. (Another Mill Valley City Council story, page 28.)

A plan to cluster 120 garden cottages at the base of a 27.5-acre hill in the upper part of the city's Alto Bowl was presented and the council denied the application of Cal-Fong Investment Corp.

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke, noted that alternative single-family development previously approved would permit total development of the acreage and warned the hill would be "lost under a sea of concrete," if the cluster plan were turned down.

But the majority agreed with Councilman Robert H. Andresen that the density price tag was too high.

Reacting to strong public protest, including numerous letters and a petition signed by 200 persons, the council voted 3-2 to deny the application, Mayor George E. Wickham and Hauke in favor of the plan, Jean S. Barnard, Edward J. Boessenecker and Andresen opposed.

A steady stream of owners of homes in nearby Scott Valley and Alto paraded before the council to request that Cal-Fong not be granted a density increase from 3 dwelling units per acre to 4.36 units.

They hammered on three main points: excessive traffic that would be generated, the flooding problem downstream from the proposed development and the strain on city services that the density increase would foster.

"We're very concerned about what will happen after the first development comes in," said Henry Strasser, of 65 Shell Road. "Instead of an increase in density, I would like to see a decrease." The partisan audience applauded vigorously.

Patsy Simpkin, of 44 Glen Drive, said she didn't want "to keep people out, but I resent the fact that whenever a developer asks for a cluster project, the density has to shoot up. I'm not against clustering, but I don't like more density."

Giving Cal-Fong a density increase would set a dangerous precedent, said Mrs. Hugh Rodman, of 189 Oakdale Avenue. "What you do here is forecasting what will be done in the rest of the area," she said.

Not everyone opposed the project. Manuel Gomez told the audience, "It's not a density increase that you should be scared of, it's the disappearance of land. This plan would put houses close together and in

THREE-WAY FINANCING

Federal Health Insurance Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A cradle-to-grave health insurance plan for every American was unveiled today by the blue-ribbon, 100-member Committee for National Health Insurance. It would be financed by workers, employers and government.

Leonard Woodcock, United Auto Workers (UAW) president and committee chairman, said the proposed "health security program" would give millions of Americans health insurance coverage for the first time and would solve many of the nation's pressing health problems. It would require congressional enactment.

The committee estimated the cost for such a program in 1969 would have been $37 billion. It projected no estimate for 1973, when the plan is proposed to take effect.

Of needed funds, 40 per cent would come from federal general tax revenues, 35 per cent from an employer payroll tax and 25 per cent from a tax on individual income up to $15,000.

Doctors, hospitals and other providers of medical services would agree not to charge their patients, but instead to bill the health security program. Patients thus would not be billed for covered services.

"The insecurity created by the health crisis in America gnaws at the American family, and at the deepest roots of our society," Woodcock said in a statement.

The plan would provide these patient benefits:

—All necessary doctor services.

—All necessary hospital services, nursing home care of up to 120 days for each illness, and home health services.

—A wide range of mental health services with some limits on psychiatric consultations and hospital care.

—Dental care for children up to age 15 when the plan begins, with an increasing eligibility age each year until all age groups are included.

—The purchase of many drugs, with an emphasis on drugs and medicines for persons in hospitals, and nursing homes and those enrolled in medical group practice plans.

—Some therapeutic devices,

Rail Strike Snarls Bay Commute, Brings Plea For Federal Action

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An unannounced strike against the Southern Pacific Railroad stranded 12,000 commuters today in the San Francisco Bay Area.

The last commuter train left San Jose at 6:13 a.m. before pickets were thrown up around major terminals in a dispute over firemen's jobs. Twenty-two operate in both directions during the morning rush hours between here and San Jose.

Pickets were set in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland. The walkout involved conductors, brakemen, switchmen and firemen of the United Transportation Union.

Dale Creasy, vice president of the local UTU, said "thousands" of workers would be affected in the San Francisco area, but did not know the exact number.

"All trains of the Southern Pacific Company will be struck until the firemen issue is settled," Creasy said.

Southern Pacific is one of three railroads struck just after 6 a.m. The walkout also struck the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Louisville and Nashville lines.

The railroads were struck after negotiations collapsed Monday night between union officials and management.

The UTU said firemen's jobs were being eliminated, leaving an inadequate crew for a minimum level of safety. The railroads began eliminating firemen's jobs 11 years ago, saying the job has outlived its usefulness.

The National Labor Railway Conference representing all three carriers immediately asked President Richard M. Nixon to appoint an emergency board to halt the strike for 60 days.

The 262,000-member UTU struck the B & O at 6 a.m. EDT after talks between union and management officials collapsed Monday night in Washington. The strike quickly

Government Crisis Halts Italian Strike

ROME (UPI) — Italy's most sudden and unexplained government crisis since World War II prompted cancellation of a 24-hour general strike planned for today. President Giuseppe Saragat met with political party leaders to seek their solutions.

A labor group warned workers to watch out for a government shift to the right, and canceled the strike in fear of possible violence.

Saragat conferred with the leaders of all 10 parties represented in parliament. He plans meetings Wednesday with

Russ Mideast Effort Linked To Canal Need

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Diplomatic sources said today in London the Soviet Union is intent on reopening the Suez Canal and that this may imply indirect Soviet support for the establishment of an Egyptian bridgehead on the Israeli-held east bank.

The report reading UPI chief European diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler coincided with Israeli reports of growing Soviet involvement in the Middle East and the assertion Monday that Russians had fired advanced SAM3 missiles at Israeli planes and were helping the Egyptians fire the older SAM2s.

Israeli warplanes attacked Egyptian positions along the Suez Canal for the 48th consecutive day today, and a Cairo spokesman said Egypt's air defenses "hit" a Skyhawk attack bomber. There was no indication whether surface-to-air (SAM) missiles were involved.

The London diplomatic sources said closure of the Suez Canal means a prolongation of 38 days for Soviet supplies to North Vietnam around the cape route and that the Sino-Soviet conflict has also heightened Soviet needs for a push into the Indian Ocean.

The issue of Russian aid to establishment of an Egyptian bridgehead was said to be among the topics currently under consideration in the Moscow talks between President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Kremlin leaders. Moscow dispatches today said Nasser has extended his visit another 10 days.

The diplomatic reports said Russian commitment to the Arabs is "total" but that Moscow still shrinks from involvement that could confront it with the United States. But

Cambodians Regain Town Near Capital

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian troops backed by South Vietnamese warplanes have recaptured the town of Saang, 22 miles south of Phnom Penh, but lost 32 killed and 47 wounded in two days of fighting, military spokesmen said today.

The Cambodians estimated about 200 guerrillas died in the battle, most of them in air strikes by South Vietnamese and Cambodian warplanes.

Nasser Extends Stay

MOSCOW (UPI)—Arab sources said today President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt may stay in the Soviet Union until July 15 undergoing medical checks and resting.

Nasser arrived in Moscow on a mission to try to get more Soviet military aid. He was a guest at a country house in the village of Barvikha outside Moscow. Leonid I. Brezhnev, Communist Party general secretary, is at another country house near Nasser's.

The sources said Nasser has been undergoing examinations and treatment for diabetes and sciatica, ailments Soviet doctors treated when Nasser visited the Soviet Union before.

'Star City' Statue

MOSCOW (UPI)—A bronze statue of Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin will be erected in the suburban area where he lived until he died in a 1968 plane crash, the newspaper Vechernaya Moskva said Monday.

The statue will be in "Star City," the area the government has established for all Soviet cosmonauts and their families. Gagarin was the first man in space, first orbiting Earth in April, 1961.

Astronaut Is Father

Fong Running Again

HONOLULU (UPI)—Sen. Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, is running for a third term in the U.S. Senate.

Fong said Monday, "In the past 11 years, it has been my privilege to help ease Hawaii's transition from territory to state, to help promote Hawaii's tremendous economic growth, and to help enact into law many landmark measures on education, civil rights, Social Security and other vital fields."

Royalty Sees Arctic

INUVIK, Northwest Territories (UPI)—Britain's royal family hopscotched across the barren northlands Monday on the second day of their 10-day Arctic tour, winding up with a view of the midnight sun.

Officially here for the centennials of both the Northwest Territories and the province of Manitoba, the royal family also is demonstrating nonverbally that Canada owns the waters between the Arctic islands. An education official reflected the views of many officials when he said, "This trip has a point: sovereignty."

Prince Charles and Prince Philip visited the oil camp of Eureka on Melville Island Monday, about 900 miles from the North Pole.

Racial Peace Sought In New Jersey Resort

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (UPI) —The ghetto West Side of this seaside town was reported quiet but tense early today in the wake of more than 12 hours of violence marked by fires, looting, approximately 100 arrests and at least 44 injuries, none serious.

The acrid smell of smoke still hung over the Springwood Avenue area as large numbers of police, remnants of a force of 200 rushed in Monday afternoon, continued to cordon off a 29-block area.

At the same time, a group of 15 black leaders, some from out of town, presented a list of 20 demands in a meeting with Mayor Joseph F. Mattice and two city councilmen.

The black spokesmen pressed for an immediate response as Mattice asked for a few hours to meet with the other two councilmen.

"The kids are saying to us, 'Act or we'll act for you'," said Willie Hamm, an assistant administrator at Rutgers University.

"And they don't act within the law. And we have witnesses to that," Hamm said.

Among the demands were: Hiring by the city of 100 black youths for the summer at $1.60 an hour; amnesty to all those arrested in the past two nights of violence; removal of all state and out of town police; adequate police protection for the West Side, and appointment of a black edcator to the city school board.

Also present at the meeting were Chief of Police Thomas Smith, who is black, and Ira Grayson, aide to Gov. William T. Cahill, who said he would report to the governor today on the situation here.

The arrests bring to about 122 the number arrested in two nights of racial disorders generated, informed observers say, by years of frustration centering around jobs, housing and recreation.

200,000 London Subway Riders Trapped 45 Minutes

LONDON (UPI)—Transport officials today blamed a faulty cable between two power stations for a subway power failure Monday that trapped more than 200,000 persons underground during the evening rush hour.

Six of London's eight subway lines were knocked out by the failure at 5:15 p.m. when the temperature was an unseasonably hot 85 degrees. The outage lasted about an hour but its effects were felt throughout the evening.

Authorities reported cases of women fainting and people breaking windows and forcing doors to provide ventilation. Thousands were led from the sweltering trains along darkened tunnels to the nearest exits. No serious injuries were reported.

One rider organized his car into shifts for sitting down. One trainload sang "God Save the Queen."

"We were trapped for 45 minutes," said Frank Ripper. "Two women fainted in my arms and others were close to panic. Finally we tore open the doors with our hands. Nobody knew what was happening. It was terrifying."

Cecilia Phillips, 26, a book editor, said she "thought of all those people in New York a few years ago who got stuck all night and suddenly I was frightened.

Fact Finders Alarmed By Viet Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A 12-man congressional fact-finding team just back from Vietnam reports that economic problems threaten both the security of South Vietnam and the U.S. effort to turn the war over to the Vietnamese.

It said the same problem, largely due to inflation, threatens the whole of Southeast Asia. As a remedy the congressmen suggested the official South Vietnamese currency the piaster, should be devalued, that interest rates there should be increased, that taxes should be reformed and that new commerce laws should be devised.

The report on the two-week inspection tour was turned in by the chairman of the panel, Rep. G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery, D-Miss. He said 11 of the 12 members agreed with the report.

"The weakest link in South Vietnam's chain is its economy. Failure to solve the major problems on the economic front will seriously and perhaps fatally weaken the pacification and Vietnamization programs," the report said.

"In each country (of Southeast Asia) fiscal strategy more than military strategy may well be the decisive factor in national survival," the report said. "If inflation is allowed to go unchecked, the governments face financial ruin."

Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., said he did not agree with the majority views. Two other members have also indicated they may have separate statements.

Hawkins issued a short news release describing his views, and calling the Saigon government "an unpopular military dictatorship."

Security Lid For Rogers

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan placed a heavy security guard around the U.S. Embassy today and stationed squads of riot police in vans in the nearby streets to protect Secretary of State William P. Rogers against anti-American radicals.

Three anti-Rogers demonstrations erupted when he flew in from Saigon to seek more Japanese economic aid for Southeast Asia, but they were small-scale and police kept them under control. In the largest, 600 radicals demonstrated near the embassy but there were no clashes.

Rogers appeared optimistic on his arrival about the survival of non-Communist governments in Cambodia and South Vietnam but convinced a prosperous Japan must aid the other Asian nations. He will meet separately Wednesday with Finance Minister Takeo Fukuda and Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

John Nance Garner, who died in 1967 at the age of 98, lived longer than any other U.S. vice president.

Farmer Sees Nixon Polarization Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James Farmer, a ranking black official in the Nixon administration, said today he believes President Nixon soon will make a statement on the polarization of national attitudes.

"It would be addressed to the polarization in the country on blacks and whites, young and old, rich and poor, the lost and the unlost," Farmer said. "I have reason to believe it might be done."

He would not elaborate but said he was hopeful a presidential statement would "defuse" a growing racial tension in the country.

Denying a report he had resigned, Farmer pointed to papers cluttering his desk and said he had too much work to consider leaving. He said the report in the New York Amsterdam News merely was an untrue rumor. Farmer said he has not submitted a resignation and is not preparing one.

Farmer, former national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, is a $42,500-a-year assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

He applauded Elliott L. Richardson, his new HEW boss, for taking steps last week to cut off funds to three southern school districts accused of operating segregated systems.

"We are on good terms," he said of Richardson. "And on the issues we have discussed, we see eye to eye." Farmer said those issues include civil rights.

"I'm in some ways a Puritan on civil rights," Farmer said. "I don't think I'd be in complete agreement with anyone on civil rights issues. Obviously, there are those in this administration with whom I am not in agreement on civil rights.

BONN (UPI) —Cigaret consumption in West Germany increased an average 5.6 per cent annually in each of the last six years, the Ministry of Finance reports.

Mexico Vote Losers Meet

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Opposition National Action Party (PAN) leaders met in secrecy today to compile charges of fraud in Sunday's presidential election, in which its candidate was overwhelmingly defeated.

President-elect Luis Echeverria, meanwhile, received pledges of support from labor, peasant and legislative delegations who swarmed into his offices at the Party of Revolutionary Institutions (PRI) headquarters.

Unofficial results released by the PRI gave Echeverria an advantage of almost 9 to 1 over the PAN's Efrain Gonzalez Morfin. The PRI also claimed sweeping congressional victories. Official results will be announced Sunday. PRI figures today gave Echeverria 6,476,301 votes and Gonzalez Morfin 852,042.

Army units guarded the ballots and remained on the alert for post-election violence. But the nation remained calm.

Tam Budget Panel Drafts List Of Trims

Tamalpais High School District administrators and teachers, under pressure to trim the 1970-71 budget, last night issued a priority list of 24 possible cuts totaling 305,838.

The list was presented to district trustees, who will get out their surgical tools on July 20 when they decide what to do with the budget.

They already have approved a $10,045,407 tentative budget, but did so only to meet legal requirements — and made it clear that major revisions will probably have to be made before final adoption in August.

TENTATIVE BUDGET

The tentative budget would push the district's general fund tax rate to $2.165 per $100 assessed valuation, an increase of 2 cents over last fiscal year. The total tax rate last year was $2.29.

Still being negotiated are increases for the district's classified personnel. District teachers got a 6.7 per cent pay hike in the tentative budget.

The list of possible cuts was prepared by the budget council, composed of nine administrators and teachers. The total amount included $132,220 for items already in the tentative budget, and $173,618 for items pending for inclusion in the budget.

In other budget action, trustees authorized the administration to start work on $62,450 in maintenance and operations projects, including $12,000 for construction of a retaining wall at Sir Francis Drake High School.

The projects include new electrical outlets, bulletin boards, heaters, lighting, renovation of rooms, new telephone extensions and the like.

The 24 possible cuts were listed from the highest to the lowest priority, thus the first listed were the ones the budget council wanted most to keep in the final budget.

The list was as follows: continue transportation aid for needy families, $20,000; retain increase of materials and equipment allowance at $5 per student, $30,000; provide for first priority maintenance and operations, $55,357 (of which $50,450 was committed to the above projects).

NEW COURSES

Support new courses from special funds, $11,825; increase school allowances for instructional aides, $9,690; increase school allowances for clerical help, $19,500; add an audio visual technician to school staffing allowances, $24,000; support English workshop proposal, $3,880.

Continue district support of transportation between home and school, $25,000; add one clerk to Redwood staff, $6,500; provide for second priority maintenance and operations projects, $19,255; increase school allowances for campus supervisors, $12,000; continue in-service support for teacher-administrators, $2,000.

Support purchase of Tamalpais educational television equipment, $7,400; support replacement of lost library books, $5,000; continue support of consulting time for management information program, $1,500; continue district support of athletic transportation, $16,000.

Redwood Library Carpeting Set As Opener Of Remodeling Effort

Tamalpais High School District trustees last night voted to spend $6,750 to carpet the library at Redwood High School in the first step of a $275,000 remodeling of the school.

School officials long have sought the carpeting to make the library quieter, and to attract more students for study.

Some 900 square yards, at $7.50 a yard, should be in place by the time school opens in September, trustees were told by the architect for the remodeling.

Chester Bowles Jr., a San Francisco architect, won informal board endorsement of his plans to shift various Redwood departments to provide more space, as did the architects preparing plans to remodel Sir Francis Drake High School.

Bowles' plans included four study-lounges for students and teachers, which he said would help meet the problems of a school that was "too big, too impersonal, and too difficult to find a place to study."

Additional study-lounges would cost $25,000 each, he estimated.

Work could begin next June and be completed in the fall of 1971 "with minimum dislocation of the school," Bowles said.

The money for the work will come from what is left of accumulated funds for the school. A similar amount, is available for Drake and Tamalpais high schools.

Plans for work at Tamalpais will be presented to the board on July 20.

The plans for Drake, drawn by the firm of Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons, were less detailed, but called for enclosing and expanding the existing eating area. To be divided into two spearate rooms, one would be used for eating, and the other as a "multi-purpose center." More detailed plans, as well as cost estimates, will be presented on July 20.

Tamalpais High School District board also:

OFFICERS — Elected David D. Ring as board chairman for the next fiscal year, and Frank L. Miller as board clerk. Ring, who was absent, replaced Mrs. Bette Wallace.

ATHLETES — Agreed not to ace on a request from the Redwood Executive Council that athletes pay their own transportation costs, pending a review of all district programs by the administration.

HAIR — Postponed until a future date, when special contracts will be considered, action on petitions by Redwood High School cross country runners urging the trustees to rehire Douglas B. Basham as their coach. Basham was rehired as a teacher, but not as a coach — because of his stand on the hair issue last fall, according to the students.

MEMBERSHIPS — Voted to join six educational groups at a cost of $560, but, at the insistance of trustee Robert W. Corlett, postponed joining the California School Boards Association for $1,053.

SPACE — Authorized the administration to hire an "architectural space consultant" to figure out how to make room in district offices for the administrators and their staff. Trustee Frank L. Miller noted that "while private offices have a certain amount of status, they're not necessarily essential." He also questioned "how necessary it is for everyone to have a private secretary."

PERSONNEL — Hired Michael Gross as teacher-administrator of the Opportunity School at an annual salary of $14,202, and Karen Harrison as dean of student activities at Redwood for a salary to be determined on the salary schedule plus $1,000.

Second Concert Slated Sunday

The second concert in the Dominican College music department's summer series will be presented Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in Angelico Hall, Dominican College, San Rafael.

Violinist Laurence Nelson and pianist Phyllis Murphy will perform music of Brahms, Webern and Wieniawski, and assisting Nelson in the performance of Beethoven's String Quartet, Opus 18, No. 4 in C Minor will be his wife, Anne Nelson, second violin; Joanne Lundblad, viola; and Doris Boyd, cello.

The musicians are all residents of Marin County.

Tam Walks Plans Ordered

Dangerously steep and slippery walkways at Tamalpais High School probably will cost $50,000 to make safe, clearly surprised school district trustees learned last night.

The estimate was made by Business Mgr. Frank A. Cassou, based on a study by the San Rafael engineering firm of Hoffman and Albritton.

The report put the district on notice, Cassou said, thus it had to act promptly to start corrections — in case it were sued by an injured student.

The trustees reluctantly voted unanimously to hire the engineering firm immediately to develop a program to correct the dangerous conditions.

The engineers' report found dangerous conditions at 10 locations, many with slopes over the engineers' criteria of a 10 per cent maximum slope. Most of the work would involve reconstruction and installation of steps.

House Bill Would Repeal Secrecy In Airline Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill was introduced in the House Monday to repeal a section of the Airport and Airway Revenue Act of 1970 which forbids tickets and advertisements from listing the exact amount of the new 8 per cent federal "users tax" on airline tickets.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, R-N.Y., said his bill "will restore truth in taxation as far as airline tickets are concerned."

Stratton said the act "...makes it look as though Congress were trying to hide from the people the amount of taxes we are asking them to pay."

Stratton explained the original purpose of the provision "was simply to speed up the issuance of airline tickets by requiring the writing of only one figure instead of three; and also to prevent misleading travel advertisements..."

He said his bill would amend the law to allow ticket agents to show the amount of the tax on each ticket if they desired.

ex-presidents, ex-premiers and politicians to ask whom they think he should ask to try to form a new government.

Premier Mariano Rumor's 100-day center-left coalition government resigned at a 15-minute cabinet meeting Monday, precipitating the 31st governmental crisis since the fall of fascism in 1943.

The resignation caught Italians by surprise. Socialists, Communists and leftwing Roman Catholics condemned it as a plot to defeat organized labor, end social reform and shift the government to the right.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor asked workers "to demonstrate on their working places their firm will to reject any attempt at authoritarian developments and be vigilant against any possible provocation."

The immediate reason for the latest crisis apparently was the Socialists' intention to form regional governments with the Communists in two of 15 newly established regions—the equivalent of states in the United States.

The cabinet coalition had been formed with an agreement to keep the Communists from sharing power and the Christian Democrats and Unitarian Socialists objected to the attempts of the Socialists to cooperate with the Communists.

The jsocialists said their right to form regional governments with the Communists was laid down in agreements that led to the establishment of the latest Rumor government in March.

spread to the Southern Pacific and the Louisville and Nashville lines.

The strike comes at a time when the railroad industry has been pleading for aid from the federal government to help many carriers overcome financial difficulties, evidenced most recently by the Penn Central's decision to declare bankruptcy after the Pentagon refused to guarantee a proposed $200 million loan to the railroad.

Congress currently is holding hearings on a Nixon administration proposal to provide government guaranteed loans up to $750 million for ailing railroads.

1,232 Use College Pool Over Holiday

A record number of swimmers used the College of Marin pools during the holiday weekend, the college has announced. Total for the three days was 1,232, with 556 at the pool on July 2, 50 more than the previous one-day record.

The swimming and diving pools are open from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday, for the rest of July. The pools are closed on Sunday.

Woman Passenger Injured At Presidio

A 23-year-old San Rafael woman was examined for back and head pains at Marin General Hospital at 1:10 p.m. yesterday. Injured in an accident at the Presidio in San Francisco Sunday was Rosemary Brice of 1301 Second Street, according to the hospital.

Presidio Military Police acknowledged that she was a passenger in a car involved in a Sunday accident, but refused to give further details.

Clerk Recovers Beer

A young couple took some beer without paying for it at 12:25 a.m. today from the Short Stop Market at 1410 South Novato Boulevard, and after clerk Robert D. Hinkle recovered the beer, he found they had taken the revolver, valued at $35, which he kept to guard against robberies, Novato police reported.

Hinkle could give no description of the girl except that she was about 18 years old and drove an old Volkswagen. The man who took the beer was described as about 18 years old, six feet tall, of slim build, weighing 160 pounds and having brown hair. He was wearing a buckskin shirt and purple and red striped pants.

Tools Stolen

Two tool boxes and tools, valued at $175, were taken from inside a pickup truck at Aero Heating at 860 Sweetser Avenue, Novato, sometime between 4:30 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. yesterday, Randall W. Swank reported yesterday to Novato police.

Trio Is Arrested In I-J Gunshot Case

in the arrangement for the pretended robbery.

Mrs. Daly told police the two armed youths forced their way into the apartment and one of them struck her husband with a steel pipe. They demanded money. When she offered to get her handbag from the kitchen, one of them went with her. The other remained with her husband.

While she was in the kitchen, she said, she heard a shot. She ran back to the living room to find her husband on the floor, bleeding from a wound in the abdomen. One of the youths grabbed her handbag, containing $6, and they ran.

Police later found the handbag, with the $6 still in it, outside the house.

A police artist prepared a sketch of one of the pair based on a description provided by Mrs. Daly. Rutherford closley resembles the sketch, Inspector McKenna said.

Therber has no criminal record, according to San Francisco and San Bruno police. The two youths have juvenile records in San Bruno and "are well known to the police department" there, said Sergeant Fraser.

Lieutenant Ellis said "all indications are that robbery was not the motive for the attack" and that the shooting "appears to be connected with the paper's strike situation."

Daly is employed as systems design analyst in charge of electronic equipment used in nontypesetting production processes at the Independent-Journal.

Late yesterday, a few hours before the arrests, Leon Olsen, president of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, issued a statement on behalf of the union which said:

"Mr. Daly was employed by the I-J after the strike began, and as such we have scant knowledge of him or his duties at the plant, other than that he had been referred to as a systems analyst. The shooting is a personal tragedy. We deplore any and all such senseless actions.

"It should be pointed out that during the six months since the I-J had displaced longtime employees with 'security forces' and imported strikebreakers, there have been other incidents not connected with the union. For example:

"A dog handler who supplied vicious dogs for the I-J was killed in San Francisco — the result of an unrelated grudge fight.

"The head of the Nor-Cal Security for the I-J absconded with more than $18,000 of the newspaper's money.

"Vandalism has occurred at the premises of merchants who have helped the union by withdrawing their advertising from struck newspapers.

"We are confident that fair-minded citizens will wait for the facts to be developed in this shooting before they jump to conclusions. As in every strike situation, there will be those who want to exploit the incident for their own selfish purposes. To listen to such people would simply be to encourage the stubborn employer to persist in his hope that he can defeat our union by continuing his refusal to bargain in good faith.

"We believe that in this shooting, as in all such cases, police should be allowed to make an objective, thorough investigation without hysteric anti-union speculation."

resistance as the guerrillas retreated southwest across the Vessoc river in the direction of Takeo.

Northwest of Phnom Penh, the spokesmen said, Communist forces appeared to have withdrawn from the main temple at the historic ruins of Angkor Wat and set up positions in a tourist hotel nearby.

UPI correspondent James Russell reported Saang was virtually leveled by air strikes. It had suffered heavy damage in two earlier battles in April and June.

Cambodian spokesmen also reported they called in South Vietnamese AC47 gunships to rake guerrilla positions around the province capital of Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of the capital.

In South Vietnam, U. S. military spokesmen said a Cobra helicopter gunship was shot down Tuesday, killing two Americans aboard. U. S. units reported killing 24 Communist troops in fighting mostly in the northern quarter of South Vietnam, but they suffered 39 wounded.

The Communists struck 24 times with rocket and mortar attacks around the country in the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. Tuesday, wounding 12 Americans.

Tentative Pact In Firemen's Strike Threat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Mayor Joseph L. Alioto today announced a tentative settlement in a threatened strike by the city's 1,800 firemen.

The mayor reported agreement after a three-hour negotiating session which began at dawn. He declined to reveal details until the firemen and city Board of Supervisors approve the settlement.

But Alioto said the agreement with leaders of Firefighters Union Local 798 did not involve the hiring of additional employes. He said the use of overtime pay to keep crews at full strength was part of the tentative pact.

that way save 17 acres for open space."

Jon K. Nicholas, of 37 Meadow Drive, agreed: "I'd rather see 17 acres free and open to us than a hill covered with concrete and houses."

Norman T. Gilroy, architect for the project, warned the council that Cal-Fong could begin construction at any time on a conventional single-family subdivision under plans previously approved by the city.

Denial of the project, Gilroy said, would force Cal-Fong to build 83 homes on the hill and leave no open space.

After Mayor Wickham closed the public hearing, Hauke quickly moved approval of the density increase. Wickham seconded the motion.

But it soon became evident that no other councilman favored the development.

"The whole thing is a matter of density," Mrs. Barnard said. "I want a cluster development without an increase in density."

Andresen said he was troubled that "our little city has to accommodate the population explosion. This development is not in keeping with what we have in mind for Mill Valley."

Sensing that his motion would be defeated, Hauke said, "If we don't approve this, the hill is going to be buried under concrete.

By turning it down, we can kiss that hill goodbye."

"I agree," Andresen said, "but the price for that open space is too high."

"The price is never too high to save that hill," Hauke replied.

After the motion failed, Gilroy told the council, "The system of planning in this city makes a mockery of any developer who tries to design a project that's sensitive to the environment. I fail to see how the council can override every city body that this has come before. I fail to see how you can deny the open space to the people who voted for you."

Marin Suspects Plead Innocent On Pot Charges

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Five men arrested in Mill Valley in May for selling about 180 pounds of marijuana to narcotics agents have pleaded innocent to the charge in U.S. District Court here.

The case has been assigned to Judge Alfonso Zirpoli for hearing motions and setting a trial date on Aug. 24.

Pleading innocent Thursday to possession and sale of marijuana were Eric F. Millican, 21, of Long Beach, John A. Papia, 21, of Mill Valley; Thomas N. Hammer, 21, and Sheldon P. Levy, 21, both of San Francisco, and Ramon Bouchayer, 29, of Boardwalk 1, Larkspur.

The marijuana seized in the arrest May 5 was valued at $120,000 broken down into lids, according to narcotics agents.

equipment and appliances such as glasses.

"Health security will try to assure protection for every American family against the health service cost of serious, prolonged or expensive illness or disability," the committee said.

"There will be no cutoff point, in dollars or numbers of days of covered services or by age beyond which benefits would cease, except as noted for skilled nursing home, psychiatric and dental services."

Committee members scheduled to appear at a news conference announcing the program today, in addition to Woodcock, included Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and vice chairmen, Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, president of the Baylor College of Medicine; Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, president of the Albert & Mary Lasker Foundation; and Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League.

The committee said its plan would absorb the Medicare health insurance plan for the aged and most of the Medicaid program for the needy at an annual increased cost to the federal government of about $6 billion.

It also would eliminate the insurance coverage, with private insurance spending being rechanneled into payroll taxes to cover the new plan.

Introduction of the plan in congress could spark a national debate on univeral health insurance coverage. The American Medical Association has proposed its own plan, called Medicredit, to give tax credits to the poor for the purchase of health insurance.

United Nations Secretary General Thant told a news conference in Geneva today he would not commet on reports Russians were firing the SAM3s, but he said it was "fair, from the United Nations point of view, to distinguish between offensive and defensive weapons."

Thant also said the latest Soviet proposals on the Middle East contains "concrete and realistic elements" for a just and lasting peace in the area. He would not compare the Russian plan with a recent U.S. peace proposal but said the Russians were being realistic for the first time.

Arraignment Set For Accused Pair On Gun Charges

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Sausalito man and a companion who apparently couldn't find what they wanted during a shotgun visit to a store were scheduled to be arraigned in San Francisco Municipal Court today for threatening with a weapon.

Gerald Harris, 27, and his companion, Alonzo Ellis, 21, of San Francisco, were arrested Sunday after allegedly threatening the clerk of the North Beach Audio Repair Shop with 12-gauge shotguns.

Police said the shotgun-toting pair entered the store to seek a replacement for a hi-fi amplifier Harris said has been taken from him. Failing to find what he wanted, Harris allegedly blew a hole through the ceiling into an unoccupied second floor apartment.

NEW ANTIRIOT WEAPON

This antiriot weapon that hurls blocks of wood from a gas-powered gun has been added to the arsenal of the Berkeley police. Known as the multiple baton shell, it was developed in Hong Kong and used in Berkeley for the first time last Saturday to halt rioting youths. The five wooden pellets are intended to be painful, but not fatal. Meanwhile, downtown Berkeley was hit last night by at least five man-caused fires within a 90-minute period. No injuries, however, were reported. (UPI Telephoto)

Committee Suggests Petaluma Tax Hike

Recommendations for tax rate increases and new taxes were offered last night to the Petaluma City Council as a means of providing more revenue for the future.

The city-wide finance committee headed by E. W. Schneider included a recommendation for an increase in the property tax rate now at $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation or, in lieu of that, a utility tax.

While the 20-member committee was evenly split on the new tax and tax rate increase, it reported that the property tax increase might be better since it would be tax deductible.

Stressing need to make all city services self-supporting, the committee suggested that the sewer connection fee on single-family homes be increased from $300 to $500 with the monthly service charge jumping from $2 to $2.46.

It also recommended higher charges for multiple dwellings and for industries which place a heavy burden on the sewer system.

On parking revenues, the committee recommended that all meters be changed to five cents per hour regardless of location. It also warned against removing meters from Petaluma Boulevard unless other spaces are provided and said that free permits issued to contractors and utility companies should be revoked and the equivalent of five cents per hour charged for spaces taken up during construction.

The committee recommended that licenses for dogs be raised from $2 per year to $4 and that cat owners be charged the same. The committee split in recommendations on higher fees for reclaiming animals and housing costs.

Other suggestions included an increase in the basic ambulance rate to $32.50 and an increase in the stand-by fee to $15 per hour. Increases were also recommended in the transient occupancy fees and business license fees.

Although the report had just been submitted, the council received a petition from W. J. Larry and 16 other property owners objecting to either a tax rate increase or utility tax. They said that new residents, who are making added service necessary, should pay the additional costs rather than older residents.

The council said it would study the committee report and schedule a special session and public hearing on the recommendations before any are enacted.

The Petaluma City Council Also:

PURCHASE — Authorized City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer to negotiate for the purchase of park property on St. Francis Drive and for property for future street widening on Magnolia Avenue and Cherry Street.

COMPLETE — Certified the completion of street work at Petaluma Boulevard South and D Street as done by the Don Dowd Co. of Sebastopol at a cost of $4,040.

GASOLINE — Set a public hearing for Aug. 17 at 7:30 p.m. on the proposed annexation of 50 acres on Casa Grande Road and Lakeville Highway.

CLOSED — Went behind closed doors with Meyer to discuss salary negotiations with employee groups.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until Thursday at 2:30 p.m. to complete the remainder of the lengthy agenda.

College Panel Debates Purchase Of Computer

Whether to lease-purchase the IBM computer that the County of Marin plans to replace this month was discussed without decision last night at a "workshop meeting" of Marin Junior College District trustees.

Donald Griffin, head of the college's data processing department, presented proposals on computer equipment from nine vendors. But most of the data concerned the advantages of acquiring the 360/30 computer now leased by the county from International Business Machines Co.

The college has an IBM 1401 computer (the type the county had before acquiring the 360/30). Griffin said it is used four hours daily for instruction and four hours for administrative records.

The trouble with it, he said, is that it is not adaptable to expansion, and is an outdated model.

The 1401 could belong to the college district with a single $78,000 payment. The 360/30 now at the Civic Center would cost $327,000, plus 5 per cent interest, with credit for lease payments the county already has made. The same model computer could be bought elsewhere for about the same price but at higher interest.

The trustees may not have long to make up their minds. James Singleton of IBM said the county has served notice it will discontinue leasing the equipment July 31. "Once it goes off rent, those credits are lost," he said. The county is converting to Radio Corp. of America equipment.

Supt. John A. Grasham said another workshop would be set up for the July 22 week to try to decide. Trustees present last night were Robert E. Rogers, Charles W. Gray, and Donald K. Felt.

Oakland Chief To 'Stay As Needed' On Seattle Force

SEATTLE (UPI) — Oakland Police Chief Charles B. Gain will be interim chief of the Seattle Police Department for "as long as he's needed" Mayor Wes Uhlman said today.

Uhlman said Gain would have his full backing but was not coming here as a hatchet man.

The Seattle Police Department currently has been upset by charges of a shakedown and payoff system among officers and gambling interests.

Gain's post will definitely be interim according to Uhlman who said there was no possibility Gain would become Seattle's permanent chief.

Acting Seattle Chief Frank Moore will be stepping down because of his health and will take the post of assistant chief in charge of technical services.

That post was previously held by M. E. (Buzz) Cook, whose current trial for perjury has led to allegations of police payoffs.

Petaluma Sewage Disposal Inadequate, Engineer Says

Petaluma's 2-year-old sewage disposal plant is already inadequate and must be improved to the tune of $3.6 million, a consulting engineer told the city council last ngiht.

Max Griffith of Yoder, Orlab and Associates, said that the $2 million plant completed in 1968 is already at 90 per cent of its capacity and is not doing the job it should.

Noting that Petaluma ranks 23 on the state-wide list of water polluters, Griffith said that standards set by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board will grow even more stringent and that plans must be made now to halt pollution of the Petaluma River.

The enginner said the main cause of the pollution appears to be the inability of the disposal plant to treat solid waste material. Griffith said that a much larger amount of solid waste finds its way into the river than should be tolerated.

He also noted that the grease content of the river is 10 times stronger than the state average and recommended a study be made to pinpoint the causes. Griffith said the 1965 study showed the largest grease contributors to be the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery, Sebastopol Meat Co. and poultry producers.

Griffith said that if construction is under way in two years, the cost will probably reach $3.6 million although alternatives should be considered.

He said that as an interim step, the city should lease the Ben C. Gerwick property adjacent to the new sewage disposal plant for storage of extra solid wastes.

He also suggested that the city find its place in the regional bay delta sewage disposal plant and not spend any more money than necessary to conform with the plan.

Griffith also suggested the city study the physical-chemical process that has recently been developed for sewage disposal, but warned the more sophisticated method may run costs up to $5 million.

City Engineer David A. Young asked the council to study the highly technical report for a month and to schedule a special session on it in late August or early September.

Marijuana Case In Superior Court

William Paul Lipps, 29, of Fairfax, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of possessing marijuana after a preliminary hearing in municipal court.

He is to appear for arraignment Monday.

Lipps was arrested in a Fairfax residence April 14 where he was house-sitting for two friends who had been arrested on suspicion of setting up a mail order drug business.

Police said they noticed a heavy odor of what appeared to be marijuana in the house when they returned in connection with the other case, and after obtaining a search warrant, they came back and found about seven ounces of suspected pot.

Petaluma Education Budgets Set

The Petaluma Board of Education adopted its budgets for 1970-71 last night and heard that an additional $120,000 may be forthcoming from the state.

The budget for the high school district of $4,863,666 represented an increase of $346,418 over the 1969-70 budget and the elementary district budget of $2,445,970 was an increase of $196,331.

The budgets will be subject to a public hearing on Aug. 4 at 8 p.m.

Schools Supt. Lesly Meyer said that as a result of the adopted state budget, the districts should each receive an additional $60,000 which had not been included in the budgets.

He said the $120,000 figure was only an estimate since no firm commitment had been received from the state. The state funds are expected to be considered in September when salary negotiations begin with teachers.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

NAME — Tentatively named the new high school Casa Grande High School in line with board policy to name schools after land grants.

ELECTION — Elected Sol Fishman as board president and Dr. William M. Kortum as board clerk.

SPRINKLERS — Awarded the contract for a sprinkler system at the Valley Vista School to Cagwin and Dorward of San Rafael at $9,948 and McDowell School sprinkler contract to Economy Garden Supply of Oakland at $5,113.

MEETINGS — Changed the Aug. 11 meeting to Aug. 4 and cancelled the Aug. 25 meeting.

Tennis Buffs Get No Help, Just Sympathy

Tennis buffs last night petitioned the Corte Madera Town Council for "equal time" on the town's two courts for seasoned players to that allowed learners under the Park and Recreation Department's summer recreation program.

While sympathizing with the tennis players and agreeing that more tennis courts are needed in the town, the council refused to upset the summer program's timetable.

Joseph Wagner of 33 Birch Avenue, a petition signer, said the recreation department's use of the courts is not allowing use by others from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays.

"This started out as a five-week program in May," Wagner said, and now it is running through August. "Why can't the recreation department use the courts in the afternoon and leave the mornings open for regular tennis players?" he asked.

"There is a dire need for additional courts," Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff agreed, "but we have an equal obligation to the young and old under this innovative program.

The council agreed and tabled the matter until September.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

HOME OCCUPATION — Approved unanimously a Home Occupation permit request to practice family counseling from William M. Nagata of 14 Endeavor Drive.

PARK RULES — Approved unanimously park rules and regulation for group use of the town park and recreation facilities. The rules were drafted in a joint session last Monday with the Park and Recreation Commission.

PUBLIC CONDUCT — Approved unanimously introduction of an ordinance governing conduct on public property. The ordinance will become effective 30 days after passage.

PARKING STANDARDS — Held open a public hearing on parking space standards when it appeared that the council would vote 2 to 2 on the measure. Mayor Edward W. Colthurst, the fifth vote, was absent from last night's meeting. The new standards would give the town engineer the option of setting parking standards, two councilmen claimed in objection to the measure.

WATERCOURSE OBSTRUCTION — Tabled an ordinance which would put the financial burden on property owners of keeping Corte Madera Creek and other waterways clear of debris. The council refused to consider the ordinance until definitions of waterways were included.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned until its next regular meeting July 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

Drug Suspect Is Arrested

A 19-year-old Marin City man has been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs, marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia, after Novato police observed him sitting alone in his auto.

Released on $500 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court was Larry James Stover, of 89 Cole Drive, Apt. 19.

Stover was sitting in his car at 7:15 p.m. Sunday in front of 575 Sutro Avenue, police reported. A check of his auto license showed a $16 traffic warrant outstanding from San Francisco. In searching his car, police found a wood and brass pipe, cigarette roller, a small quantity of vegetable matter thought to be marijuana and pills.

Petaluma Vandals Hit School Property

Vandals sprayed paint and damaged portable classrooms at Petaluma Senior High School during the weekend, school officials told police yesterday.

Telephones and fixtures were torn off walls and desks ransacked and overturned. A damage estimate was not available.

Warrant Issued

A bench warrant with bail set at $1,000 was issued yesterday in Marin Superior Court for Johnny Grinner Jr., 20, of no fixed address, who is accused of stealing a car in Marin City May 30, 1969.

New Tiburon School Set For Acceptance

Also on the agenda is election of board officers and a report from the committee formed to screen applicants for the post of district superintendent.

Two Scholars Reject Reagan Commendation

DAVIS (UPI)—Two Davis High School graduates unhappy with Gov. Ronald Reagan's education policies are returning certificates awarded by Reagan that commended them for outstanding scholastic achievement.

Elaine Kasimatis and Karin Von Abrams disclosed their rejection of the certificates in a letter to Rep. Robert J. Leggett, D-Vallejo. They also sent Leggett the certificates designating them "California Governor's Scholars" and asked him to return them to Reagan.

"In view of the Reagan Administration's policies toward education, we consider it ironic, and not a little hypocritical, that the governor should undertake to commend students for high scholastic achievement," the girls said in the letter.

PRINTED IN RECORD

Leggett, who had the letter printed in the Congressional Record last week, said he placed the letter on record "for the purpose of underscoring the fact that our best and brightest young people are being antagonised by our distorted priorities."

The girls questioned how certificate winners could be chosen fairly when equally bright students in less affluent districts receive poorer instruction because of Reagan's fiscal policies.

"We are fortunate to have attended school in one of the best-financed districts in the state," their letter said. "Yet even here we see the budget cuts and harmful program alterations that Reagan policies require.

DIFFERENT VIEW

"We wonder how many students in less prosperous districts, with potentials equal to or greater than ours, will never be recognized either as Governor's Scholars or simply as people with something extra to contribute to society," they said.

"It is no honor to be named a Reagan scholar," they added.

Karin, 17, said she will attend the University of California at Santa Cruz in the fall. Elaine, 18, plans to go to UC Davis. Both girls maintained straight "A" averages through their four years of high school.

Priority List For Teachers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The National Education Association's new president says teachers should be reasoning activists who are "both faithful to our profession and sensitive to the political facts of life."

President Helen Pate Bain of Nashville, Tenn., told the teacher organization's 108th annual convention Monday that "we and education will fail if we lose sight of the legislative realities of our profession."

She urged a list of priorities including state laws to achieve "fair contracts" and lessen the need for teacher strikes; state laws to provide teacher autonomy because "we must control our own profession;" adequate schools financing; "meaningful and significant" student involvement; and creation of human relations centers.

It is "imperative that we tool up our political might to defend the right of every child to be given an equal chance to grow," she said.

"We will be neither so reasonable as to acquiesce to the status quo nor so irrational as to try to impose instant perfection," she said.

Delegates at the convention's last day adopted a resolution calling for the development of means to improve "police-community and student-police relations." The resolution declared that "improved human relations is essentiai to school environment."

Delegates also rejected a resolution which would have put the organization on record as opposing American policies in Indochina.

Donald E. Morrison, 45, a history and social studies teacher from San Diego, Calif, was named president-elect. He will take office a year from now.

Navigators' Island is the old name for the Samoan Islands.

Record Forms To Be Given Out

Don's be surprised by that policeman knocking on your door this week — he just wants to give you a record form to help keep track of property that could conceivable be stolen or lost.

Joseph Brusatori, San Rafael police chief, announced that uniformed patrolmen will be passing out the forms, for serial number records which permit identification of appliances, credit cards and other property, in residential neighborhoods.

Stolen proferty is often unrecoverable, Brusatori said, because no record of serial numbers has been kept.

Man Gets Short Term For Pot

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Richard Brooks Hardy, 24, former Massachusetts resident who now lives in Petaluma, on probation for one year and ordered him to spend one weekend in jail for a marijuana conviction.

He also fined Hardy $150 and ordered him not to use or possess narcotics nor to associate with persons who do.

Hardy was stopped for speeding in Novato on Feb. 21 and admitted that he was "stoned" at the time.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

18-Year-Old Vote Gains; Demos Plan Strategy On Tax Reform

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to give 18-year-olds the right to vote and all other rights of adulthood—except to buy liquor—has been approved by the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

The committee Monday approved on a voice vote and sent to the floor a proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton. If approved by two-thirds of both legislative houses and by a majority of the voters in November, it would take effect Jan. 1, 1972.

The signature of Gov. Ronald Reagan would not be needed.

The proposed amendment was previously approved by the Assembly Elections and Constitutional Amendments Committee.

It would extend the rights of adulthood, such as voting, sitting on juries and signing contracts, to persons 18 years old but would not allow them to buy liquor.

The measure, however, would allow the legislature later to increase the age for rights other than voting.

DEMO DEMANDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate Democrats are prepared to withhold their votes on Gov. Ronald Reagan's $1 billion tax revision program unless additional aid to local schools is included, Sen. George Moscone said today.

Moscone, Democratic floor leader, said that after an unsuccessful attempt last week to force Reagan to grant more school aid in his $6.59 billion budget, Democrats are now aiming at Reagan's tax shift legislation.

"We've decided to make our fight on tax reform," the San Francisco lawmaker told newsmen.

He said Democrats were now undecided in what form their demands would be made. He said they were searching for a "consensus of the caucus."

The governor's tax revision plan is divided into two parts, with one segment requiring a two-thirds Senate approval, or 27 votes. Republicans now command only 20 votes, which means they must receive Democratic support for passage of the entire program.

Moscone said several Democrats, members of the recalcitrant 13 who withheld support for the budget, believed the fight could be better fought on the tax issue.

He said they were reluctant to press demands with a fiscal crisis facing them if the state went budgetless for too long a period.

INSURANCE CURB

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan today signed legislation to prevent insurance firms from canceling fire, homeowner and personal property insurance without good cause.

Author of the measure, which Reagan proposed, was Assemblyman Robert G. Beverly, R-Manhattan Beach.

The governor said the bill was prompted by cases in which insurance companies canceled policies in areas hit by large fires and urban riots.

Insurers have previously been able to cancel policies "arbitrarily," Reagan said, "without giving any reason for their action."

The new law, which Reagan called "a key part" of his "consumer protection program" allows cancellation only for certain reasons, such as nonpayment of premiums, fraud and gross negligence.

It also requires insurers to give policy-holders 45 days notice of intention to cancel.

POLLUTION ACT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill giving conservationists the right to seek court orders to halt activities of polluters has moved a step closer to winning Assembly passage.

The Assembly Judiciary Committee Monday approved the bill by Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, and sent it to the Ways and Means Committee on a voice vote.

Current law requires individuals or organizations such as the Sierra Club to prove they are in danger of being damaged by a pollution action before the courts will allow them to sue a firm or individuals to halt the act.

The Hayes bill gives the courts the right to order the pollution be stopped, but the person or group which files the suit is not entitled to a financial settlement for damages.

The measure applies to pollution of public lands but does not affect privately held land.

DDT BAN DEAD

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill virtually banning DDT in California by 1973 is dead for the current session of the legislature.

The Assembly Agriculture Committee Monday defeated the measure by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek. The same committee rejected a similar Nejedly bill last year.

The bill, at the request of chairman William Ketchum, R-Paso Robles, was assigned to a between-sessions legislative study.

"That's about two years too late," Nejedly complained later. He argued the pesticide should be outlawed as soon as possible because of its alleged detrimental effects on the natural environment.

In 1969, the committee defeated Nejedly legislation calling for gradual elimination of DDT and other chlorinated hydrocarbon pesticides. It approved legislation giving the state director of agriculture more power to administratively ban such bugkillers.

Nejedly's bill would have outlawed the use of DDT in California after Dec. 31, 1972. But the agriculture director could still authorize its use when he found there was "no reasonably effective and practical alternative."

Pair Nabbed On Suspicion Of Burglary

A San Rafael man and a 17-year-old girl were arrested yesterday on suspicion of burglary after police received a report that a car was being burglarized on Fourth Avenue.

Booked at Marin County Jail was David Charles McReynolds, 19, of 821 Fourth Street, and at Marin County Juvenile Hall Carol Marlene Heath, 17, of 519 C Street.

They were arrested at 7:50 p.m. about a block away from the car parked in the 1200 block of Fourth Street. The car was owned by Marvin Weissensee of 141 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo.

McReynolds was held to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Jury Trial Set In Burglary Case

A jury trial was set yesterday for the week of Sept. 28 in Marin Superior Court for Steven Joseph O'Brien, 21, of Corte Madera, and Robert Donzill Price, 18, of Marin City, who are accused of burglarizing a Mill Valley residence on June 6.

The two were arrested inside a house at 28 Vasco Drive, which police said had been ransacked although nothing appeared to be missing.

Alto Sanitary Budget Adopted

A $4,000 budget for 1970-71 was adopted last night by directors of the Alto Sanitary District, Director Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported.

Heynen said the budget, which will be used chiefly for maintenance of sewer lines, will keep the district's tax rate at 5 cents, which will generate $840 in revenue. The remainder of the needed money will come from the district's reserve fund (which now exceeds $10,000) and franchise fees and interest on the reserves.

The board also voted to pay district directors $25 for each monthly meeting they attend, according to Heynen.

Banjo Player To Be Soloist

A San Rafael banjo player was selected to perform with the San Francisco Symphony pops concert under the direction of Arthur Fiedler at 8:30 p.m. today in the San Francisco Civic Auditorium.

Doug Karr, owner of Karr Music Store, will play solo tenor banjo in three songs from "Paint Your Wagon." The concert is entitled, "An Evening with Lerner and Loewe."

He played with the pops concert under Fiedler two years ago.

Trustees Overrule Textbook Critics

The Novato Unified School District board last night adopted textbooks for next school year, but not before the district came under some sharp criticism on the way some teachers were teaching.

Phillip Coady of 747 Bradley Avenue told the board that it should read and study some of the supplementary texts they were approving, as these texts contained "inflammatory material."

"Teachers in American history and social science are not using the texts, but using the time for political indoctrination of the students," Coady charged. He said that students were afraid of disagreeing with the teachers because they would be "downgraded." Coady said he had been studying these supplementary texts for the past five years.

Trustee William G. Schneeflock agreed, saying that his children bring home ideas from the classrooms that lead to heated family discussions.

"It's the duty of parents to do some of the educating of our own children, indoctrinating them the way we think they should be," Schneeflock answered.

Coady said one class studied Che Guevara for three weeks, and his son, a member of the class, did not know that they were studying communism.

Sue Johnson, Novato Advance reporter, said she did not see any harm in telling the students that "we are imperialists in South America."

Paul C. Mobley, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction, said that the supplemental texts were aimed at adding to the main text and should give divergent views.

Coady said that would be all right for college students who are adults, but not for 15-year-old children.

Supt. James G. Bunker said that a single text book could not be used. He cited as an example that the same United States history book used in California could not be used in Alabama or Georgia.

The board approved the list 6-0 with Trustee Leonora Dougherty absent.

Novato Unified School District Board Also:

REORGANIZATION — By unanimous vote, named William G. Schneeflock, president; Dan H. Barber, vice president; Carolyn M. Crabtree, clerk and Ronald D. Schenck, trustee association representative. It continued 8 p.m. the first and third Mondays at the administration building as board meeting dates and adopted the present rules for the board and the existing civil defense plan.

GRADES — Approved pass-no credit, or pass-fail grading for physical education and personal typing classes at Novato and San Marin high schools for next school year. It was tried experimentally during the past school year.

PAVING — Approved $3,525 for changing the fencing and putting rock on an enlarged parking lot at Marion School, and $668 for fencing for 195 feet on the west side of the Marin Oaks School site to close off a vacated road. The money will come from the community service fund.

ELECTION — Accepted the offer of Gayle Thompson, senior at San Marin High School and seven other high school students to deliver election literature on July 24 and 25 for the district which is making a second attempt to increase the tax limit by 85 cents per $100 assessed valuation at a special election July 28.

BORROW — Authorized the staff to borrow up to $2 million from Marin County until tax money is collected.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Thursday at the administration building to meet with the citizens committee for the tax increase.

Novato Parents Blast School Bus Decision

Cutting home-to-school bus transportation last week backfired last night on the Novato Unified School District trustees when approximately 40 irate parents questioned the board's decision.

Irene Conte of 514 Rowland Boulevard led off by asking the boards: "Why not transportation?" She pointed out that the board put $80,000 from transportation into undistributed reserves, and was told that the state pays about 40 per cent of the transportation costs.

This opened up the feeling of the parents and for a few moments the board was beseiged with unidentified people calling out such things as:

"People believe no transportation is a big joke.

"Cut out all athletics and put the money in buses.

"Cut out all field trips.

"Who's going to be responsible for the first child killed crossing the highway?"

When order was restored, Trustee William G. Schneeflock told Mrs. Conte that the district may get nothing in federal aid, little in state aid and that the board felt that teachers had the first priority.

"If you don't have kids in the classrooms, you won't need teachers. Children aren't going to walk from Black Point or Bel Marin Keys to school," Mrs. Conte answered.

Leota Cooney of 615 Manuel Drive said it wasn't right for the district to have 19 unused buses while administrators such as Supt. James G. Bunker "drive our cars."

"If my kids must walk, they can too," she said.

Earlene Wilson of 10 Gertrude Lane asked if the tax limit increase passed, would the district restore bus service?

Trustees Marett B. Boissevain and Schneeflock said that they would then vote to restore it.

Trustee Dan H. Barber responded to the person asking who would be guilty if a child was killed crossing the highway. He said it would be the voters for not approving the tax increase.

After some discussion on cutting out field trips, athletics, summer school and adult education, Schneeflock said the question would have to wait until after the July 28 election.

Briones Park Power Line Pact Reached

MARTINEZ (UPI)—East Bay Regional Park District directors reached agreement Monday with the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. for the relocation of a proposed 239,000-volt electrical transmission line in the Briones Regional Park area.

Richard C. Trudeau, the district's general manager, said the new route would be built into valleys, "screened by hilly ramparts" and would be relatively unobtrusive to park visitors.

PG&E, with State Public Utilities Commission and Superior Court approval, had planned a line that would have been visible from more than half the park.

Under the agreement, the right of way the utility firm had purchased from previous land owners will be traded for a right of way at the new location.

There will be five towers, instead of six, within the park.

Guilty Plea Filed In Weed Case

Edwin Michael Richmond, 21, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of possessing a kilo of marijuana in Mill Valley on Nov. 13.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Sept. 14. He indicated that the youth would probably receive a 30-day jail sentence if he has a good record.

Richmond was arrested after officers searched his illegally parked car at Cascade Reservoir.

Alcohol, Drug Abuse Manual Is Published

The Community Planning Group for Alcohol and Drug Abuse Problems and Catholic Social Services of Marin have prepared a manual listing information on about 40 service agencies dealing with alcohol and drug abuse.

The pamphlet, already widely distributed to city and county law enforcement agencies as a referral guide, lists the hours of operation, type of services and treatments, fees, eligibility and addresses of the agencies where help for alcohol and drug problems can be found.

According to Denis A. Ragan of Corte Madera, who helped draft the manual, the pamphlet may be obtained by writing Catholic Social Services at 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael.

Anne And Charles' First U.S. Visit

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI) — When Prince Charles and Princess Anne visit the Nixons at the White House this month — July 16-18 — it will be strictly to have a good time.

No affairs of state, nor even affairs of the heart. The 21-year-old Prince Charles, heir to the throne, will not for instance be eyeing Tricia Nixon, 24, as a possible future Queen. Tricia herself has already knocked that romantic idea on the head, noting for one thing he is too young for her.

IT WILL BE the royal children's first visit to America, a treat both have wanted for years but never realized until the invitation from President Nixon's daughters. They will be the guests of Tricia, her sister, Julie, and Julie's husband, David Eisenhower.

Charles will stay in the Lincoln bedroom at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., and Anne, 19, will sleep in the Queen's Bedroom. Her mother stayed there when she visited the U.S. capital.

The White House lodgings are a courtesy seldom extended to heads of state on official visits in recent years. Royal guests and foreign leaders usually are quartered at Blair House across the street.

With the President and Mrs. Nixon staying in the background, Tricia and Julie will lead Charles and Anne through three days of American-style activities.

THEY WILL eat hamburgers and hot dogs at a cookout at Camp David. They will visit the space exhibit at the Smithsonian Institution, tour the Capitol and cruise down the Potomac to visit Mount Vernon, see the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center north of Washington and watch the Washington Senators play baseball.

Charles and Anne will be honored at a Saturday night dinner-dance at the White House by contemporaries in Washington's social circles. The word around Buckingham Palace is that it could be "the biggest party ever held at the White House by the Nixon family."

Anne will temporarily put away her trendy trouser suits and don a long white evening gown with jewels that may include diamonds, pearls and aquamarines.

In Washington, both Anne and Charles will be free to say and do as they wish. "They are on their own there," Prince Philip, their father, said recently.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE said they may be interviewed on television and will probably hold a news conference with the accent on youth.

Both have appeared on British television several times and handled themselves well. Both are good conversationalists.

BACHELOR HEIR to the British throne, Prince Charles will be a visitor to the United States beginning next week. Shown here with an unidentified young lady as he left the London theater last April, the prince has several girl friends but dates none of them frequently. (AP Wirephoto)

Anne and Charles will arrive in Washington aboard a presidential jetliner that will pick them up at the end of a royal family state visit to northwest Canada. The Queen and Prince Philip fly straight home to London from Canada.

Buckingham Palace sources said Anne, who will be 20 Aug. 15, would like to dance in a Washington discotheque and tour an American department store.

The White House has said there will be no special male escort for Anne.

CHARLES HOPES to see Congress at work, the sources said.

The future king has never met Tricia Nixon although she attended his investiture as Prince of Wales last July. Tricia met Princess Anne there and Anne later attended a dinner given for Tricia in London by the U.S. Ambassador, Walter H. Annenberg.

Making the trip with Anne will be her new lady in waiting, Mary Dawnay. Miss Dawnay, 34, is the great-granddaughter of Queen Victoria's favorite lady in waiting. A trained secretary who has done welfare work with spastic children, she and Anne are both keen horsewomen.

She looks after the Princess's correspondence, organizes her public engagements, knows what flowers Anne likes. She carries a large handbag with spare stockings, handerchiefs, tissues, white gloves, smelling salts and candy. She pays any bills Anne incurs.

A personal maid from Buckingham Palace also will accompany Anne. Charles will be accompanied by a valet and his personal equerry, David Checketts, a former Royal Air Force officer. Checketts, 40, is a short and squarely built man who, like Charles, is an avid fisherman.

IN ACCORDANCE with custom, the royal children will bring a special gift from the Queen for President and Mrs. Nixon. They will present their own separate gifts to Tricia and to Julie and David. Buckingham Palace wasn't saying what the gifts would be.

Neither Anne nor Charles will give autographs during the visit. Charles has politely explained to persistent admirers: "No member of our family ever signs autographs. If we gave one, we should have to spend half our time signing books. So we can't make any exceptions."

Both he and Anne will bring

Queenly Treatment For Run-Away While Her Sister Obeys Rules

DEAR HELEN:

It's enough to make me run off and go bad too. If you get special treatment for doing wrong, why not?

My sister lived with a guy for three months. Now she's back home and you'd think she was the queen. Mom doesn't make her do anything around the house, or obey our deadline on dates. I'm only a year younger. (I'm 16 and my sister is 17), but I'm punished and bossed, and she isn't. Not that I don't deserve it. I'm just saying Sis does too.

If she is living here, shouldn't she be under house rule, and not a pampered visitor? — M.C.

DEAR M:

She certainly should. Your mother must realize she can't spoil a girl into good behavior. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm embarrassed on dates because almost every bone in my body cracks. Lately I've got a new boy friend. Just think how he'll feel if I crack when he hugs me — like maybe he's broken something.

Is there any way to stop being a — CRACKER

DEAR CRACKER:

I know of no way, though you might check with your doctor.

Why not kid about being a cracking good date? If you can't change a condition, you can often laugh it down to size. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Congratulations on telling "Watchful" how wrong he is (about there being no more faithful couples left). He tried to convince us that married men and women never turned down an outside offer.

I'm a 15-year-old with four sisters and one brother. My father has been the most fantastic person on earth, but he never could have made it without my mother. Together they brought up six kids; together they are sending three to college, one to high school and two through grade school. Together they have taught us all how to face life, and love it.

They could never be unfaithful to each other or to us. And this goes for the parents of many other kids I know. I hope "Watchful" soon realizes he is talking about the minority. As you say, Helen, what an obsessed person looks for, he usually finds, whether it's always there or not. — OBSERVANT RATHER THAN WATCHFUL

DEAR HELEN:

I am a very young housewife with a six-month-old baby. We've just moved to California and I'm so lonely I could bawl. There isn't much extra money so I can't afford baby sitting while I go to clubs. The neighbors are all older and not very friendly. I can't very well walk up to a girl in the supermarket and make friends.

How do young couples find people like themselves when they are uprooted? — MRS. J.K.F.

DEAR MRS. F:

Sometimes those "supermarket friendships" are the best kind. Why not strike up a conversation with another young mother? She may be as lonely as you are. You might also try evening adult school while your husband babysits.

Suggestions, anyone? Those "transplanted" blues need all the help they can get. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Somber Colors

Fall will usher in a somber looking color season for day. Colors, even in patterned fabrics, are toned down, subdued. But for evening, the splashy, clear tones take over. In the toned-down category are such as Bill Blass's dulled greens, represented handsomely and expensively in a midi coat with sable collar and cuffs.

Advice To Newlyweds: No Sense Saving Money

NEW YORK (UPI) — A London economist breaks sharply with all the financial experts who advise newlyweds to make saving money as much as part of the marriage ritual as the honeymoon.

Saving for a "rainy day" is not sensible in the early days of marriage. Start stashing away later.

The economist is Prof. Maurice Peston, of the University of London. And what he does is outline a savings plan based on the fact that a husband's—and possibly the wife's—income will soar "astronomically" in the years ahead.

The economist explains, "If you are bound to be receiving higher real incomes in the course of time-these incomes being well above those required to maintain a minimum standard of living, let alone bare subsistence-it does not make sense to save excessively at the earliest stages of your earning life."

THE ECONOMIST points out that today' young marrieds have lived all their lives in a period of rising incomes. Prices, of course, have risen too, eating into those increases.

But looking at the economy in Britain alone, he says that by the time "our married couple" of today reach their 60's-say around the year 2,009, incomes will have increased in money terms by 800 per cent, in real terms by 150 per cent.

Part of his projected increase is in the ever-growing trend of wives taking on paying jobs. If it continues, he says, "real incomes . . . will be higher still."

Peston discusses family budgets in "Getting Married," published by the British Medical Association. The current issue is the 15th of this annual publication.

HE MAKES A case for a savings plan as the years go by - "especially, if quite correctly, you do not regard social security and supplementary benefits like pensions sufficient . . . It also makes sense to save for retirement," he continues.

Peston makes a case for borrowing also. "People do save to raise the deposit on a house, and that is reasonable if you cannot get a 100 per cent mortgage."

"But if you are fortunate enough to be able to borrow all the money to buy a house and pay it back over 30 years, do so with alacrity." He mentions the tax relief on the interest payments and that the house is free of capital gains tax.

PESTON DELVES into the economics of "buying good things to last" also. He points out this is an ever changing world not only economically but from the technological viewpoint.

"There is no objection in principle to buying something to last a lifetime," he says, "but it is worth considering whether something which will wear out more quickly can be replaced by something ever better still in a few years . . ."

LOUISE ANN Fischer was wed to Robert J. Klein in the garden of the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Mill Valley. She is the daughter of Dr. Fred Lewis Fisher, who performed the ceremony, and Mrs. Fisher of Mill Valley. Robert's parents are Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Klein, also of Mill Valley.

Anne Follette Becomes A Bride

Wipe Blades

On rainy nights, windshield wiper blades that are coated with road grease turn windshields into an oily blur. To protect driving vision, clean blades regularly. Wipe them with a damp sponge sprinkled with dry baking soda.

BRITAIN'S PRINCESS Anne and her brother, Prince Charles, will be guests of the Nixon daughters this month on their first visit to America. Photo was taken at Epsom last June. The royal visitors will stay in the White House, a rare privilege seldom extended even to heads of state. (UPI Telephoto)

British Royalty Eager For America

along some specially signed portraits of themselves for souvenir presentation to officials and staff who render them personal service during the visit.

CHARLES HAS just finished his university education at Cambridge, having studied archeology, philosophy, literature and liberal arts. He will train as a jet pilot in the Royal Air Force starting next March, then spend at least three years in the Royal Navy.

No longer the shy lad of his prep school days, Charles has a flair for acting and was a star of several drama club reviews at Cambridge. In one, he appeared singing in a garbage can.

He enjoys classical music, ballet and opera. He is an accomplished cello player. He is a fair piano player and can handle drums, the trumpet and bagpipes. He plays polo and cricket, neither very well, but prefers fishing and swimming.

A millionaire since his 21st birthday because of the lands he holds with his many royal titles, Charles lives in a three room bachelor apartment on the second floor of Buckingham Palace. It has a private entrance and stereo music everywhere, even in the bathroom.

HIS TASTE IN both clothing and women is conservative. He has several girl friends but dates none of them frequently or seriously enough to provoke talk of imminent marriage. Charles in public has relaxed considerobly from the sometimes stiff deportment of his father that he once emulated. He looks more like his mother. He has heep blue eyes, thick brown hair and a fresh complexion. Like the Queen, he can be obstinate and determined without creating a fuss. He has the Queen's warm smile and her keen sense of humor.

ANNE MORE CLOSELY resembles her father. She has light blue eyes, light blonde hair and sharp features. She is five foot seven and measures 34-26-36.

An active, outdoor girl who likes to dance the night away at parties, she is happiest when "something is going on." She is restless, easily bored, and seeks things that are new and amusing — but within the limits of royal conduct.

Like Philip, she is outspoken and will utter the occasional epithet when angered. She recently said, "I saw bloody stars" when she was thrown from her horse in a steeplechase competition. "Bloody" as used by the British is stronger than an American "damn."

She is a first class horsewoman who has competed and won honors in leading shows around Britain. She plays good tennis, swims and sails well.

Although she did not go to college, Anne is no dullard.

"THERE ARE no flies on me," she once said. She writes her own speeches and insists they not be censored by Buckingham Palace although they can be tart in spots.

She loves pop music and dancing. She enjoys eating but has to watch her weight. A stylish dresser,, she favors trouser suits and culottes.

She has scores of hats and has been called "Anne of the Thousand Hats" in British newspapers. White is her favorite after-dark color. She likes bright pinks, orange, green and blue for daytime wear.

After the wedding the reception was given at the bride's parents home. The newlyweds left on a Southern California wedding trip and will live in Riverside.

Expectant Mother's Smoking May Affect Baby's Health

By JAMES WILKINSON
London Express Service

LONDON—A new warning to expectant mothers who smoke was given in the medical newspaper Medical News-Tribune.

Research has indicated that these women are jeopardizing the health of their babies.

For expectant mothers who smoke 10 or more cigarettes a day are nearly 50 per cent more likely to have babies who are prone to fits or convulsions.

The evidence comes from a longterm study started in 1958 and called the perinatal mortality study.

It already is known that women who smoke during pregnancy on the average have lighter babies than mothers who don't smoke, and this carries with it increased risks of trouble during the baby's early life.

The new facts will be used by doctors to stress the dangers of smoking to pregnant women.

The survey studied the development of 17,000 babies all born during the same week in 1958. Nearly 90 per cent of these babies were re-examined seven years later.

The evidence showing the link between fits and smoking was disclosed to a meeting in Denmark by Dr. Euan Ross of Bristol University Department of Child Health.

There is evidence that a mother's smoking habits can permanently affect her child's brain, he said.

Among the children with some form of convulsive illness certain other features were evident such as backwardness at reading and some social maladjustment, he said.

Belvedere Budget Set, Tax Rate Cut Likely

The Belvedere City Council last night approved without discussion an operational budget of $333,390 proposed by City Mgr. Richard L. Cavalli for fiscal 1970-71.

Capital outlay budget proposals which would raise the total budget to $460,640, an increase of $73,071 over last year's total of $387,569, were tabled till August 3 for discussion.

A finance committee composed of councilmen Thomas S. Price and Willard G. Pittman had proposed earlier, based on these figures, that the council consider reducing the tax rate for 1970-71 by 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The 1969-70 rate was $1.75.

An increase in the assessed valuation of property is expected to cover the higher outlay, according to Cavalli.

Included in the operational budget approved last night were salary increases of 7.5 per cent for all city employees except Cavalli, who received an equivalent increase in auto allowance, and 2.5 per cent merit increases for two policemen. Salaries are to cost $147,402 as opposed to $131,234 for 1969-70, 13.3 per cent increase caused by new hiring in the middle of fiscal 1969-70 and the raises.

The council also approved several drainage measures recommended by a joint Tiburon-Belvedere study committee to hold down flood damage during next winter's rainy season.

Expenditure of $600 to grade between Tiburon Highway and Lagoon Road to create a shallow holding area and direct water into an existing drainage ditch and $3,500 to biuld a silt trap for water draining from Laurel Avenue into Belvedere Lagoon was approved. The money is to come from the $4,500 in the capital outlay budget proposed for flood control.

Belvedere City Council Also:

SLIDE REPAIRS — Tabled a request by Vernon Perry, a prospective purchaser of property at 288 Beach Road, for city aid in repairing slide damage estimated by consulting engineers to cost a total of $23,000 to repair. The request will be considered July 20 if Perry, or the owner, Fidelity Savings and Loan, has obtained a survey delineating city property in the slide area and presents engineering requirements for repairing the slide.

UNDERGROUNDING — Set for July 20 a public hearing on establishment of an underground district in Belvedere and directed City Mgr. William L. Cavalli to prepare a resolution to be proposed at the meeting for undergrounding estimated to cost approximately $5,880.

KENNELS—Tabled for adoption August 3 an ordinance forbidding any household to keep more than three dogs, four months of age or older, without a variance approved by the council.

DEBRIS BOX — Tabled for adoption July 20 an ordinance draft regulating debris boxes on sidewalks and streets

ECOLOGY — Heard a report from Councilman Thomas S. Price that Mayor Denis T. Rice of Tiburon had suggested that a citizens committee on ecology Price proposed last week be made a joint Tiburon-Belvedere project. Price solicited volunteers to serve on the committee to formulate goals and methods for city-level ecology programs.

ROCK WALLS — Directed Cavalli to build an asphalt berm and erect no-parking signs on Bay View and Bella Vista avenues at Beach Road to protect the crumbling rock walls in the area. City Atty. Robert F. MacKay reported that repair of the walls was solely the responsibility of the owners.

NURSERY — Approved application by the Belvedere Nursery School to build a nine-space parking lot and to build a school on land partly zoned for residential use. Proceedings for rezoning the residential portion of the property were begun and a variance granted so the school could begin construction before the required formal resolution and public hearing on the rezoning.

LICENSE — Approved a revocable license to allow Richard Griffith to cantilever his house over a one-foot strip of city property and two feet of a tide lot zoned for recreation.

ZONING — Amended the zoning ordinance to include a small area previously omitted.

SANITARY DISTRICT — Directed Cavalli to prepare a letter to the Marin Municipal Water District backing Tiburon Sanitary District's request to be excluded from a proposed Sanitary Improvement District which is planned to include several sanitary districts in Southern Marin.

CLOSED SESSION — Went into closed session to discuss complaints against an employee.

Water Board Sets Hearing On Merger

The Marin Municipal Water District board will hold a public hearing tomorrow at 8 p.m. on proposed plans to enter into the sewage business by merging with three Marin sanitary districts.

The three districts, Homestead, Alto and Altamonte, asked more than a year ago that their operation be assumed by the water district.

The city of Mill Valley may oppose the proposed merger as the three districts use Mill Valley facilities for treatment and disposal of their sewage. The Mill Valley city manager has indicated the city itself may be interested in taking over the sanitary operations in the three areas.

Other items on the regular 1 p.m. agenda include an agreement with Marin County on a proposed bicycle path bridge over a district pipeline in Tamalpais Valley, hiring of consultants and legal counsel for a $11.5 million bond election proposed for November, and right-of-way agreements with U.S. Development Corp. of San Rafael, Tamalpais High School District, and Edward H. Kuykendall of 305 Cape Court, Mill Valley.

Jazz Festival To Include Soul Food

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—New Orleans soul food will complement New Orleans jazz at the 17th annual Newport Jazz Festival this weekend.

Festival producer George Wein said Monday red beans and rice will be added to the concession menu this year.

Wein said the New Orleans food would be prepared by Buster Holmes, whose restaurant in the historic French Quarter of New Orleans long has been a meeting place for jazz musicians.

Hub Planners Vote Praise For Zucker

It took three votes, but the San Anselmo Planning Commission finally came down on the side of Paul C. Zucker, fired planning director of Marin County. . .but left it to the city council to make it official.

The commission last night split 3-3 on two resolutions to commend Zucker for his planning efforts, then voted 4-2 to ask the city council to send Zucker a letter praising his planning activities, reported John T. O'Rourke, assistant city engineer.

Voting for Zucker on the first votes were Ragnvald Bernt Jr., Duane C. Ragan and David A. Strassman. Voting against were Philip S. Heinecke, Allen J. Creighton and John H. Colteaux

Heinecke switched his vote on the third proposal for the 4-2 margin. Commissioner Martin Stuart was absent.

Commissioners opposing the Zucker encomium said they had too little first-hand knowledge of his work to make a judgment, O'Rourke said.

In another discussion, the commission agreed by 5-1, Colteaux dissenting, that no use permit will be needed for a campaign by Bruce Benedetti, 135 Madrone Avenue, to collect bottles, cans, paper and other refuse for recycling elsewhere. The commission decided the collecting is not a home occupation and therefore needs no permit.

The San Anselmo Planning Commissio also:

LAUNDRY — Approved a use permit for the Coinette Co. to operate a coin-operated laundry at 11 Madrone Avenue.

REZONING — Denied a request by Andrew P. Stafford to zone property at 180 Tunstead Avenue for apartments instead of duplexes.

EXTENSION — Denied a request by James M. Kennedy for a one-year extension of a variance granted last August 4 for property at 130 Sequoia Drive.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Ragan as alternate to the City-County Planning Committee. The city's representatives are Creighton and Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro.

FEES — Discussed use permit fees and decided no change is needed.

Polar bear paws are equipped with nonskid soles for travelling across ice.

Berkeley Firm Gets Rohnert Park Job

The contract for completion and widening of Southwest Boulevard was awarded last night by the Rohnert Park City Council.

Low bidder for the project was the O. C. Jones Co. of Berkeley at $168,249. The cost had been estimated at $171,894.

The contract includes the extension of the main artery from the railroad tracks into the El Colegio area and widening to four lanes from the railroad grade crossing through the planned Young America subdivision.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said plans for widening Synder Lane are nearly complete and may go out to bid next week so the two adjacent projects can be integrated.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

ASSESSMENT — Denied the request of Cofego Enterprises for assessment district proceedings to construct Santa Alicia Drive; and Cofego Drive from Commerce Boulevard to the railroad. Callinan said the firm headed by Paul Golis was already delinquent in taxes and that the property owner in between the parcels, Northern California Developers, was against the assessment district. Golis charged that the council was trying to hold up his developments. The council advised him to seek private financing as do other developers.

PIGEONS — Heard testimony on a proposed pigeon ordinance that would require pigeons to be kept 75 feet from an adjacent home. Pigeon owners argued that it would ban pigeons in residential zones and was too restrictive. Other residents argued for an outright ban on pigeons so they could barbecue in comfort. Callinan was asked to meet with both sides to settle the dispute.

TELEVISION — Received a break-down of costs on television program origination from Paul Ramyon of Stoere Cable Television and asked Callinan to consult local schools about the possibility of using video tape equipment for the televising of city council meetings.

POUND — Approved the expenditure of $250 to enclose the animal shelter so noise will not disturb residents of nearby apartments.

PARK — Authorized the purchase of 5.6 acres for a neighborhood park in the El Colegio area at a cost of $750 an acre from the Sonoma Campus Co.

State Sales Tax Hike Mainly Due To Inflation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The value of taxable retail sales in California rose by 6.5 per cent in the first quarter of 1970 but mainly because of inflation.

The State Board of Equalization said transactions totaled $9.9 billion, more than $600 million ahead of the first quarter last year. But the board said the increase was mostly due to higher prices rather than an increase in the volume of goods sold.

It said the rate of increase was the same as that recorded between the first quarter of 1969 and the same period the previous year. But the board said two-fifths of the increase represented a gain in goods distributed.

Sales by new and used car dealers were down about 9 per cent from those recorded in the first quarter last year, the board said.

Oakes Is Listed Much Improved, No Longer Critical

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Richard Oakes, the militant Indian leader who was felled by a pool cue June 11, was removed Monday from the "critical" list at San Francisco General Hospital.

Oakes, who was struck during a tavern brawl, still is "serious but he is very much improved" and can open his eyes and sit up with the help of nurses, the hospital added.

Tommy Prichert, a Samoan, is charged with assault in the case.

Oakes was a leader among Indians who seized Alcatraz Island, claiming unused federal land belongs to the Indians. The San Francisco Bay island is the site of an abandoned penitentiary.

Draft Head Rules Objectors Must Oppose All Wars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Selective Service has told local draft boards conscientious objectors must oppose all wars, not just the Vietnam War, and must be sincere in their beliefs to qualify for that draft classification.

Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr issued guidelines on the subject Monday, saying "a registrant who desires to choose the war in which he will participate is not a conscientious objector under the law. His objection must be to all wars rather than to a specific war."

He said the "primary tests" of an objector on religious, moral or ethical grounds "is the test of sincerity with which the belief is held." He said objectors should be examined to see "the nature and history of the process by which he acquired such beliefs."

WIND-WHIPPED BLAZE AT SAN QUENTIN

Firefighters from three departments battle grass fire by drenching tangled terrain at San Quentin with lengthy streams of water. The 3 p.m. fire yesterday was swiftly controlled by the prison fire squad with the assistance of the Larkspur and Kentfield fire departments, according to James W.L. Park, associate warden. The area burned was more than one of 40 acres behind staff residences on state-owned land outside the prison walls. There was no damage and the cause of the blaze is unknown, according to Park.

Board Stretches Wings On Budget

The Marin County Board of Education, empowered for the first time with full control of its own budget, last night stretched its wings a little and approved two major expenditures.

The board, however, wanted more time to cope with demands for salary increases by teachers and other employees and put those budgets over to a special session at 8 p.m. July 20.

Taking over from the board of supervisors responsibility for paying bills for many functions, the board of education last night approved a proposed budget of $384,526 for administrative services.

Byron Mauzy, director of business services, pointed out that this figure would allow an 8.5-cent tax rate for these services, lower than the approximately 10 cents predicted by the county administrator.

A comparison with last year's cost of $240,407 means little, he said, because the county formerly provided many services for the county schools such as gardening and janitorial work, not reflected in last year's figure.

The county schools now will pay the county for any such services on a contract basis, he explained.

Also approved last night was a budget of $20,000 for a personnel commission which will deal with nonteaching employees. Mauzy said this would include a $10,000 salary for a part-time director of the commission.

The board also set interviews for next Tuesday and Wednesday for applicants to the personnel commission. These will be scheduled to begin at the county schools office at 7:30 p.m. each day.

Three persons will form the commission, and it was noted last night that more than 25 persons have been nominated or applied.

The board also learned last night that the nonteaching employees want a 7.5 per cent cost-of-living increase and that the teachers have proposed two new salary schedules which include raises up to 7 per cent. The administrative staff has also asked a 7 per cent increase.

Board member Marilyn R. Crowell said last night that she didn't like "not having the proposals to study before the meeting." Other members agreed with her to postpone the salary discussions to the workshop session July 20.

The board also balked last night on appointing members to committees.

Mrs. Crowell said, "I've said before and I say it now, I don't like the committee system."

The board has traditionally conducted much of its business at committee meetings with the whole board acting often as a rubber stamp for staff proposals.

It was decided to take up the whole matter of committees at the July 20 meeting.

The board met last night at San Quentin Prison and heard a report from Daryl A. Hopkins, valedictorian for the prison's Bayview School graduation this month, describe the school as "one of the best things going on here."

RICHARDSON TAKES GAVEL FOR BOARD

Inverness resident Lee C. Richardson Jr. last night was elected president of the Marin County Board of Education on which he has served since 1965.

Richardson, 40, is a technician for RCA Communications at Point Reyes, and served as vice president of the board during the past year.

Peninsulans Reassured On Ferry Plans

A director of the Golden Gate Bridge District today assured a gathering of Belvedere and Tiburon city officials and members of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce that Tiburon is not destined to become a major ferry terminal for Marinites commuting to San Francisco.

Joseph E. Sheeks told the breakfast meeting that Corte Madera will serve as the main terminal in Central Marin and that commuters will not flock to Tiburon.

Chamber president George Sugarman said that councilmen Anne L. Ellinwood and M. Carlisle Becker reported that Tiburon will form an advisory group to study modifications of the recently adopted Buskirk-Noble plan for downtown Tiburon. A member of the chamber will be appointed to the committee, Sugarman said.

The group also discussed new routes for Marin Transit Systems, the Marin City-based firm that operates feeder bus service to the Tiburon ferry, and called for more coordination between bus and ferry schedules.

The chamber will join the Marin County Industry-Education Council, Sugarman reported.

Hearing Opens In Store Vandalism

A preliminary hearing opened today in Marin Municipal Court for three International Typographical Union members charged with conspiring to damage property of Independent-Journal advertisers.

Opening testimony before Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. — who will decide whether there is sufficient evidence to hold the three for trial on the felony charges in superior court — was by merchants who found broken windows and chunks of lead.

The three men, Dennis Joseph Crowley, 41, of San Jose; James Robert Brucato, 31, of Santa Rosa, and Grant William Anders, 30, of Pleasant Hill, are charged with conspiring to break windows of six San Rafael stores and three Novato businesses.

The windows, which were broken on the night of June 2 and early morning of June 3, belonged to merchants who refused to discontinue advertising in the I-J.

The men were the first persons arrested in connection with such window smashing since the San Francisco Typographical Union 21 went on strike against the I-J in January. About 40 businesses have been vandalized.

Under questioning by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, owners or employees of Bellach Furniture, DeLong Chevrolet, McPhails Inc., Marin Sports Imports and Martin and Harris appliance service, all in San Rafael testified today.

They and representatives of Young Brothers and Johnson's Red Barn in Novato, told similar stories of finding holes in windows and chunks of lead in their stores, which they turned over to police.

Two other store owners were expected to testify later today.

The three union members were arrested by two sheriff's deputies about 1:30 a.m. June 3 on a frontage road leading to the Strawberry shopping center after the deputies heard a bulletin describing broken windows in San Rafael.

The three men reportedly had sling shots, chunks of lead and nuts and bolts and a list of stores in their car.

Car Theft Suspects Are Booked

Two 19-year-old youths were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday after they were reported to have forced a San Rafael man to write a $100 note and then stole his car in a dispute over damages in an auto accident a short time ago.

Jerry Wayne Hurd of Vallejo was booked on suspicion of car theft and robbery. Wymone Walker, of 3550 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, was booked on suspicion of robbery, car theft, possession of stolen property and credit card theft.

Police reported finding identification and credit cards under other names in Walker's wallet when he was apprehended in the car on Belvedere street.

Kenneth Michael Giakovnis, 24, of 18 G Street, San Rafael, told police that he had told Walker that he would pay $75 for minor damage to Walker's car in an accident in a parking lot a short time ago.

Yesterday, he reported, Walker, Hurd and a third man came to his house and demanded $100. They threatened him and forced him to sign a note for $100 and give them the car as collateral, he said, threatening to drive the car off a cliff in Marin City if no money was received by the end of the day.

Store Burglar Takes Clothing, Jewelry

A window-smashing burglar stole jewelry and leather clothing valued at $602 Saturday from the Aquarian Princess, 1527 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo police reported yesterday.

Owner Frank A. Parsons told police the break-in was between 3 and 8:30 a.m. The burglar broke a window to open the door, then entered and took earrings and necklaces, three velvet dresses, three leather coats and five leather vests.

Corte Madera Sewage Plan Still Refused

The Corte Madera Sanitary District board agreed last night that some residents along an unincorporated area of Lucky Drive near Corte Madera have no intention of ever building a sewage system as long as raw sewage can continue to be pumped into the bay.

Noting that the residents voted 11-8 against annexation to the Town of Corte Madera as a condition to joining the sanitary district, the board voted unanimously, Mayor Edward W. Colthurst absent, "not to bail them (the residents) out of anything."

The new round of quarreling came as the sanitary district board, made up of Corte Madera town councilmen, learned the residents plan to appeal the joint annexation condition to the Local Agency Formation Commission Thursday night.

"Since your board's position in this matter is well known," Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said, "the present application appears to be another in the long series of delaying tactics which have been deployed by some residents of Lucky Drive to avoid the costs of installing sewers."

The board acted to reaffirm its position declaring it would not approve annexation to the district alone, but added that if the residents wished to install their own system, the district would accept discharge on a contractual basis.

Usher told the board he felt some residents along Lucky Drive believed they would not pay for a sewage system if they annexed to the district, but thought the district would absorb the cost. They will pay the entire installation bill whether they annex or not he said.

Others, he claimed, know they will have to pay and that is the reason they are stalling. "They are very happy to continue discharging raw sewage into the bay," he said.

Usher called the planned action before The Formation Commission by the property owners who live on Lucky Drive between Fifer Avenue and Highway 101 "an idle act" without the sanitary district's approval and acceptance.

"Nobody has to take their sewage," agreed board member Robert P. Simmons. "My position is that they have had ample opportunity to enter the district, so now let them proceed with creating their own system."

Weed Possession Trial Scheduled

A jury trial has been set for the week of Aug. 24 in Marin Superior Court for Patricia Maryann O'Neill and Lawrence David Johnson, both 22, who were arrested in a drug raid last Oct. 9 on a house at 82 Southern Heights Boulevard, San Rafael.

They are charged with possessing pot, possessing it for sale and using the weed.

Trustees To Elect

The Shoreline Unified School District Board of Trustees will reorganize at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the district administration office to elect new officers and discuss the citizens' building advisory committee report.

Commission Opposes Strawberry Project

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night recommended that the county deny an application for a 202-unit apartment project in Strawberry and ask for redesign of an 18-unit townhouse development on Pelican Hill.

Planning Director Wayne E. Moody said neither area is inside Tiburon city limits, but the county planning department asked for the recommendations because the developers lie in Tiburon's sphere of interest.

The commission objected to the 202-unit development because of the high density sought, 17.7 dwelling units per acre. Moody said the commission asked the county to adhere to the densities contained in the Tiburon general plan, 1.1 to 2.5 units per acre.

Moody said the commission drew up a list of changes that it wanted made in the Pelican Hill Development. "The commissioners questioned the design, building arrangement and site planning and felt that the developer could do a better job with the large site that is available," he said.

Specifically criticized was the plan to build four groups of buildings and repeat them. The commission also asked the county to require that the lower portion of the site be developed as a park.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

RAILROAD — Recommended that the city council rezone the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way to park to permit construction of a bicycle and pedestrian pathway.

BASE MAP — Set Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. at City Hall to conduct hearings on a new zoning base map.

MARINERO — Recommended that the city council approve a 38-unit apartment project on Marinero Circle.

LODGE — Recommended that the city council approve a precise plan for the addition of a manager's apartment at Tiburon Lodge.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. at City Hall.

Trial Scheduled In Hub Burglary

A jury trial has been set for the week of Aug. 31 in Marin Superior Court for Dennis Victor Chesley, 20, and Robert Sterling Evans, 22, both of San Rafael, who are accused of attempting to burglarize a San Anselmo residence on June 10.

They were arrested inside a house at 283 Crescent Road, where police said the door had been forced open.

Indian Fire Trail Hydrant Approved

Directors of the Kentfield Fire District last night approved installation of a fire hydrant adjacent to the new water tank on Indian Fire Trail at a cost of $250, according to Fire Chief Kenneth T. Kamp.

Also the pre-specifications for a new pumper truck were reviewed. More study will be given to this matter during the next couple of weeks.

Panel Denies Novato Pool Rate Hikes

In spite of the request of the Novato City Council to increase charges, the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission last night would not recommend any increase in the rates charged at the Novato swim pool, according to Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director.

During the season last year from April 26 through Sept. 27, some 19,553 used the pool, bringing in $5,439, Adams said. If the rates were increased from the present 25 to 35 cents for children, 35 to 45 cents for teenagers and 50 to 60 cents for adults, it would bring in an additional $1,950, Adams reported.

However, the commission felt that there would be a decrease in the use of the pool, so that the city would probably get only about $1,200 added revenue. If lessons were increased from $3 to $4 it would add another $1,350 in income, according to Adams.

The pool is now costing the city approximately $13,000 per year above its income to operate it.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also:

NOVATO CREEK — Approved plans to bring a service road to the back of the Prehistory Museum at Novato Creek Park, make the parking lot off San Miguel Way and move the lot closer to the museum area.

RULES — Accepted for study proposed rules and regulations for use of city parks. This would include closing them at 10 p.m. and opening them at 6 a.m., controlling dogs, horses, model airplanes and other nuisances in the park. The commission will consider these rules at 8 p.m. July 29 in the community house. When revised, it will recommend them to the city council for adoption as an ordinance.

Marin County Board Of Education Also:

GIFTS — Accepted gifts of $10 to Marindale School by Mr. and Mrs. William Franchini of San Anselmo; $500 to Forest Meadows Development Center by Clipped Wings; a vacuum cleaning system for the same center from Jorge Mora of San Rafael; $73 to the Alto School trainable mentally retarded class from the Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club and a phonoviewer for the same class from the Welcome Wagon.

DEAF CHILDREN — Postponed to the July 20 meeting furthur discussion of classroom facilities for hard of hearing children now located at Adaline E. Kent School.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignations of Sue Irwin, accounting assistant; Shirley McHale, secretary, and Ward Williams, teacher at Loma Alta School.

HIRED: Approved hiring of Dorothy Campbell, accounting assistant, $536 a month; Robert Kent, bus driver, $2.73 an hour; Karen Lutz, coordinator's secretary, $536 a month; Carol Mann, booking clerk, $474 a month; Clare Robison, director's secretary, $562 a month; Frank Benson, psychologist intern, $7,000 a year; Esther Hayashida, teacher of visually handicapped, $9,652 a year; Glen Kim Himm, speech therapist, $9,978 a year, and Ernest Lynch, director of vocational education, $17,850.

One safety rule of the road: stop often to relieve tension of driving. When stopping, though, keep the children off the highway. Select established picnic spots, if possible.

Housing Agency To Act On Bids

Contracts for an $80,000 modernization program for 300 units of public housing will be awarded at a meeting of the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency today at 8 p.m. in the Manzanita Center.

Director Donald O. Stutsman said six bids for the work, which includes installation of ventilating fans in the units, have been received.

Five per cent salary increases for employees of the housing authority and redevelopment agency will also be considered at the meeting.

Pleads Innocent To Weed Count

Kevin Thomas Whelan, 19, of South San Francisco, pleaded innocent yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to possession of marijuana.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon set a preliminary hearing for July 21 at 11 a.m.

The Doors Still Close On Legislative Committees

"They promise you a particular piece of legislation. As soon as the legislature meets, a bill embodying that legislation is introduced. It is referred to a committee. You never hear of it again. What happened? Nobody knows what happened. . .Yet it is our business, and it is the business of every man in the state; we have a right to know all the particulars of that bill's history."—Woodrow Wilson (1913).

Things have not changed much since Woodrow Wilson, as governor of New Jersey and president-elect of the United States, gave voice to his frustration at the legislative committee process 57 years ago.

There has been some improvement, according to Richard W. Cardwell, general counsel of the Hoosier State Press Association, who just completed a survey of practices among the 50 state legislatures.

In 1959, he reported, only 16 states required legislative committee hearings to be open to the public. In 1965, that number had grown to 20, and last year, it had increased to 27 — more than half the states.

California was among the 27.

IT IS NOT too encouraging, though, to note that even today nearly half the state legislatures do not even require open hearings — to say nothing of open discussions, and public committee votes.

It is in the latter categories that California is found wanting.

Cardwell, in his survey, reported that discussions by California legislative committees are open "usually," that closed executive sessions are held "rarely," and that voting is in open session "always."

WE WISH all this were so.

Committee discussions at hearing sessions are usually open. But often the action is not taken there. A bill may be held in committee, without any vote ever being announced, until the session is over and it is dead. Or, when the vote is taken in closed session — as it is whenever the matter is a "sticky" one on which some committee members don't want to be committed publicly — who voted how is not announced.

Not long ago, the Assembly Rules Committee considered changing this, to require published roll call votes on all committee decisions. The members discussed the change in private, and voted it down in private. Nobody, of course, wanted his vote recorded — so only the tally was announced, not who voted how.

THE CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE has passed quite a few bills to force other public bodies to conduct their deliberations in public, and to open their records to the public. But it is loathe to apply the same rules to itself.

Even Marin-Sonoma Assemblyman William T. Bagley, a leading proponent of doing the public's business publicly, does an about-face when it comes to the legislature itself. Since floor debate and vote are public, he holds, there is no need to require that all committee meetings and votes be public.

This is the same old rationale used by school boards, city councils and others when they sneak behind closed doors to "talk things over," then formalize in public meetings what they've decided privately.

It holds no more water for legislative committees than it does for any other public body.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Walsh Measure Merely First Of South's Raids On North

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Sooner or later, the state legislature must come to the realization that changing times mean changing conditions in the enactment of legislation regarding a good many things which have been taken for granted for many, many years.

An example is the passage of SB 38, by Sen. Lawrence Walsh, D-Los Angeles, which revises the allocation of highway funds from gasoline tax money to 60 per cent for southern California and 40 per cent for the north. The previous arrangement had been 55 per cent for the south, and 45 for the north.

The Walsh measure isn't through the legislature as yet, but the fighting senator from Huntington Park is thoroughly confident that it will clear the Assembly and be signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

ACCORDING to computations of the Department of Public Works, the south will benefit to the extent of about $40 million annually, meaning that the southern portion of the state will get that much more highway construction as a result of the legislative vote.

While the south long has had more population than the north, the five per cent concession when the highway users tax was inaugurated was expected to endure forever, as it was not anticipated at that time the U. S. Supreme Court would hand down its "one man, one vote" decision, thereby giving the south a majority in the state Senate.

THAT THIS is the first raid can be taken for granted, for with success the first time, more can be expected. Look for raids on the north's water for one more thing.

There could also be additional raids on the highway funds. With further apportionments occasioned by the 1970 census, it is expected that the south will gain even more representation in both Assembly and Senate.

Senator Walsh should be congratulated on his efforts for Southern California. He has made the securing of an extra five per cent one of the principal aims of the 1970 session. The vote was close, and was made strictly on north-south alignment.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Maybe it would make political sense if our public officials and highly placed intellectuals would agree, upon due reflection, that, if a citizen is deemed old enough to vote, he or she is old enough, also, to lose forever that franchise through conviction for any felonious assault on people and property. — F. WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Planned Parenthood Actions Shocking

Shock and outrage are the only words to describe my feelings after reading last night's (June 29) article in the Independent-Journal on the Planned Parenthood Association.

This group has usurped all the rights and duties given to parents by law and by God in turning our teen-agers into sexually promiscuous young people. To dispense their products to our children without our knowledge or consent is unthinkable.

Mr. (Thomas A.) Knight stated he was not sure of the legality of their services. As the mother of four teen-age daughters I will promise to settle that point for him if I ever find this organization dispensing any of their services to my children.

This group is undermining every bit of decency we parents are trying to instill in our children. I think it's about time kids began to give their parents a break and try them out. This group claims these kids can't talk to their parents. I ask, how many of them have given their parents a chance to prove they can't?

As a parent I say this to the Planned Parenthood: You have overstepped the bounds. Stick to counseling adults and leave our children alone.

Gift Of People's Money Disturbs

The Marin County budget sessions are history, and recorded history, thanks to your reporters.

I was pleased to see that the tight budget did not allow the already very highly paid personnel to get away with those tremendous raises, especially after all the fuss that was made trying to eliminate the x-ray machine, a gift from the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association and a real service to the residents of the county, also the try to eliminate the Well Baby Conferences, and the like. After all the effort to cut the little things, my husband and I were appalled to see that the Marin County Chamber of Commerce was allowed to take $15,000 of the mere $30,000 they asked! Does this not shock you?

We are not alone in this dismay. These are the little secret allocations, begun as a trickle, which turn into a boondoggle gusher and waste our tax money. The man from the chamber of commerce told me with a straight face that Marin "needs the chamber" to promote population and hold the tax rate down! My husband and I have observed our tax rate race with the population increase, and that makes that statement silly . . .

'Well, They Win' —At Any Cost

After reading Mrs. Phyllis Van Pelt's letter (June 23) regarding a coach in Little League I felt I just had to write and get this off my chest.

We have a coach here in San Rafael who sounds similar if not worse. I won't mention names but I'm sure he'll know who I'm talking about and so will many of the parents. I've sat through two seasons of Little League and watched him win games at all costs. He resorts to being abusive treating his team like they were going on a Vietnam ambush. Has threatened other coaches verbally using old Alexander Bell's invention. The most discouraging thing about it all is when you ask the parents why they allow him to treat the kids this way they invariably answer with, "Well they win, don't they?"

What a great expose for someone who wants to see the game of baseball given back to the kids. After all people, wake up, Hitler trained the youth of Germany too!

Why Hospital Budget Goes Up

There is some additional information we believe should be made public concerning the 1970-71 budget for Marin General Hospital which, because of limitation of space and pressure of time, was not included in your otherwise very thorough coverage of the June meeting of the board of directors of the Marin Hospital District.

We think it is important that your readers know that our budget estimate of expenses for 1970-71 is $8.5 million compared to $7.3 million for the 1969-70 fiscal year; but we also believe it is most important for your readers to know why there is an increase of this size. . .

Marin General costs have gone up in several ways: First, the 1970-71 fiscal year will be the first one in which the Community Mental Health Center will be fully open for the entire 12 months. This means additional costs, but it also means additional revenue. Second, the additional patients served by the hospital means additional costs for staff and supplies in such out-patient services as the emergency department, X-ray and laboratory as well as for in-patients. But this added cost is also matched by increased revenue.

Third, the hospital is faced with the increased costs of an expanded health program for employees which was mandated by the state legislature. This extra cost must be met by more efficient administration of hospital income, and our budget foresees us doing just that. . .

Moreover, now that the original construction bonds are paid off, this year, for the first time since 1952, there will be no tax levied by the Marin Hospital District. The residents of the Marin Hospital District now own a hospital facility valued at $8 million free and clear, and the cost of operations are borne by those who use it, at rates, I might add, which are lower than all other hospitals in the county and below most of the hospitals in the Bay Area.

Scientists' Pro-ABM Report Branded A Secret Fiction

WASHINGTON — The first casualty of war, Truth is also a casualty of the fierce struggle over the next round in the nuclear arms race. This was dramatically demonstrated before the Senate subcommittee on arms control in a series of exchanges that almost entirely escaped notice.

The chief propagandist for the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile program, John S. Foster Jr., Pentagon director for research and engineering, appeared before the committee early last month. Making his case for phase II of Safeguard, Foster said he had called together a panel of six distinguished scientists, asked them to put aside their political convictions and pass on the feasibility of the missile.

"Now there was considerable concern about this move" Foster testified, "but, as a matter of fact, the report was sent to the secretary of defense and what it said was that this equipment will do the jobs that the Department of Defense wants to do."

THE OTHER DAY the committee called two of the scientists who served on that panel, Marvin L. Goldberger of Princeton University and Sidney D. Drell, deputy director of the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center.

They both testified that there was no such statement as Foster had made in the report of the six scientists. The report is classified secret.

Both scientists were unalterably opposed to the work going forward on phase I of Safeguard, to protect missile bases in Montana and North Dakota, and on phase II extending the system to three or four other centers. It is unworkable as a defense system, they testified. What is more, according to Goldberger, no group of scientists, or any scientist of repute, has ever supported the Safeguard system.

THE ADVOCATES of ABM presented before congressional committees by the defense department almost to a man avoided talking about the actual system, even though they were in closed session. Goldberger said:

"The most charitable interpretation one can put on this remarkable fact is that they could not, as men of scientific integrity, defend the system that was being proposed. They concentrated instead on the Soviet threat, the intransigence of the Chinese, national determination, the virtues of defensive weapons as extolled by Mr. Kosygin (the Soviet premier), etc., but never, never on the relation of Safeguard performance to the actual or projected threat."

THE SENATE will begin debate later this month on money for safeguard. The armed services committee has reported out a military authorization bill with the Chinese ABM umbrella sheared away and other facets of the administration program pared down. Nevertheless, the vote will be a test of this newest round in the arms race.

The testimony of Doctors Goldberger and Drell goes into a scientific realm that often leaves the layman far behind. Nothing could better illustrate the bewildering complexity of these so-called weapons which, once deployed, take out of human control the choices of response.

Put in simplest terms — probably oversimplified — the scientists' case against Safeguard ABM is as follows: The controlling device is a giant radar, a great brain, that responds to a series of warning impulses by sending defensive missiles into the air to knock down incoming offensive missiles. The scientists contend (1) The giant brain is altogether too vulnerable to attack and without it Safeguard is a zombie. (2) There is no proof whatsoever — quite on the contrary — that the defensive missiles will function when the heavens are exploding with incoming nuclear flak designed to thwart them.

ONE POINT in Drell's testimony is perfectly clear. The estimated cost of phase II-A of Safeguard is $7 billion, which comes to $70 million apiece for Safeguards to protect 100 Minuteman missiles. But Minuteman III, an advance over II with multiple warheads, costs only $8 million. So a defense that is no defense at all, if one accepts the view of scientists who know most about this whole 21st century madness, costs 10 times as much as the offense.

This is what President Nixon called at a press conference in January a "virtually infallible" defense. Between the politicians and the scientists the credibility gap is appallingly wide.

Border Pact Cools Row In American Hot Spot

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

Guyana and Venezuela have acted to cool South America's most troublesome border dispute.

Under an agreement signed June 18 in Port of Spain, Trinidad, the two agreed to shelve for 12 years the dispute which arose from Venezuela's claim to about 53,000 square miles of Guyana's territory west of the Essequibo River.

It would give Venezuela agout three-fifths of Guyana.

THE QUARREL goes back to 1899 and a treaty Venezuela signed with Great Britain. The Venezuelans later declared the treaty void and have been pressing their claim since shortly before Guyana obtained its independence from Britain in 1966.

It has been a continuing source of friction between the two countries and there have been minor border clashes.

The land involved in the dispute is largely uninhabited but is rich in mineral deposits and other potential wealth.

Included is the Rupununi plateau where in 1969 ranchers and their cowboys attempted unsuccessfully a revolt against the Guyana government of Prime Minister Forbes Burnham.

The government put it down but accused Venezuela of financing and training the cattlemen, a charge officially denied by Venezuela.

MUCH OF the credit for the agreement goes to Venezuelan President Dr. Rafael Caldera who has sought to dampen down the dispute since taking office 15 months ago.

He had been hampered by a split between hawks and doves in his own cabinet, the hawks wanting to pursue the claim by force if necessary and the doves demanding that the dispute be dropped and that Venezuela proceed with development of land it already had.

Caldera favored the latter course but in taking his action may have courted more trouble in the opposition-controlled Velezuelan congress, where he is outvoted three to one.

The leading opposition party, Accion Democratica, has accused him of outright relinquishment of Venezuela's claims.

Caldera calls the agreement a "moratorium." It may be extended automatically unless either government exercises the option to end it at the end of the 2 years.

THE AGREEMENT is of substantial benefit to Guyana which now is free to go ahead with development of the area without the harassment of outside pressures.

The dispute with Venezuela has been one of two plaguing the Guyana government.

Surinam, bordering Guyana on the east, claims some 9,000 square miles in a region bordering on Surinam and Brazil to the south.

Each side has accused the other of aggression in the area which is uninhabited jungle. Diplomatic negotiations on the issue are under way in The Hague, capital of the Netherlands. Surinam is an autonomous region in the kingdom of the Netherlands.

More People On Welfare Staff –But More People On Welfare

Betty L. Presley, Marin County director of public social services, rocked more than a few taxpayers when she went before the board of supervisors during recent budget hearings for permission to hire an additional 67 staff people.

Although turned down, she did win approval to add nine — and that brought total staff for 1970-71 to 207 people. Thats quite a force, indeed, but a look at the department workload tells why.

In the past three years, public assistance to the family group under Aid to Families with Dependent Children has risen 54.7 per cent, from 19,225 cases per month in 1967-68 to 15,820 in 1969-70; aid to the disabled has jumped from 14,644 to 15,095 over the same period, or 30.1 per cent, and general relief to single persons has climbed 49.6 per cent, from 1,591 to 2,380, although that total is declining and probably will continue downward because of a tougher stance by the board of supervisors

Meanwhile, staff has increased by 12, from 195 to its present 207.

THE CASELOAD rise can be linked to the introduction of new federal programs and liberalization of long-standing ones, and a general worsening in living conditions for the poor. More recently, the listless economy has been the major factor (The AFDC roll has jumped 20 per cent in the last six months) and Miss Presley doesn't expect an upturn soon.

"Any brightening of the economic condition outlook in the last half of 1970 will take some time to reflect itself in the return to employment of those on unemployment and even longer to noticeably improve the situation of the public assistance group," she says.

MISS PRESLEY notes that major manufacturers in Marin have reduced their work forces by 35 per cent from a year ago — and apparently not just blue collar people.

"We're beginning to see some quite skilled people show up here," she says. "We especially see the fee consultant-type. The market has shrunk for their services."

On top of the increasing caseload, Miss Presley says, her staff has been inundated by a stream of legislative, regulatory and court-ordered changes which have required major overhaul of grants.

Also, state-required reinvestigation of welfare cases has fallen behind by as much as several months, burdening the clerical staff. This is where the nine new people will be deployed.

"The volume combined is a killer,' Miss Presley says.

$75,000 Allocated For Utility Undergrounding

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday allocated $75,000 to help finance three utility line undergrounding projects in Petaluma.

The money, combined with $116,000 in city funds, will permit undergrounding lines on Payran Street at Petaluma Boulevard North, South McDowell at East Washington Street and East Washington Street from the bridge to Hopper Street.

Total cost of the project was estimated at $172,000. Both the county and city receive some annual undergrounding funds from the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

In other action, Petaluma Supervisor George T. DeLong requested a study on the possibility of keeping county refuse disposal sites open until 6 p.m. during the summer months. He said that many Petalumans cannot get to the nearest disposal area by the 5 p.m. closing.

Donald B. Head, superintendent of public works, said he would look into keeping the sites open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. to accomodate garbage collection firms which like to empty collection trucks before the 8 a.m. opening. He said the companies had offered to pay the extra expense of the earlier opening.

Jail, Probation Set For Weapon, Narcotics Counts

A 34-year-old Bodega Bay man who was described as "having gone downhill ever since he received his master's degree at Stanford University in 1958," yesterday was sent to jail for four months for felony drug and weapon convictions.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court also placed John Bonner Davison on probation for two years and ordered him not to use or possess narcotics or associate with persons known to do so.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas had asked that Davison go to jail for six months, citing a long record of arrests involving weapons and narcotics.

The judge said that Davison did appear to have been in a great deal of trouble since leaving Stanford and said that he had to learn that he couldn't "run around the countryside carrying weapons and narcotics."

Davison had pleaded guilty to charges of possessing a loaded carbine rifle and a restricted drug, Desoxyphedrine, when arrested in April, 1969, and additional charges of having a revolver and morphine were dismissed.

A second man arrested with him, George Patrick Lake, 32, of Geyserville, is still being sought by authorities after he failed to appear in court shortly after being arrested.

The two were arrested after an officer approached their stopped car on Highway 101 to ask if they needed assistance. When he noticed that the license plates of the car did not match the registration, the car was searched and the weapons and drugs were found.

Trustee Ballot Delay Voted To Save $20,000

Tamalpais High School District trustees, to save $20,000, last night postponed from Sept. 15 to Nov. 3 an election to replace Gloria Melbostad, who resigned last month.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, attending his first board meeting since taking his position last Wednesday, reported that a special election in September would have cost the district $25,000.

Consolidating the election with the November general election would cut the cost to about $5,000, he said.

Mrs. Melbostad, a trustee since 1964, resigned because her new job as a history teacher at the College of Marin took up too much of her time, she said.

Plane Loss Count To Replace Body Counts In Mideast War?

WASHINGTON — No one is quite certain if and when the United States will sell Israel the 125 fighter planes it's been asking for. The rumor in Washington is that the policy for the moment will be not to give Israel any new planes, but to replace those shot down by the enemy. If this is true, we can expect to see a decided change in the communiques emanating from Tel Aviv and the Arab capitals.

They may go something like this:

TEL AVIV, July 10 — Military spokesmen for the Israeli Air Force announced today that their planes were attacked along the Suez Canal. Twenty-seven Israeli planes were shot down, the spokesmen said, and 30 more limped back to their bases. This was the largest loss of Israeli combat aircraft ever recorded.

CAIRO, July 11 — Egyptian army officials angrily denied shooting down any Israeli planes in yesterday's battle over the Suez Canal. "Our pilots," said Gen. Gamal Emer, "missed the Israeli planes by miles.

"We have aerial photos showing all Israeli planes returned safely without so much as a bullet hole in them."

General Emer said he was also very disappointed in the new Russian-type SAM missiles which failed to hit the Israeli attackers. "It's apparent there is no hope we will ever shoot down an Israeli plane."

HAIFA, Israel, July 15 — A sneak attack along the Syrian border by Israeli fighters proved to be a catastrophe, Israeli sources said today. The high command revealed that Syrian planes had shot down 23 Israeli fighters, bringing Israeli losses for the week to 50 planes. Gen. Mordacai Rashnik has been relieved of his command for allowing these defeats to take place.

DAMASCUS, July 16 — Syrians demonstrated in the streets today against Israeli claims that Syrian fighter planes had shot down 23 Israeli planes in yesterday's dog fight over the Golan Heights.

At a giant rally in Damascus Square, Arab nationalist leaders introduced several Syrian pilots who claimed they had turned tail as soon as the Israeli planes approached.

"We did not engage them in battle," Lt. Abdullah Yafed told the screaming crowd. "The Zionist pigs did not lose any planes. They shot down five of ours."

The crowd cheered this news and then burned down the Jordanian Embassy.

TEL AVIV, July 25 — Prime Minister Golda Meir went on Israeli television tonight to regretfully announce that 30 more Israeli planes had been shot down by French-built Mirages over Libya. This was the farthest penetration Israeli planes had made. When it was pointed out after the broadcast that France had not yet delivered the Mirages to Libya, Mrs. Meir said, "I made a mistake. Our planes ran out of gas."

AMMAN, Jordan, July 26 — King Hussein demanded today that the United Nations take over the counting of Israeli planes lost in action. Charging Israel with duplicity, the king said, "We can never have peace in the Middle East as long as Israel keeps claiming plane losses it has never had."

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 1 — President Nasser and the Soviet military command announced jointly that all Arab planes had been grounded indefinitely and all antiaircraft guns had been silenced until further notice, to prevent the Israelis from announcing any more plane losses.

SOMEWHERE IN THE NEGEV, Aug. 2 — Foreign correspondents were taken on a guided tour of this top-secret Israeli air base in the Negev today. The base, which is the home of 45 fighters, was completely empty of aircraft.

A reporter asked where the planes were and the colonel in charge of the tour said, "They were all lost this morning to small-arms fire over the Dead Sea."

When it was pointed out that Israel has claimed to have lost 125 planes in three weeks, the exact number it had requested from the United States in the first place, the colonel replied, "Oy — what a coincidence!"

Cabin Cruiser Is Set Afire

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO — A 34-foot cabin cruiser, taken from the Sausalito Yacht Harbor last Wednesday night, was deliberately set afire and run aground, according to South San Francisco police.

The boat, Scoma's, was found in San Francisco Bay early Thursday.

Fire Chief John A. Marchi said yesterday it was difficult to determine the cause of the fire because of the extent of damage. But police have determined the fire was set and the boat deliberately run aground, Marchi said.

The yacht, which had been valued at $17,000, was owned by Joseph Scoma, owner of Scoma's Restaurant in Sausalito.

Bond Redemptions Exceeding Sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Savings bond redemptions exceeding sales by $30 million last month as savers continued to withdraw their funds, apparently in search of a better return on their money.

It was the 19th straight month withdrawals topped sales.

The government pays 5 per cent interest on savings bonds held to maturity - 5 years and 10 months. During the first year, bonds earn only 4 per cent. The rate rises after that to produce the overall 5 per cent yield.

Escapee Admits To Felony Charge

Joseph Raymond (Smokey) Lester, 26, Washington state prison escapee who was captured in San Rafael May 20, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of being a felon who carried a concealed weapon.

Judge E. Warren McGuire sentenced him to state prison for a term to run concurrently with the one he is serving in Washington which still has eight years to run.

Police arrested Lester when they went to a residence of a former Gypsy Joker gang member and found Lester and two other men, all armed, sitting around a kitchen table. They said Lester had a .22 caliber revolver and that he had escaped from an honor farm in Washington about two months earlier.

Today is Tuesday, July 7, the 188 h day of 1970 with 177 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning star is Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this date in history:

In 1846 Commodire J.D. Sloat of the U.S. navy proclaimed the annexation of California by the United States.

In 1898 President McKinley signed a joint resolution of Congress authorizing the annexation of Hawaii by the United States.

In 1941 President Franklin Roosevelt told Congress that U.S. naval forces, moving to forestall a possible Nazi invasion, had landed on Iceland with that country's permission.

In 1964 fourteen persons were killed in an avalanche in the French Alps.

A thought for the day: British clergyman Mathew Henry said, "None so blind as those who will not see."

Undetermind Amount Of Cash Is Stolen

A burglar stole an undetermined amount of cash from the cash box at Cain's Tire, 31 Industrial Way, Larkspur, after prying open an outside door, police reported yesterday. The thief also took a set of keys and ransacked desks in the office.

Police said the entry took place between closing time Thursday and 8:45 a.m. Friday.

No-Trump Play Can Save Contract If Long Suit Proves Dangerous

You don't normally worry about keeping control of the hand when you have eight trumps in the partnership hands, including the six top trumps. I don't want to turn your hair prematurely gray, but it's my duty to point out that even the strongest trump suit may need a bit of protection. For example, South didn't worry soon enough in today's hand.

FINESSE F[illegible]

West led hearts and continued the suit, forcing South to ruff the second round. South then drew four rounds of trumps and tried the diamond finesse. East won with the king of diamonds and returned a heart, forcing South to ruff with his last trump.

South could take his three diamonds and his six trumps, for a total of nine tricks, but whenever declarer led clubs, West was ready to take the ace of clubs and at least one heart to defeat the contract. Despite the magnificence of his trumps South had lost control of the hand.

NO-TRUMP PLAY

South should make the contract by employing a no-trump play. When you have to give up the lead twice at no-trump, you often take the trouble to lose the earlier trick to the opponent who has the long suit. When you lose the later trick to the other opponent, he may be out of the long suit and therefore may be unable to hurt you. South must follow the same principle in today's hand.

OUT OF TROUBLE

After drawing four rounds of trumps, South must first knock out the ace of clubs. West leads a third heart, forcing South to ruff with his last trump. Now South can safely try the diamond finesse. Even though the finesse loses, East is out of hearts, so that his fangs are empty of venom. No matter what East returns, South easily takes the rest of the tricks.

It's better to worry early and dye your hair than to wake up too late and tear your hair out.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player bids one spade. You hold:

♥—10 6 5 2
♦—A 10 9 6
♣—Q 6 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

If you act now, when it is cheap to do so, you can sit back and let your partner bid as much or as little as he likes. If you pass now, however, neither member of the partnership will know what to do in competitive bidding.

TV REVIEW

What Is Behind The Big Bosses?

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It is one of the sad ironies of television that some sophisticated executives have put on shows they would not watch themselves and for a mass audience they would not mingle with socially.

The fortunate network bigwigs are able to escape this unpoetic justice, but in speaking to the less fortunate, one constantly notes the inner lament of well-educated, honorable souls who must too often play down to the crowd.

We forget most of the time that these decisions are, after all, not made by computers or men in a vacuum—but by persons who usually are doing the best they can in a difficult system and face their own television critics at home, in their families and among their neighbors.

And, most difficult, they must face themselves in the mirror each day, wondering all too frequently whether their preparation for power has resulted in a satisfactory wielding of it—something that can justify their education and personal beliefs.

Thus, it has been fascinating to watch and read about the announced transfer of Mike Dann from CBS-TV, where he resigned as programming boss, to the Children's Television Workshop, which produces the acclaimed "Sesame Street" series.

Various reasons have been suggested for Dann's move, which will give him a considerably smaller salary.

One fact is that CBS-TV's new president, Robert Wood, is going to be the real boss of the programming. Another fact, undeniably, is that Dann's reputation as a ratings winner was based on accumulating the largest overall audience, whereas the new trend is for the hip young urban viewers.

But my feeling is that Dann's greatest motive for switching, now that he is financially comfortable and can afford it, was highly personal. Among other things, his colorful feud with NBC-TV's research boss, Paul Klein, did not reflect with particular dignity on his image. This intramural rivalry over ratings seemed an absurd thing over which to blow one's stack publicly. Dann already had his detractors, and now they were supplied with more ammunition.

So I think that, in the end, Dann was motivated above all by the overriding human desire to be remembered well—and to take positive steps to assure that he is. For a professional, nothing is more important than the total respect of one's colleagues. And Dann is surely aware that his new job will get him more favorable attention than the many specials he put on with profits from the ratings.

I think it is also worth noting the comment of Les Brown, video editor of "Variety," that Dann's "family was not always proud of the work Dann was doing, his wife and children having involved themselves in social causes." In fairness to some other executives, this, of course, is certainly not always the case. But it does apply to some of the less fortunate ones. Said Dann:

"I've simply reached the point in my life when I want to do something to serve the country's needs in an important area, and I feel I can use my background in TV to make a contribution. Every one in my family is doing some consequential work now for the betterment of the human race, and I need to have that kind of satisfaction now."

Senior Citizen Tax Help Is Pointed Out

Many senior citizens are failing to take advantage of state property tax assistance, Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, reported today.

Only 36,000 claims have been filed statewide so far, compared with more than 45,000 last year by this date, McCarthy said.

The three-year-old state program provides for refunds up to 95 per cent, depending on the claimant's household income.

Filing for refunds on property taxes paid last fiscal year started on May 15 and closes on Oct. 15.

McCarthy also reminded claimants that their applications should be based on their income for calendar year 1969.

To be eligible, claimants must have been over 65 as of Jan. 1, must own and occupy their home, must have paid the property taxes on the home, and must have a total household income of less than $3,350. Applications are available through the Franchise Tax Board offices at 1739 Fourth Street, Santa Rosa; 345 Larkin Street, San Francisco, and Box 1588, Sacramento.

Mystery Rifleman Kills Two Lions In Portland Zoo

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Both a lioness who mauled a youth to death and its mate died "lingering, agonizing deaths" from rifle wounds, zoo director Jack Marks said Monday.

"Whoever shot them had terrible aim," he said.

The lioness, named Sis, killed Roger D. Adams, 19. He and two companions entered the Portland Zoo after it closed Saturday, officials said.

Two penguins were tossed in a pond and bears were teased before Adams climbed a protective fence at the lion compound and was grabbed by the animal, officials added.

"I don't suspect anything," Marks said. "I hope the police will find out who did it—not only for humane reasons, but because the animals were part of public property."

"While I feel very sorry that the lions killed somebody, the animals reacted instinctively to an invader of their lair," he added.

Governor Grants Boy's Two Wishes

CATHEDRAL CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Billy Long, 7 suffering from a terminal brain tumor, wanted to do two things before being blind.

He wanted to visit Disneyland and to meet Red Skelton.

Thanks to California Gov. Ronald Reagan, both Billy's dreams have come true.

Monday Billy and his family were picked up at the Disneyland Hotel in Reagan's limousine and were driven to this desert community where Billy swam in Skelton's swimming pool and had lunch with the comedian.

Council Eyes Curbs On Parades, Meetings

The San Rafael City Council last night was presented with a proposed ordinance regulating meetings, assemblies and parades in public places.

The council postponed consideration of the proposal until July 20 because it had not had time to study the ordinance.

The ordinance, as proposed by City Mgr. James H. McCown, would require permits for all public gatherings except funeral processions.

McCown said the proposal was needed because the city had not regulation governing public gatherings, and that in the past he and the police department have worked out arrangements for each particular case.

The proposed ordinance states that applications for permits must be filed with the chief of police not less than 20 days before a proposed parade and not less than 14 days before a proposed public meeting or assembly.

The chief of police must approve or deny the permit at least eight days prior to the proposed event. If denied, the decision can be appealed to the city council.

If the council adopts the ordinance as proposed, a planned public activity could conceivably be denied without recourse to the council, which is scheduled to meet every two weeks.

If a permit were denied the day following a council meeting, the eight days required prior to the activity would pass before the council met two weeks later.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

WALL — Postponed opening bids for construction of a debris wall on Scenic Avenue near Fifth Avenue until July 20 because bids were not properly advertised.

BIDS — Opened but held for review until July 20 bids on the purchase of road materials for fiscal 1970-71.

ZONING — Rezoned three parcels of property at the intersection of Elizabeth Way and Chestnut Avenue from single family residential to planned community district.

EASEMENT — Authorized issuance of a building permit to Anthony J. Moreno, contractor, for construction of a driveway across a city slope easement at 55 Chula Vista Drive. The permit will be issued upon approval of the plans by the city engineer.

DANCES — Held over until July 20 consideration of a proposed ordinance regulating dances and other forms of entertainment.

CANAL — Approved hiring a representative of Dan Coleman and Associates to testify in a suit brought by the Marin Municipal Water District against San Rafael and other parties regarding the exact location of the old San Rafael canal.

PERMIT — Denied an encroachment permit to Robert J. McGrath of 8 Regina Way, Terra Linda for the construction of a fence eight feet onto city property.

AWNING — Granted an encroachment permit to Jean West, 1444 Fourth Street, for a five foot awning at the entrance to the store.

encroachment permit to Better Homes Construction Co. for a driveway 15 feet into city right-of-way at 22 Chula Vista Drive.

SALARIES — Authorized payment of salary increases to city employees retroactively to July 1 whenever the council approves 1970-71 salary increases.

RESTROOMS — Called for bids for the construction of restroom facilities at Freitas Park with bids to be opened July 20.

ADDRESSES — Approved the request of Thomas L. Deits of 27 Laurelwood Court for permission to paint address numerals on street curbs during the summer providing he works out details and conditions with the city manager.

MEETING — Adjourned until its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. July 20, although a budget session to discuss salaries and capital improvements may be scheduled in the meantime.

Use Permit For Preschool Nursery Gets Marin's Nod

A use permit for a preschool nursery for 24 children at 10 Bayview Drive outside San Rafael was approved yesterday by Ralph D. Cairns, Marin County zoning administrator.

Applicant Helen Johnson said the children would be instructed in two periods from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Cairns also said he would approve a use permit sought by the county's community mental health services department for a nursery school for 12 children at 1030 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, if parking problems can be worked out.

Use permits also were approved to allow construction of a utility building by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. at 165 Valley Drive, Tomales; to permit a temporary mobile home for sales and office use by U.S. Development at Miller Creek Road and Highway 101, near Marinwood, and to enable Steve F. Reiter of 35 Orchard Way, San Geronimo, to keep two horses on his property for three months.

Burglary Suspect Pleads Innocent

Gerald Clair Crane, 18, of Larkspur, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of twice burglarizing the Hutchinson Co. quarry in Greenbrae as well as possessing 100 pounds of dynamite on March 15.

A jury trial was set for the week of Sept. 21.

Police said Crane led them to more hidden explosives after he and showed them dynaite in the trunk of his car.

Mill Valley Seeks Closing Of Reservoir

The Mill Valley City Council announced its intention last night to bar public access to the city's Cascade Reservoir during the summer fire season because of the fire danger. (Another Mill Valley City Council story, page 1)

It asked City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to prepare an emergency ordinance declaring all city-owned property in the reservoir area off-limits from May 1 to Nov. 1. The council will act on the measure and probably adopt it at its next regular meeting July 20 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Councilmen made it clear that they did not want to bar entry to the mountain lake, but had no choice. "We've tried everything," said Jerom eC. Hauke. "I hate to do this but what is the alternative?"

Only Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker spoke against the ordinance. "I don't think it's enforceable. Why pass a law that no one will obey," he asked.

Police Chief Dan Terzich said he had no opinion on the ordinance but felt it was "another Volstead Act. Unless you give us more men, it will be close to impossible to enforce it," he said.

But his department will do everything it can to enforce any ordinance the council passes, Terzich promised.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

CUTOFF — Announced its intention to vacate East Blithedale cutoff top Mortimer Conklin in exchange for property at the corner of East Blithedale Avenue and Camino Alto.

PRESSURE — Directed City Mgr. William H. Cunningham to confer with the Marin Municipal Water District on complaints of low water pressure in several areas of the city.

FLOODING — Directed City Engineer Stanley M. Bala to ask the Marin County Flood Control Advisory Board to examine flooding on Barrie Way and Glen Drive in Scot Highlands.

AUDITOR — Approved negotiation of a contract with Diehl, Evans and Co., certified public accountants, to audit the city's books.

APPOINTMENTS — Confirmed the following appointments to city commissions: Eugene McGeorge and Waltie Hecht, library; Marjorie Mahl, park and recreation, and Frederick Wright, youth.

SEWER — Heard a report by Cunningham that $11,320 has been collected for assessments in the Cascade-Lovell Sanitary Sewer District, and set Aug 3 to open bids for purchase of the sewer bonds.

CAMINO ALTO — Authorized Jordan to proceed with condemnation proceedings against owners of 13 parcels of land required for four-laning of Camino Alto.

MINUTES — Authorized Lucretia Little, city historian, to exhibit a copy of the minutes of the first city council meeting at a celebration feting the 70th anniversary of Mill Valley's founding.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall to consider capital outlay in the 1970-71 budget. The next regular meeting will be July 20 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The New York Convention and Visitors Bureau says that the Big Town has 16.5 million visitors annually. Number one tourist attraction still—the Empire State building, the world's tallest structure at 1,472 feet.

Inmate Is Given Concurrent Term

San Quentin inmate Clarence Milton Sprague, 32, has been sentenced by Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court to a term to run concurrently with one he is now serving for armed robbery.

Sprague was convicted by a jury last month of escaping from the prison on April 18.

He is already serving a five-year-to-life term for armed robbery.

City Seeking Parking Area Under Span

The City of San Rafael has asked the state Division of Highways to lease it the land under the new Highway 101 overpass, City Mgr. James H. McCown said yesterday.

However, negotiations are dormant until the contractor finishes rerouting a creek from under the old overpass to under the new overpass, McCown said.

He said the city cannot determine how much land will be available and where it will be until the rerouting is completed.

McCown declined to say when the contract can be worked out, but the construction contract calls for completion by Jan. 1.

A parking area under the overpass would provide well-located commuter parking and ease the downtown parking problem, McCown said, so the city wanted to make its interest known early.

"We want to control the area," he said.

The city made its request about two months ago, according to the city manager.

Power Boys Win Out In A.L. All-Star Voting

NEW YORK (UPI)—First baseman Boog Powell and outfielder Frank Robinson, the 1-2 punch of the defending champion Baltimore Orioles, were top-heavy choices today when they were named to an American League All-Star team dominated by sluggers.

Also named to the team which will face the National League stars on July 14 in Cincinnati were catcher Bill Freehan of the Detroit Tigers, second baseman Davey Johnson of the Orioles, shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox, third baseman Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins and outfielders Frank Howard of the Washington Senators and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox.

Johnson was selected by Oriole manager Earl Weaver because Rod Carew of the Twins, the runaway winner in the fans' voting for a second baseman, is sidelined with an injury. Johnson finished fifth in the fans' balloting.

Power was the obvious criterion the fans used in their selections inasmuch as the top three batters in the league—Alex Johnson of the California Angels, Roy White of the New York Yankees and Tony Oliva of the Twins—were passed over in favor of sluggers.

Killebrew, Howard, Powell and Yastrzemski rank one through four in home runs, while Powell, Killebrew and Howard rank 1-2-4 in runs batted in.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced that 2,634,724 votes were cast and said the total is believed to be the largest computerized vote ever taken in sports.

Powell, who is batting .315 and leads the league in RBI in games through Sunday, was the biggest vote-getter with 1,007,930. Norm Cash of the Tigers was second among first basemen with 209,276 and the five first basemen who trailed Powell in the voting totaled 555,714 votes.

Actually, the only close vote was at shortstop where Aparicio won with 532,825 votes to 521,024 for Rico Petrocelli of the Red Sox. Jim Fregosi of the Angels was a distant third with 191,201.

Robinson polled 795,083 votes to lead the outfielders with Howard second at 689,109 and Yastrzemski third at 656,831. Oliva, the fourth best voteget-ter among the outfielders, had 446,052.

Bill Freehan was a runaway winner among the catchers, although he is having an off-season, with 944,601 votes to 148,647 for Elrod Hendricks of the Orioles. Ray Fosse of the Indians, who is among the league's batting leaders, did not show among the top six.

Carew had 878,101 votes to beat out Dick McAuliffe of the Tigers by more than 600,000. McAuliffe was passed over by Weaver because he, too, is injured but Tommy Harper of the Milwaukee Brewers and Mike Andrews of the Red Sox also outpolled Johnson.

Draft Is Key To Reds Big Rise To Power

When baseball adopted the free agent draft system in December of 1964, Gabe Paul jumped with joy. Paul started his campaign for the system when he still was general manager of the Cincinnati Reds. By the time it was adopted, Paul had moved on as president of the Cleveland Indians after a very brief stop in Houston when the Astros were a 1962 expansion club.

So Paul wasn't around in Cincinnati when the staff he trained immediately began reaping free agent awards. Paul's old Cincinnati staff picked Bernie Carbo No. 1, Johnny Bench No. 2 and Hal McRae No. 6 in the first free agent baseball draft held in the summer of 1965.

In 1966, Gary Nolan was Cincinnati's No. 1 pick out of Oroville. In 1967, Wayne Simpson was No. 1 out of Los Angeles.

Bob Howsam, who had made some great deals for the Cardinals when he was general manager in St. Louis, became Cincinnati's general manager and executive vice president in 1967.

Some Very Good Trades

In 1968, Howsam began wheeling and dealing for the Reds. He traded Vada Pinson to the Cardinals for Bobby Tolan and Wayne Granger. He traded Chico Gardenas the same year to Minnesota for Jim Merritt. Last year he got Jim McGlothlin from the Angels for Chico Ruiz and Alex Johnson.

Howsam, of course, kept Tony Perez, Pete Rose, Lee May, Tommy Helms and a rookie shortstop named Dave Concepcion he signed out of Venezuela in 1968.

Take a look at Cincinnati's pennant-bound lineup today. It is fashioned from the 1965-66-67 free agent picks, the 1968-69 trades and naturally the players Howsam had tabbed as untouchables.

The solid free agent choices by Cincinnati made it possible for Howsam to deal the players he did for pitchers to round out the team staff.

Without the free agent system it is doubtful Cincinnati could have signed Nolan or Simpson. Giant souts knew all about Nolan. Dodger scouts knew all about Simpson. And in a free enterprise bonus bidding contest, the Giants and Dodgers had the pocket books.

Best Thing For Baseball

"It's the best thing that ever happened to baseball," said Paul when the free agent draft went into effect. "Baseball is going to benefit by this wide-open system. Even those opposed to it will come to support it in time because we're all interested in anything that is for the good of the game."

Walter O'Malley was one of those who opposed the free agent draft. "It's socialism," said O'Malley.

"He had his reason for saying that," said Paul. "The Dodgers had the Los Angeles area, which always has produced a lot of good kid players, pretty well sewed up."

Whether time will prove the free agent draft to be the best thing that ever happened to baseball remains to be seen. But there is no doubt whatsoever about it making posisble Cincinnati's Big Red Machine of 1970.

Giant Pitching Shelled

ATLANTA (UPI)—Manager Charlie Fox wasn't kidding when he said he was working with a thin pitching staff.

The mound corps of the San Francisco Giants, which has been anything but effective this season, now has been depleted by injuries.

With Skip Pitlock on the shelf with a bad ankle until after the All-Star break, and with Rich Robertson down with a heavy cold, Fox was forced Monday night to call on reliever Jerry Johnson for a starting assignment.

QUICK EXIT

Johnson, with a disappointing 7.79 earned run average, quickly was pounded by the Atlanta Braves in a 12-4 setback.

Johnson lasted only four innings, during which time he gave up eight hits and five earned runs. Mike McCormick relieved, but managed to get only one man out while giving up three runs.

The San Francisco pitchers managed to quell the bat of Hank Aaron, who went hitless in four trips. But little Felix Millan, the Braves' second baseman, pounded out six hits in six at-bats and drove in four runs. Rico Carty added a homer and two other hits for three RBI.

DIETZ HOMERS

Dick Dietz gave the Giants a 2-0 lead in the first inning with his 17th homer of the season. Carty came right back with a two-run job to tie it, and Willie Mays blasted his 18th in the third inning for the Giants to make it 4-2. Then Millan went to work.

Millan tied the score with a single and batted in a pair of runs in the Braves' five-run fifth inning.

Atlanta was not quieted until Frank Reberger came to the hill. Reberger, who had hurled six innings of scoreless relief one day earlier, fired another 2 2-3 innings of spotless baseball Monday night.

The good relief performance came too late, however, as the Giants went down to their fourth straight defeat and fell 9 1-2 games behind first place Cincinnati in the National League West.

Decker Hurls Win; 2 Hits By Boccabella

Joe Decker, former Petaluma High School star, pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 14-2 victory over Montreal in the second game of a doubleheader yesterday which the Cubs swept, winning the opener, 3-2.

Decker, a rookie righthander whose parents live in San Rafael, limited the Expos to six hits, two of them by another local product, former Marin Catholic High School catcher John Boccabella of San Anselmo.

Decker struck out five and walked four in winning his second game against four losses this season.

Chicago third baseman Ron Santo, who drove in 10 runs, eight of them in the second game, had a home run in the opener and two more in the nightcap as he led the Cubs to only their third and fourth wins in the last 19 games.

In the opener, Roberto Rodriguez took over from Bill Hands with the bases loaded and none out in the ninth inning and retired the side in order to preserve the Cubs' victory.

TWINS EDGE A'S

Perranoski In Key Role

OAKLAND (UPI)—Ron Perranoski would like to know what it takes to earn a spot on the All-Star squad.

The stylish reliever of the Minnesota Twins now is in his 10th season as one of the most consistent bullpen pitchers in the major leagues. Yet he never has made an All-Star squad.

2-1 WIN

"Each All-Star manager should pick a righthanded and a lefthanded reliever," said Perranoski after helping the Twins beat the Oakland A's Monday night 2-1.

"Baseball has relied a great deal on relief pitchers and they should be recognized at All-Star game time."

Perranoski, a cool veteran with superb control of his roundhouse breaking pitches, fired 2 2-3 innings of scoreless relief Monday night to pick up his 19th save of the season. He also has won five games, meaning he's figured in 24 of the Twins' 50 victories this season.

WORKHORSE

The lefty has averaged 66 mound appearances through his career and appears on his way to a similar figure this season. Through Minnesota's first 76 games, Perranoski has pitched in 34 of them.

The Twins, leaders of the American League West, rely heavily on Perranoski and fellow reliever Stan Williams because of a starting staff which has completed only 12 games. The same situation occurred last season, but Perranoski was equal to the task.

"I think I'm a better pitcher when I'm tired," he said. "My big pitches are the sinker and slow curve, and the ball tails more sharply for me if my arm is weary."

FIVE HITS

Perranoski combined with starter and winner Bill Zepp (4-0) to set down the A's on just five hits. Oakland had runners on base in all but one inning yet could not punch across the big hit.

The A's tallied their lone run in the second inning on a walk, hit batsman and a bloop single by Dave Duncan.

The Twins tied iti n the third when Cesar Tovar beat out an infield hit, went to third on a single by Tony Oliva and error by Joe Rudi, and came home on Harmon Killebrew's single.

Tovar batted in the winning run against loser Diego Segui (3-5) after a walk and single by Zepp. The hit was the first for Zepp in the major leagues.

The A's, now 7 1-2 games behind Minnesota, have cracked only 17 hits in their last four games.

TROUBLE

Now they find themselves in additional trouble with injuries to veteran outfielders Felipe Alou and Tommy Davis.

Alou, batting .296 and playing in all but two games this season, came down with a kidney stones ailment. Doctors at Merritt Hospital in Oakland

Clay Loses Another Round

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Cassius Clay has lost another court battle aimed at overturning his conviction on charges of draft evasion.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday a lower court was correct in deciding federal wiretaps had nothing to do with convicting the former heavyweight boxing champion.

Clay, who prefers his black muslim name Muhammed Ali, was convicted June 20, 1967, of refusing induction into the Army. The conviction was appealed all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

While it was pending there, the federal government disclosed five telephone conversations involving Clay were tapped by the FBI. The Supreme Court sent the case back to a district court.

U.S. District Judge Joe Ingraham of Houston reviewed the matter and ruled all five conversations were irrelevant to the conviction.

Ingraham turned over logs of four of the conversations to Clay's attorneys. The judge reviewed the fifth conversation privately and ruled it was recorded by the government in connection with "the gathering of foreign intelligence."

Ingraham ruled the fifth conversation, like the other four, had nothing to do with Clay's conviction.

The circuit court's decision Monday upheld Ingraham's ruling.

Stewart Puts New Car Through Paces

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (UPI)—Scotland's Jackie Stewart, the reigning world drivers' champion, was to put the new Chaparral 2J through its first high speed time trials today for its racing debut Sunday in the Canadian-American championship.

The new car, developed by Texan Jim Hall, has never raced before. It was unveiled earlier this week, and Monday Stewart announced he would compete in his first Can-Am event in the latest American racing car.

The high-flying Scot is no stranger to the Glen course. He won the 1968 U.S. Grand Prix here in a Matra-Ford. Currently, he is second in the race for the world's drivers title, behind Australia's Jochen Rindt.

Hall is also no stranger at the Glen. His earlier Chaparrals were consistent winners here over the past five years.

Despite the highly touted new Hall entry into the Can-Am series, the money is still riding on the McLaren team cars piloted by Americans Dan Gurney and New Zealand's Denis Hulme, a former world champion. The cars have won 14 Can-Am races, including every race last year and the first two held this year, both in Canada.

The Can-Am on Sunday is the finale of a racing double header that features a six hour endurance race for the world manufacturers championship on Saturday.

In the endurance contest, Ferrari will make an all out effort to catch up on the lead built by the German Porsches in earlier races this season. Ferrari has entered two cars, with former Indy "500" winner Mario Andretti and Belgium's Jacky Icky the lead drivers.

The two factory prepared Porsches will have England's Jo Siffert and Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez as lead drivers. Co-drivers for both Ferrari and Porsche will be named later.

MORE PROMOTIONS

Finley Outlines His Seals' Plan

OAKLAND (UPI)—The management of the Oakland Seals, minus a club president, sat and listened to new owner Charles O. Finley describe his plans to pep up the slumbering National Hockey League franchise.

Finley openly admitted Monday to a roomful of sportswriters and his coach and executives that "I know absolutely nothing about hockey."

But the colorful owner of baseball's Oakland A's outlined a series of promotional gimmicks and organizational changes which he hopes will hike attendance as well as improve the Seals' performance on the ice.

RETAINS GLOVER

Among his plans is retention of coach Fred Glover, general manager Frank Selke and executive vice president Bill Torrey, all of whom were present at the news conference.

Absent was president Bill Creasy, who voted against Finley's $4.5 million purchase of the Seals which was approved last week. Creasy, aligned with the team's former owner Trans-National Communications, officially resigned his position Monday.

"To become contenders," Finley said, "we'll have to employ more scouts, establish better working agreements with other teams and develop farm clubs."

PROMOTIONS

To help the Seals become contenders in the NHL attendance race, Finley plans a series of promotional nights, a set of snappy green and gold player uniforms with white skates, plenty of musical entertainment in the stands and a solid radio-television contract.

"We are going to do everything in our power to bring a championship team to this area, but it will take some time," Finley said. "My only role is getting enough money to pay the bills."

Finley already has been dickering with an established NHL club for the rights to "an unnamed superstar." When the name Bobby Hull was mentioned, Finley would say only, "Would I like Bobby Hull? Who wouldn't?"

FARM TEAM

"I could hardly believe," Finley said, "that a major league club like the Seals was operating without a direct farm club. They had a working agreement with Providence of the AHL, but I hope to establish an actual farm team, maybe in Birmingham."

It was rumored earlier that Finley would have a pair of live seals balancing pucks on their noses inside glass cages at the team's home games in the Oakland Coliseum. But Finley says he's holding off on those plans, at least for awhile.

"There may come a time when we'll have trained seals in the lobby spinning a puck in their nose, but right now the only kind of seals I'm interested in are winning Seals," he said.

As for those fabled white skates, which would be a variation of his baseball team's white spikes, Finley promised to think about the idea a little longer.

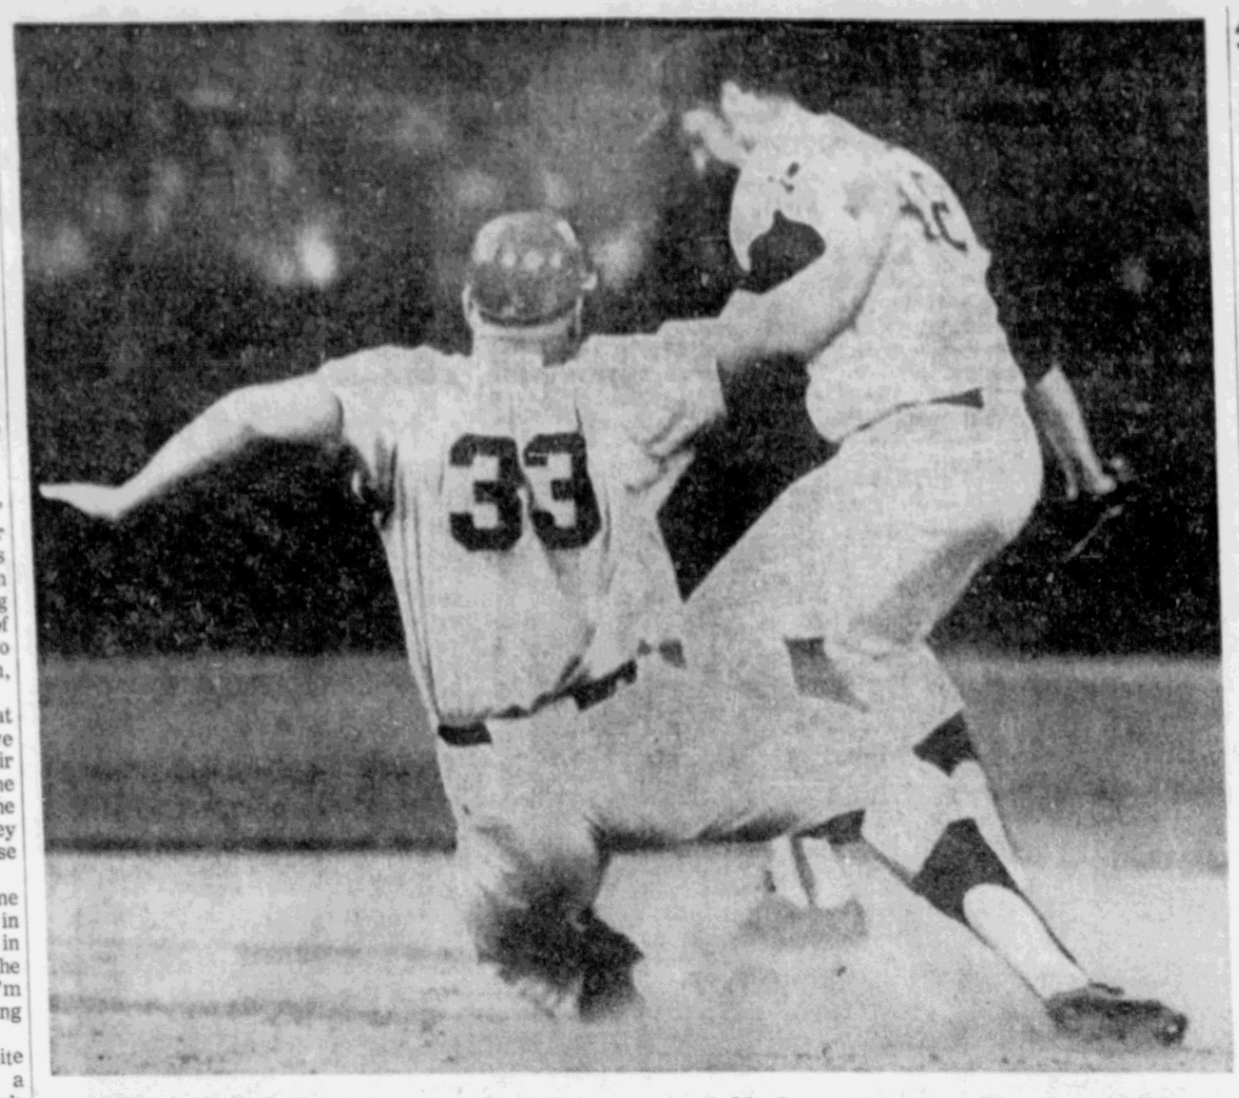
WHITE SHOES

"White shoes will be discussed with the players," he said, "if I feel there is a place for them in hockey."

Finley took over the Seals after the club fell into bankruptcy.

After three years in the league, the Seals have only one charismatic superstar, young Carol Vadnais. They have been averaging only 6,000-plus in attendance and have not had the funds nor ambition to pursue a steady promotional program.

And, unlike every other NHL club, the Seals have had no local television coverage of their games and only a selected number of contests on radio.



SUDDEN SAM AT SECOND — Cleveland pitcher Sam McDowell, converted to a second baseman in the eighth inning last night against Washington, steps on second to force the sliding Frank Howard. McDowell returned to the mound in the ninth, striking out the side to post his 12th victory as the Indians won, 6-4. (UPI Telephoto)

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Win, And Save, For Sam

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Southpaw Sam McDowell is one starting picture who came in to save his own game.

McDowell, the ace of the Cleveland staff, technically didn't receive credit for the save in the record books even though he came on to strike out the side in the ninth inning Monday night after being shifted to second base in the eighth by mangager Alvin Dark.

Dark had brought in righthander Dean Chance with runners on second and third and two out and the Indians leading 6-4. Chance walked Frank Howard intentionally to load the bases before getting Rick Reichardt to hit a grounder to third baseman Eddie Leon who fired to McDowell for the force play to end the inning.

RETURNS

McDowell returned to the mound in the ninth where he retired the Senators to preserve his 12th victory against four losses. Sudden Sam struck out 15 batters and it marked the eighth time this year and 67th time in his career—an American League record—that he has struck out 10 or more in a game.

Dark later explained that he brought in Chance "because the Senators had no more left-handed hitters on the bench. If they had sent up a left-handed pinch-hitter, I would have kept McDowell in. I put myself on the spot."

McDowell, who has played first base in his minor league days at Salt Lake City, admitted to being "sure surprised when he (Dark) told me to go to second. Leon threw the ball a little low and I lost it momentarily. I finally caught the ball with both knees on second base trying to force Howard."

OTHER SCORES

In other American League action. Milwaukee tripped Chicago 3-1, Minnesota edged Oakland 2-1, California downed Kansas City 6-2, and Detroit defeated Boston 6-3. Baltimore and New York were not scheduled.

In the National League, New York ripped St. Louis 10-3, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 7-5, Atlanta pounded San Francisco 12-4, Cincinnati blanked San Diego 5-0, Chicago swept a pair from the Montreal Expos, 3-2 and 14-2, and Los Angeles defeated Houston 10-8, in 10 innings.

Dave May hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning for Milwaukee to snap a 1-1 tie and enable Gene Brabender, who pitched an eight-hitter, to pick up the win.

Loser Jerry Janeski allowed only five hits but he was beaten by two of them in the seventh. Tommy Harper led off with a single and after Mike Hegan had flied out, May cracked his first homer in a Milwaukee uniform to decide the game.

HOME RUN

Jim Northrup's 15th homer with one on climaxed a three-run first inning rally as the Tigers scored five runs off Gary Peters in the first two innings and hold on for the win. Tony Conigliaro's 16th homer of the season came in the fourth inning following a walk to Carl Yastrzemski and was one of four hits off winner Les Cain.

Billy Cowan belted a three-run homer to help California's Tom Murphy gain his 10th victory in the Angels win over Kansas City. Murphy, who scored two runs, needed relief help from Eddie Fisher in the ninth after the Royals scored their second run. Cowan's homer came off Loser Jim Rooker who allowed five runs in 4 2-3 innings.

Brewers' Fan Begins His Scoreboard Stay

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—A 69-year-old Milwaukee Brewers fan, was hoisted to the top of the County Stadium scoreboard Monday night to remain there until the Brewers have a full house for an American League baseball game.

But before he could even get settled, Milton Mason, of San Diego, Calif., who has been dubbed "Bernie Brewer," had company—a crew of plumbers who fixed a leak in the plumbing of the 24-foot mobile home in which he will be living.

Mason, attired in a colorful alpine outfit with lederhousen, was lifted to the top of the scoreboard by a crane. His mobile home is completely equipped with cooking facilities, plumbing, air conditioning and a color television set.

The mobile home rests on a platform atop the 80-foot high scoreboard in right-center field.

The stunt is the idea of Milwaukee general manager Marvin Milkes and Mason is a longtime friend of Milkes. Mason has helped in the Brewers' clubhouse and worked with the trainers. He is a retired aeronautical engineer.

The Giants' former standout at third base has been made a coach, with Jim Ray Hart being recalled from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League to take his spot on the roster. Hart, demoted to the minors earlier this season, responded with a .307 batting average and eight homers at Phoenix.

The Giants tonight hope to send a recuperated Robertson (6-6) to the mound against Jim (5-6) to the mound against Jim Nash (10-2) of Atlanta.

More Time For Grid Bargaining

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, today announced that no rookie camp would open until July 14 in order to permit negotiating committees representing players and owners a full week to attempt a collective bargaining position.

Pro football's collective bargaining agreement between owners and the National Football League Players Association expired last Feb. 1 and negotiations, begun last week, are currently still in progress.

WASHINGTON D.C. — Vince Lombardi, who underwent abdominal surgery on June 27, will be at the official training camp opening of the Washington Redskins, club president Edward Williams said yesterday.

Williams told newsmen that he had talked to Lombardi and the Redskin coach, who anticipated being released from the hospital this week.

DALLAS — UCLA kicking specialist Zenon Andrusyshyn has signed with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, who picked him in the ninth round of the professional draft.

Andrusyshyn hit on eight of 12 field goal attempts and 33 of 44 extra point tries last year. He averaged 42.1 yards punting.

STANFORD — Cecil Upshaw, bullpen ace of the Atlanta Braves, has undergone a second operation to mend the ring finger on his pitching hand.

Doctors at Stanford University Hospital grafted skin and nerves yesterday from the middle finger of the hand to the damaged ring finer. Upshaw, who injured the finger before the season began, was expected to be hospitalized another 10 days. Last year he won six games and saved 25 with a 2.91 earned run average.

CINCINNATI — Jim Merritt of Cincinnati became the major league's first 14 game winner yesterday as he pitched the Reds to a 5-0 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Trout Stocking

Lagunitas and Phoenix reservoirs were on the Department of Fish and Game's schedule for rainbow trout stocking this week, the department announced.

FISH AND GAME

Bass Fishing Can Pay Off At Times

By AL GIDDINGS

Last week Frank Sue, Marty Medin and I got together for a real try at some stripers. I hadn't caught a bass since April 2. That was about the time most of the fish went up the Delta on their annual spawning run.

We checked most of the local areas, but the bass seemed to be pretty scarce. Even the Department of Fish and Game checker at Caruso's had logged only five bass in the last week or so.

USING BAIT was out, with so many sharks and other predator fish in the bay, so we decided to try the rocky points inside and outside the Golden Gate using lures and jigs. What a workout! Let the jig out until it hits bottom, then give it a lift. Tiredness, backaches and snags are the general things that happen.

Then suddenly Frank has a fish on! A big fight, and finally we have a 20-pounder in the boat. We had been jigging and casting two hours by now. Frank got the fish on a bugeye. But no other hits here, so we moved over by Pt. Diablo. Another hour and about four Hopkins lures lost, then Marty gets about a 30-pounder. But that's it. We moved again and again, then decided to head in.

WE REACHED THE rocky area off Yellow Bluff after about five hours of fishing. It was about 2 p.m. and we could feel the heat as we headed for Sausalito. We thought we'd better keep fishing rather than get into that 100-degree-plus heat. Back to Yellow Bluff, and would you believe it? Marty gets two more bass, both pips, then he starts his singing. It's awful!

Finally I got a fish, about a 15-pounder, after a full eight hours of casting. After this we headed for home. That night Bob Wilson, the bass champ, comes over for the dope. Immediately, he wants to go the next day. I told him it was too much work, but he persisted, even going so far as to bet me 50 cents that we would limit out. He said we didn't work the Hopkins lures the right way. At first he wanted to bet $2 that we would limit! I finally said okay to the 50-cent bet.

THEN HE says, we have to leave home at 4:30 a.m. Good grief! But this does beat the winds, so I say okay. We launched at Sausalito at 5 a.m., slowly moving down the bay, through the fog. A compass sure helps! We made out three guys on some rocks casting. I tell Wilson that one is a guy named Poon and his son, and a friend. Bob gave me that "this guy's nuts" look, so I called and Poon waved.

It's true, on certain tides, certain fishermen have certain rocks that they call their own, and you can see them there almost every tide that's right. As we traveled along, there were approximately 30 of these anglers, some in precarious spots, and this, remember, is at 5:30 to 6 a.m.

ABOUT THIS time, I notice that Wilson has a sign posted on the boat that reads: Hopkins Lures — $3.25 each. I had lost three on the last trip, and had told Wilson they were too expensive to use at $2 each; that I wasn't bringing any along. I was using feathered jigs today. He figured to give me a fishing lesson, then I'd have to buy his lures.

Well, we finally got to his hot spot, so he cut the motor, and started jigging. I made a cast over by a rock, let it sink a little, started the retrieve, and bango! Honest, I did that three times in a row landing a 27 and two 21 pounders. Never in my life have I ever before made three casts and taken three fish. What did Bob do? He says, "Say, could you loan me one of those feather jigs?" I said for $4 each you can have as many as you want. Oh, I finally gave him a couple of old beat up ones, and in jig time he limited out too.

HE HAD TO PAY for the first, biggest and most fish, and I had to give him 50 cents for the two limits, but now wasn't that a day? We tried fly rods and for about 15 minutes had a ball, releasing the fish. Then suddenly the fish were gone! Not one other hit, so we headed for home, through fishing by 7:15 a.m.

In checking with the shore casters later, it was estimated that they had taken about 10 bass too. The one guy on the rock who I hadn't recognized with Poon was my fishing buddy Frank Sue. It seems his motor had broken down so he thought Wilson and I would pick him up if he called to us from shore as we passed. I didn't hear him, so now I am on his list. You know the one I mean!

America's Cup Trials Under Way

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—The observation trials to pick the America's Cup defender begin today.

The four candidates — Valiant, Heritage, Intrepid and Weatherly — will compete in round-robin races during the trials. Intrepid sails against Weatherly and Heritage against Valiant today.

Weatherly, the 1962 Cup defender, was added to the list of candidates Monday. The America's Cup selection committee accepted the offer of the syndicate that owns Weatherly to use the vessel at least for the first round of races.

Weatherly has been measured and would be eligible to defend the Cup if she should beat the other three yachts, all of which are newer. Intrepid defended the Cup in 1967.

The starting time for the trials today was pushed back two hours to 1 p.m. because of morning memorial services in Newport for Harold S. Vanderbilt, who successfully defended the Cup three times.

The committee will select the Cup defender by Sept. 8. The finals—against either France or Gretel of Australia—begin Sept. 15.

Billie's Future Clouded

CRYSTAL BAY, Nev. (UPI) —The future of tennis standout Billie Jean King has been clouded by a bad knee.

Mrs. King, back in the United States after a draining and disappointing defeat at Wimbledon, England, said Monday she will undergo tests to determine whether a second operation is needed on her sore knee.

TEACHING

She indicated she may go into semi-retirement and devote more time to teaching tennis at a Lake Tahoe camp of which she is co-partner.

The 26-year-old star from Long Beach, Calif., had one operation earlier in her career. Mrs. King said she would return to Long Beach for an examination by her surgeon.

"Whatever he says, I'll go along with," she said.

Mrs. King complained of leg cramps after a grueling loss to Margaret Court of Australia, 14-12, 11-9, in the longest women's match in Wimbledon history last weekend.

She called the loss her "greatest disappointment. I'm very American about it . . . winning is the essence."

WATCH

Mrs. King said her pained leg caused her at times to "stand and watch the ball go by."

She did, however, manage to team with Rosemary Casals of San Francisco for the Wimbledon doubles title.

Mrs. King's husband Larry, also 26, said his wife might be out of action at least six months if a second operation was performed. In any event, the Honolulu attorney said he is in favor of his wife taking it a little easier.

BRITISH OPEN

It's A Star-Studded Field

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI)—Six years ago, the late Tony Lema did the "impossible." He tamed the tough old course at St. Andrews at virtually first sight to win the British Open golf championship.

Lema, killed in an airplane crash in 1966, had played only one round of 18 holes in preparation for his assault on the ancient title after flying in 36 hours before the start on his first visit to Britain.

Locals considered it almost a sacrilage to mount a bid on that sort of preparation, an insult to one of the toughest tests of golf.

They cheered loudly, however, when the popular "Champagne Tony" pulled off the miracle — starting with an incredible 73, only one over par for the 6,951 yards course, in a raging gale which blew down many of the tents and sent scores soaring into the 80's.

No-one in the star-studded field assembled for the 21st Open at St. Andrews will go into this week's championship preparation.

Monday, the course was dotted with the elite of world golf and they continued today to grapple with the famed links, seeking out its fairway hazards and striving to read the vast and intricate greens.

The old course contains few horrors off the tee for the accomplished driver, provided he can combat the stiff breezes which are an inherent fact of golf here.

Among those in the favored group are past winners Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player — still flourishing members of the so-called "Big Three" of golf. Arnold Palmer, the third member of the trio and a two-time title winner, will be bidding from the pack in one of the strongest lineups of talent ever assembled.

Also among the favorites are Britain's obvious "Sportsman of the Year" for the second year in succession, Tony Jacklin who last month added the U.S. Open to the British title he won last year, Masters winner Billy Casper, past U.S. Open winners Lee Trevino and Orville Moody and Australia's consistent Bruce Devlin.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

A smooth starting approach is marked by pushing the ball away from you while taking the first step. This step is with the right foot in the four-step delivery (see illustration). You female bowlers shouldn't hesitate to do this, for it sets up the freely moving motion so necessary for a balanced approach. The arms should be at almost full length atthe end of the pushaway.

CUT AND FILL DUMP REPLACES DEBRIS BURNER

A long, long dump truck deposits another load of driftwood and debris from San Francisco Bay on the Army's dump in the hills at Fort Barry. The debris, skimmed up by the Army Corps of Engineers ships, totals 500 tons a month. The Army used to burn it at Sausalito, but the incinerator polluted the air and was shut down on request of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District. The debris now is buried and eventually will decay into the soil, according to the Army. The Fort Barry dump will last for 37 years at the present fill rate, and can be expanded to last 100 years. Keeping the bay clear and burying the debris costs $40,000 a month.

Trio Arrested In I-J Gunshot Case

Two Boys, One Adult Booked

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 45-year-old member of a newspaper printing union and two boys, 16 and 17 years old, were held today on suspicion of robbery and attempted murder in the shooting of Allan W. Daly, an employee of the Independent-Journal.

Meanwhile, Daly was reported slightly improved but still in critical condition in San Francisco General Hospital, where he had received more than 100 pints of blood since the shooting Saturday night.

Held in San Francisco City Jail without bail on suspicion of conspiracy, robbery and attempted murder was Frank Therber, 45, of San Bruno, a member of Newspaper Mailers Union 18 and employee of San Francisco Newspaper Printing Co., which prints and distributes the San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle. He was scheduled for municipal court arraignment Thursday at 10 a.m.

Held in San Francisco Juvenile Hall on suspicion of robbery and attempted murder were Larry G. Rutherford, 16, and Richard A. Wamsley, 17, both of San Bruno.

WIFE PICKS PAIR

The wife of the shooting victim identified young Rutherford and Wamsley in a police lineup last night as the youths who forced their way into the family's apartment at 407 Connecticut Street last Saturday night and demanded money, said Inspector John McKenna of San Francisco police.

Lt. Charles Ellis, chief of the homicide division of the police department, said after the arrests, "This was not a legitimate robbery." Before the arrests, he said the shooting "appears to be connected with the paper's strike situation." He did not elaborate.

San Francisco Typographical Union 21 went on strike against the Independent-Journal on Jan. 7, and has picketed the newspaper plant around the clock ever since. The Mailers Union, an affiliate of the International Typographical Union, had no contract with the I-J, having failed to win the right to represent mailroom employees in a National Labor Relations Board election several years ago.

The three were arrested in San Bruno last night by Inspectors McKenna and Hobart Nelson of the San Francisco homicide division and Sgt. Hugh Fraser of San Bruno police.

LATER ARREST

The two youths were arrested about 7 p.m. at the home of Rutherford's mother, which both gave as their address. Therber's arrest followed three hours later at his home.

Inspector McKenna said Therber was arrested and booked "based on information received that he was the one who had supplied the name (of Daly) to the two boys." He said the youths reportedly had been promised money for "staging a robbery" with Daly as victim, but claimed they had not been paid.

He said San Francisco police are investigating whether "there was someone behind Therber"

DALY STILL CRITICAL

61 Answer Call As Blood Donors

The Irwin Memorial Blood Bank in San Francisco and its branch in San Rafael today reported 61 persons answered the call yesterday and Sunday for urgently needed blood for Allan W. Daly, Independent-Journal employee shot in the stomach Saturday night at his San Francisco home.

Daly remained in critical condition today, San Francisco General Hospital reported, but said his condition has been stabilized.

I-J publisher Wishard A. Brown today said, "On behalf of the Allan Daly family and his fellow employees at the I-J, I wish to thank the citizens of Marin, San Francisco and Sonoma counties who have given blood through the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank to the Allan Daly account at San Francisco General Hospital. All of us associated with this newspaper deeply appreciate this response of life-giving blood."

Besides the 61 pints donated directly, the blood bank reports it has received an additional release of 40 units from the Marin reserve blood bank, of which 22 came from the I-J blood bank reserve.

The blood bank added that while it was imperative to get type O-Positive blood directly to Daly the first two days, which necessitated giving at the San Francisco branch, persons wishing to donate in the future may do so at the San Rafael branch at 506 Fourth Street.

The blood bank said the blood is moved from San Rafael to San Francisco three to four times a day.

Federal Health Insurance Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A cradle-to-grave health insurance plan for every American was unveiled today by the blue-ribbon, 100-member Committee for National Health Insurance. It would be financed by workers, employers and government.

Leonard Woodcock, United Auto Workers (UAW) president and committee chairman, said the proposed "health security program" would give millions of Americans health insurance coverage for the first time and would solve many of the nation's pressing health problems. It would require congressional enactment.

The committee estimated the cost for such a program in 1969 would have been $37 billion. It projected no estimate for 1973, when the plan is proposed to take effect.

Of needed funds, 40 per cent would come from federal general tax revenues, 35 per cent from an employer payroll tax and 25 per cent from a tax on individual income up to $15,000.

Doctors, hospitals and other providers of medical services would agree not to charge their patients, but instead to bill the health security program. Patients thus would not be billed for covered services.

"The insecurity created by the health crisis in America gnaws at the American family, and at the deepest roots of our society," Woodcock said in a statement.

The plan would provide these patient benefits:

—All necessary doctor services.

—All necessary hospital services, nursing home care of up to 120 days for each illness, and home health services.

—A wide range of mental health services with some limits on psychiatric consultations and hospital care.

—Dental care for children up to age 15 when the plan begins, with an increasing eligibility age each year until all age groups are included.

—The purchase of many drugs, with an emphasis on drugs and medicines for persons in hospitals, and nursing homes and those enrolled in medical group practice plans.

—Some therapeutic devices,

Rail Strike Snarls Bay Commute, Brings Plea For Federal Action

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An unannounced strike against the Southern Pacific Railroad stranded 12,000 commuters today in the San Francisco Bay Area.

The last commuter train left San Jose at 6:13 a.m. before pickets were thrown up around major terminals in a dispute over firemen's jobs. Twenty-two operate in both directions during the morning rush hours between here and San Jose.

Pickets were set in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland. The walkout involved conductors, brakemen, switchmen and firemen of the United Transportation Union.

Dale Creasy, vice president of the local UTU, said "thousands" of workers would be affected in the San Francisco area, but did not know the exact number.

"All trains of the Southern Pacific Company will be struck until the firemen issue is settled," Creasy said.

Southern Pacific is one of three railroads struck just after 6 a.m. The walkout also struck the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Louisville and Nashville lines.

The railroads were struck after negotiations collapsed Monday night between union officials and management.

The UTU said firemen's jobs were being eliminated, leaving an inadequate crew for a minimum level of safety. The railroads began eliminating firemen's jobs 11 years ago, saying the job has outlived its usefulness.

The National Labor Railway Conference representing all three carriers immediately asked President Richard M. Nixon to appoint an emergency board to halt the strike for 60 days.

The 262,000-member UTU struck the B & O at 6 a.m. EDT after talks between union and management officials collapsed Monday night in Washington. The strike quickly

Government Crisis Halts Italian Strike

ROME (UPI) — Italy's most sudden and unexplained government crisis since World War II prompted cancellation of a 24-hour general strike planned for today. President Giuseppe Saragat met with political party leaders to seek their solutions.

A labor group warned workers to watch out for a government shift to the right, and canceled the strike in fear of possible violence.

Saragat conferred with the leaders of all 10 parties represented in parliament. He plans meetings Wednesday with

Russ Mideast Effort Linked To Canal Need

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Diplomatic sources said today in London the Soviet Union is intent on reopening the Suez Canal and that this may imply indirect Soviet support for the establishment of an Egyptian bridgehead on the Israeli-held east bank.

The report reading UPI chief European diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler coincided with Israeli reports of growing Soviet involvement in the Middle East and the assertion Monday that Russians had fired advanced SAM3 missiles at Israeli planes and were helping the Egyptians fire the older SAM2s.

Israeli warplanes attacked Egyptian positions along the Suez Canal for the 48th consecutive day today, and a Cairo spokesman said Egypt's air defenses "hit" a Skyhawk attack bomber. There was no indication whether surface-to-air (SAM) missiles were involved.

The London diplomatic sources said closure of the Suez Canal means a prolongation of 38 days for Soviet supplies to North Vietnam around the cape route and that the Sino-Soviet conflict has also heightened Soviet needs for a push into the Indian Ocean.

The issue of Russian aid to establishment of an Egyptian bridgehead was said to be among the topics currently under consideration in the Moscow talks between President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Kremlin leaders. Moscow dispatches today said Nasser has extended his visit another 10 days.

The diplomatic reports said Russian commitment to the Arabs is "total" but that Moscow still shrinks from involvement that could confront it with the United States. But

Council Splits, Rejects Alto Cluster Proposal

The Mill Valley City Council, faced last night with a request for an increase of nearly 44 per cent in density as the price for open space in a cluster development, decided the price was too high. (Another Mill Valley City Council story, page 28.)

A plan to cluster 120 garden cottages at the base of a 27.5-acre hill in the upper part of the city's Alto Bowl was presented and the council denied the application of Cal-Fong Investment Corp.

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke, noted that alternative single-family development previously approved would permit total development of the acreage and warned the hill would be "lost under a sea of concrete," if the cluster plan were turned down.

But the majority agreed with Councilman Robert H. Andresen that the density price tag was too high.

Reacting to strong public protest, including numerous letters and a petition signed by 200 persons, the council voted 3-2 to deny the application, Mayor George E. Wickham and Hauke in favor of the plan, Jean S. Barnard, Edward J. Boessenecker and Andresen opposed.

A steady stream of owners of homes in nearby Scott Valley and Alto paraded before the council to request that Cal-Fong not be granted a density increase from 3 dwelling units per acre to 4.36 units.

They hammered on three main points: excessive traffic that would be generated, the flooding problem downstream from the proposed development and the strain on city services that the density increase would foster.

"We're very concerned about what will happen after the first development comes in," said Henry Strasser, of 65 Shell Road. "Instead of an increase in density, I would like to see a decrease." The partisan audience applauded vigorously.

Patsy Simpkin, of 44 Glen Drive, said she didn't want "to keep people out, but I resent the fact that whenever a developer asks for a cluster project, the density has to shoot up. I'm not against clustering, but I don't like more density."

Giving Cal-Fong a density increase would set a dangerous precedent, said Mrs. Hugh Rodman, of 189 Oakdale Avenue. "What you do here is forecasting what will be done in the rest of the area," she said.

Not everyone opposed the project. Manuel Gomez told the audience, "It's not a density increase that you should be scared of, it's the disappearance of land. This plan would put houses close together and in

Cambodians Regain Town Near Capital

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian troops backed by South Vietnamese warplanes have recaptured the town of Saang, 22 miles south of Phnom Penh, but lost 32 killed and 47 wounded in two days of fighting, military spokesmen said today.

The Cambodians estimated about 200 guerrillas died in the battle, most of them in air strikes by South Vietnamese and Cambodian warplanes.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Retain Texaco For Long-Term Growth

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I invested $1,000 in Texaco at 32½. This investment was made for long-term growth. Would you please comment on the merits of this stocks? — S.B.

A. For the first time in a decade, Texaco's steady earnings growth was interrupted in 1969. Price weakness — particularly in European markets — and rapidly rising costs reduced net income 6.1 percent year-to-year. However, in the initial 1970 quarter, this weakness was partially offset by continued increases in demand and output. Thus Texaco managed to show a modest gain in net income and per share profits advanced to 75 cents in 1969. Contributing importantly to this significant rise was an 8.3 percent gain in liquids production, a 10.7 per cent advance in refinery runs and a 6.7 per cent increase in petroleum product sales.

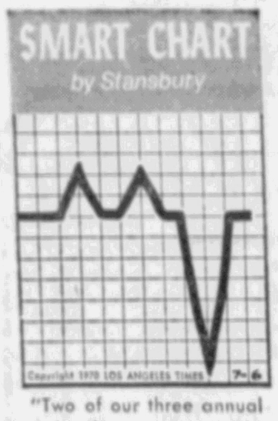
Major sources of strength for Texaco lie in the broad geographic distribution of company's crude reserves and worldwide balance between production, refining and marketing. Recent developments in the Middle East — where TX has holdings — are partly responsible for the stock's lower trading levels.

Currently selling at approximately 9x 1970's earnings estimates and carrying a 5.9 per cent yield, shares have favorable long-term growth prospects.

Q. Iam interested in Memorex. Can you tell me about the company's potential? — R.K.

A. Sales and earnings at Memorex are expected to show improved year-to-year comparisons over the balance of 1970. Important growth should develop in equipment area, with new product sales gaining momentum in the second half. Physical shipments and dollar volume of computer tape lines have become more stable and a 10 per cent or better improvement in both areas is possible.

Company sales could increase as much as 45 per cent in 1970 to around $110 million compared with last year's $77.7 million. High-margined peripheral equipment sales should partly offset the less profitable tape business and the overall pretax margin is expected to be under 1969's 17.5 per cent. Earnings should approximate $2.70 per share for 1970. The stock of this young firm has speculative appeal at current levels.



"Two of our three annual promotions were very successful."

Cash Purchase

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cohen-Hatfield Industries, Inc., has bought Dave Downey & Co., diamond ring remounters of Indianapolis, for cash.

Pessimism Still Keeps Stocks Low

NEW YORK (UPI) — Economic and political problems continued to lean on the stock market today, although volume remained relatively light.

With a little more than an hour to go declines were in front of advances by more than 300 issues. Analysis said some of the pessimism reflected belief that the market may have to test its 1970 low in order to regain its equilibrium.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was off almost 5 points at 670.73 near 2:30 p.m. The closely-watched barometer of 30 top blue chip companies hit its low for the year on May 26 when it dropped 10.20 to 631.16.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a loss of 0.72 per cent on 1,509 issues crossing the tape. Of these, 776 backtracked and 411 moved forward.

A four-hour turnover of 7,750,000 shares was slightly ahead of the 6,930,000 shares traded during the similiar period Monday.

Among the most heavily traded stocks on the big board were Westinghouse, Seaboard World Airlines, Goodyear Tire, Telex Corp., Xerox, International Telephone and Chrysler.

Prices were lower in light trading on the American Stock Exchange.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

Owner Of Dutch Art Gallery Tells Plans Of Move To Fourth Street

Soon to move his business to a Fourth Street location in downtown San Rafael is B. G. (Ben) Steevens, who has operated the Dutch Art Gallery on B Street ever since he came here from Holland 10 years ago.

For most of that time he was 811 B Street, then when the building was razed two years ago to make way for a parking lot extension he moved across the street to 821, where he is now.

Steevens has leased 861 Fourth Street, where the Toy Palace used to be, through Ray Van Meter of Coldwell, Banker and Co. The store is narrower but deeper than present quarters, giving him about the same amount of total space. He is remodeling and will partition off the rear for his custom picture frame work and art and painting restorations. The front part will be decorated as a showroom for his paintings, wall plaques, special pieces and antiques. All of these stocks are imported goods.

A dedicated craftsman, an artist in his own right and a connoisseur, Steevens prefers to work solo rather than employ and train help in the specialized field which he has made his profession for over 30 years.

He plans on moving to Fourth Street by Aug. 1. New hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays. He is currently holding a pre-moving sale of his stocks on B Street.

ALLAN PEDROLI has sold the Elite Barber Shop at 1117 Fourth Street, San Rafael, ending a dynasty of about 50 years duration. He was there some 25 years and was preceded by his father for about the same length of time.

He is now selling insurance for New York Life Insurance Co., San Rafael.

The shop has been purchased by Eduardo M. De Chiara of Novato. He formerly owned Eddie's Barber Shop in Tiburon.

BANK OF AMERICA will move its downtown Novato office to the northwest corner of Grant Avenue and Sixth Street, as soon as a new building is erected there to contain it.

Architect Milton W. Chambers has designed one with 9,000 square feet and E. D. McGillicuddy Construction Co. will build it.

Centers of business activity shift, operations are expanded, more people move into new areas — and banks have to be alert to opportunities for new offices. In Marin, as elsewhere, it's a continuous contest among them to get the best locations — first, if possible.

Bank of America presently has two more locations in mind — Tiburon Boulevard and Beach Road in Tiburon for a new branch; and a change in Larkspur to a point farther north on Magnolia Avenue.

Bank of California wants to establish its first branch in Marin in the area of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and El Portal Drive, Greenbrae.

Bank of Marin is planning to move its office at Northgate Industrial Park to larger quarters now being built next door — and would also like to line up a good location in Larkspur, on the Kent-Lark strip.

INSURANCE: Gerald M. Ditri of Terra Linda will attend Provident Mutual Life's supervisors school at the company's home office in Philadelphia the latter part of this month. He is with the San Francisco agency. . .Mrs. J. P. Gatfield of Tiburon, president of the San Francisco Insurance Women's Association, has returned from the national association's convention in Oklahoma City.

HERBERT D. BURFORD, owner of Marin Lights, San Rafael, has been attending a management and business conference and seminar in the Bahamas, sponsored by Lightolier, a lighting manufacturer.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Typhoon Kills 39

SEOUL (UPI)—The torrential rains that began last weekend as an offshoot of Typhoon Olga ended today with the government reporting 39 storm-caused deaths. Fifteen persons were reported missing, 36 injured and 2,580 homeless.

Nasser Extends Stay

MOSCOW (UPI)—Arab sources said today President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt may stay in the Soviet Union until July 15 undergoing medical checks and resting.

Nasser arrived in Moscow on a mission to try to get more Soviet military aid. He was a guest at a country house in the village of Barvikha outside Moscow. Leonid I. Brezhnev, Communist Party general secretary, is at another country house near Nasser's.

The sources said Nasser has been undergoing examinations and treatment for diabetes and sciatica, ailments Soviet doctors treated when Nasser visited the Soviet Union before.

'Star City' Statue

MOSCOW (UPI)—A bronze statue of Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin will be erected in the suburban area where he lived until he died in a 1968 plane crash, the newspaper Vechernaya Moskva said Monday.

The statue will be in "Star City," the area the government has established for all Soviet cosmonauts and their families. Gagarin was the first man in space, first orbiting Earth in April, 1961.

Astronaut Is Father

HOUSTON (UPI) — Mary Haise, the wife of Apollo 13 astronaut Fred W. Haise Jr., gave birth Monday to the couple's fourth child. The parents said they would name the 7-pound, 8-ounce boy Thomas Jesse Haise.

Fong Running Again

HONOLULU (UPI)—Sen. Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, is running for a third term in the U.S. Senate.

Fong said Monday, "In the past 11 years, it has been my privilege to help ease Hawaii's transition from territory to state, to help promote Hawaii's tremendous economic growth, and to help enact into law many landmark measures on education, civil rights, Social Security and other vital fields."

Royalty Sees Arctic

INUVIK, Northwest Territories (UPI)—Britain's royal family hopscotched across the barren northlands Monday on the second day of their 10-day Arctic tour, winding up with a view of the midnight sun.

Officially here for the centennials of both the Northwest Territories and the province of Manitoba, the royal family also is demonstrating nonverbally that Canada owns the waters between the Arctic islands. An education official reflected the views of many officials when he said, "This trip has a point: sovereignty."

Prince Charles and Prince Philip visited the oil camp of Eureka on Melville Island Monday, about 900 miles from the North Pole.

Antlers cast off annually by deer are usually eaten by rodents to satisfy their craving for calcium and other minerals.

Racial Peace Sought In New Jersey Resort

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (UPI) —The ghetto West Side of this seaside town was reported quiet but tense early today in the wake of more than 12 hours of violence marked by fires, looting, approximately 100 arrests and at least 44 injuries, none serious.

The acrid smell of smoke still hung over the Springwood Avenue area as large numbers of police, remnants of a force of 200 rushed in Monday afternoon, continued to cordon off a 29-block area.

At the same time, a group of 15 black leaders, some from out of town, presented a list of 20 demands in a meeting with Mayor Joseph F. Mattice and two city councilmen.

The black spokesmen pressed for an immediate response as Mattice asked for a few hours to meet with the other two councilmen.

"The kids are saying to us, 'Act or we'll act for you'," said Willie Hamm, an assistant administrator at Rutgers University.

"And they don't act within the law. And we have witnesses to that," Hamm said.

Among the demands were: Hiring by the city of 100 black youths for the summer at $1.60 an hour; amnesty to all those arrested in the past two nights of violence; removal of all state and out of town police; adequate police protection for the West Side, and appointment of a black edcator to the city school board.

Also present at the meeting were Chief of Police Thomas Smith, who is black, and Ira Grayson, aide to Gov. William T. Cahill, who said he would report to the governor today on the situation here.

The arrests bring to about 122 the number arrested in two nights of racial disorders generated, informed observers say, by years of frustration centering around jobs, housing and recreation.

200,000 London Subway Riders Trapped 45 Minutes

LONDON (UPI)—Transport officials today blamed a faulty cable between two power stations for a subway power failure Monday that trapped more than 200,000 persons underground during the evening rush hour.

Six of London's eight subway lines were knocked out by the failure at 5:15 p.m. when the temperature was an unseasonably hot 85 degrees. The outage lasted about an hour but its effects were felt throughout the evening.

Authorities reported cases of women fainting and people breaking windows and forcing doors to provide ventilation. Thousands were led from the sweltering trains along darkened tunnels to the nearest exits. No serious injuries were reported.

One rider organized his car into shifts for sitting down. One trainload sang "God Save the Queen."

"We were trapped for 45 minutes," said Frank Ripper. "Two women fainted in my arms and others were close to panic. Finally we tore open the doors with our hands. Nobody knew what was happening. It was terrifying."

Cecilia Phillips, 26, a book editor, said she "thought of all those people in New York a few years ago who got stuck all night and suddenly I was frightened.

Fact Finders Alarmed By Viet Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A 12-man congressional fact-finding team just back from Vietnam reports that economic problems threaten both the security of South Vietnam and the U.S. effort to turn the war over to the Vietnamese.

It said the same problem, largely due to inflation, threatens the whole of Southeast Asia. As a remedy the congressmen suggested the official South Vietnamese currency the piaster, should be devalued, that interest rates there should be increased, that taxes should be reformed and that new commerce laws should be devised.

The report on the two-week inspection tour was turned in by the chairman of the panel, Rep. G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery, D-Miss. He said 11 of the 12 members agreed with the report.

"The weakest link in South Vietnam's chain is its economy. Failure to solve the major problems on the economic front will seriously and perhaps fatally weaken the pacification and Vietnamization programs," the report said.

"In each country (of Southeast Asia) fiscal strategy more than military strategy may well be the decisive factor in national survival," the report said. "If inflation is allowed to go unchecked, the governments face financial ruin."

Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., said he did not agree with the majority views. Two other members have also indicated they may have separate statements.

Hawkins issued a short news release describing his views, and calling the Saigon government "an unpopular military dictatorship."

Security Lid For Rogers

TOKYO (UPI)--Japan placed a heavy security guard around the U.S. Embassy today and stationed squads of riot police in vans in the nearby streets to protect Secretary of State William P. Rogers against anti-American radicals.

Three anti-Rogers demonstrations erupted when he flew in from Saigon to seek more Japanese economic aid for Southeast Asia, but they were small-scale and police kept them under control. In the largest, 600 radicals demonstrated near the embassy but there were no clashes.

Rogers appeared optimistic on his arrival about the survival of non-Communist governments in Cambodia and South Vietnam but convinced a prosperous Japan must aid the other Asian nations. He will meet separately Wednesday with Finance Minister Takeo Fukuda and Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

John Nance Garner, who died in 1967 at the age of 98, lived longer than any other U.S. vice president.

Farmer Sees Nixon Polarization Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James Farmer, a ranking black official in the Nixon administration, said today he believes President Nixon soon will make a statement on the polarization of national attitudes.

"It would be addressed to the polarization in the country on blacks and whites, young and old, rich and poor, the lost and the unlost," Farmer said. "I have reason to believe it might be done."

He would not elaborate but said he was hopeful a presidential statement would "defuse" a growing racial tension in the country.

Denying a report he had resigned, Farmer pointed to papers cluttering his desk and said he had too much work to consider leaving. He said the report in the New York Amsterdam News merely was an untrue rumor. Farmer said he has not submitted a resignation and is not preparing one.

Farmer, former national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, is a $42,500-a-year assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

He applauded Elliott L. Richardson, his new HEW boss, for taking steps last week to cut off funds to three southern school districts accused of operating segregated systems.

"We are on good terms," he said of Richardson. "And on the issues we have discussed, we see eye to eye." Farmer said those issues include civil rights.

"I'm in some ways a Puritan on civil rights," Farmer said. "I don't think I'd be in complete agreement with anyone on civil rights issues. Obviously, there are those in this administration with whom I am not in agreement on civil rights.

Mexico Vote Losers Meet

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Opposition National Action Party (PAN) leaders met in secrecy today to compile charges of fraud in Sunday's presidential election, in which its candidate was overwhelmingly defeated.

President-elect Luis Echeverria, meanwhile, received pledges of support from labor, peasant and legislative delegations who swarmed into his offices at the Party of Revolutionary Institutions (PRI) headquarters.

Unofficial results released by the PRI gave Echeverria an advantage of almost 9 to 1 over the PAN's Efrain Gonzalez Morfin. The PRI also claimed sweeping congressional victories. Official results will be announced Sunday. PRI figures today gave Echeverria 6,476,301 votes and Gonzalez Morfin 852,042.

Army units guarded the ballots and remained on the alert for post-election violence. But the nation remained calm.

Tam Budget Panel Drafts List Of Trims

Tamalpais High School District administrators and teachers, under pressure to trim the 1970-71 budget, last night issued a priority list of 24 possible cuts totaling 305,838.

The list was presented to district trustees, who will get out their surgical tools on July 20 when they decide what to do with the budget.

They already have approved a $10,045,407 tentative budget, but did so only to meet legal requirements — and made it clear that major revisions will probably have to be made before final adoption in August.

TENTATIVE BUDGET

The tentative budget would push the district's general fund tax rate to $2.165 per $100 assessed valuation, an increase of 2 cents over last fiscal year. The total tax rate last year was $2.29.

Still being negotiated are increases for the district's classified personnel. District teachers got a 6.7 per cent pay hike in the tentative budget.

The list of possible cuts was prepared by the budget council, composed of nine administrators and teachers. The total amount included $132,220 for items already in the tentative budget, and $173,618 for items pending for inclusion in the budget.

In other budget action, trustees authorized the administration to start work on $62,450 in maintenance and operations projects, including $12,000 for construction of a retaining wall at Sir Francis Drake High School.

The projects include new electrical outlets, bulletin boards, heaters, lighting, renovation of rooms, new telephone extensions and the like.

The 24 possible cuts were listed from the highest to the lowest priority, thus the first listed were the ones the budget council wanted most to keep in the final budget.

The list was as follows: continue transportation aid for needy families, $20,000; retain increase of materials and equipment allowance at $5 per student, $30,000; provide for first priority maintenance and operations, $55,357 (of which $50,450 was committed to the above projects).

NEW COURSES

Support new courses from special funds, $11,825; increase school allowances for instructional aides, $9,690; increase school allowances for clerical help, $19,500; add an audio visual technician to school staffing allowances, $24,000; support English workshop proposal, $3,880.

Continue district support of transportation between home and school, $25,000; add one clerk to Redwood staff, $6,500; provide for second priority maintenance and operations projects, $19,255; increase school allowances for campus supervisors, $12,000; continue in-service support for teacher-administrators, $2,000.

Support purchase of Tamalpais educational television equipment, $7,400; support replacement of lost library books, $5,000; continue support of consulting time for management information program, $1,500; continue district support of athletic transportation, $16,000.

TV EQUIPMENT

Support purchase of Drake educational television equipment, $6,995; continue support of programming time for management information system, $1,500; continue support of extended counseling services, $2,450; continue support of Tamalpais summer counseling services, $550; provide for third priority maintenance and operations projects, $15,436.

Continue support of student magazine, "On the Other Hand," $2,000, and add educational television technician to Tamalpais staff, $8,000.

Redwood Library Carpeting Set As Opener Of Remodeling Effort

Tamalpais High School District trustees last night voted to spend $6,750 to carpet the library at Redwood High School in the first step of a $275,000 remodeling of the school.

School officials long have sought the carpeting to make the library quieter, and to attract more students for study.

Some 900 square yards, at $7.50 a yard, should be in place by the time school opens in September, trustees were told by the architect for the remodeling.

Chester Bowles Jr., a San Francisco architect, won informal board endorsement of his plans to shift various Redwood departments to provide more space, as did the architects preparing plans to remodel Sir Francis Drake High School.

Bowles' plans included four study-lounges for students and teachers, which he said would help meet the problems of a school that was "too big, too impersonal, and too difficult to find a place to study."

Additional study-lounges would cost $25,000 each, he estimated.

Work could begin next June and be completed in the fall of 1971 "with minimum dislocation of the school," Bowles said.

The money for the work will come from what is left of accumulated funds for the school. A similar amount, is available for Drake and Tamalpais high schools.

Plans for work at Tamalpais will be presented to the board on July 20.

The plans for Drake, drawn by the firm of Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons, were less detailed, but called for enclosing and expanding the existing eating area. To be divided into two spearate rooms, one would be used for eating, and the other as a "multi-purpose center." More detailed plans, as well as cost estimates, will be presented on July 20.

Tamalpais High School District board also:

OFFICERS — Elected David D. Ring as board chairman for the next fiscal year, and Frank L. Miller as board clerk. Ring, who was absent, replaced Mrs. Bette Wallace.

ATHLETES — Agreed not to ace on a request from the Redwood Executive Council that athletes pay their own transportation costs, pending a review of all district programs by the administration.

HAIR — Postponed until a future date, when special contracts will be considered, action on petitions by Redwood High School cross country runners urging the trustees to rehire Douglas B. Basham as their coach. Basham was rehired as a teacher, but not as a coach — because of his stand on the hair issue last fall, according to the students.

MEMBERSHIPS — Voted to join six educational groups at a cost of $560, but, at the insistance of trustee Robert W. Corlett, postponed joining the California School Boards Association for $1,053.

SPACE — Authorized the administration to hire an "architectural space consultant" to figure out how to make room in district offices for the administrators and their staff. Trustee Frank L. Miller noted that "while private offices have a certain amount of status, they're not necessarily essential." He also questioned "how necessary it is for everyone to have a private secretary."

PERSONNEL — Hired Michael Gross as teacher-administrator of the Opportunity School at an annual salary of $14,202, and Karen Harrison as dean of student activities at Redwood for a salary to be determined on the salary schedule plus $1,000.

Second Concert Slated Sunday

The second concert in the Dominican College music department's summer series will be presented Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in Angelico Hall, Dominican College, San Rafael.

Violinist Laurence Nelson and pianist Phyllis Murphy will perform music of Brahms, Webern and Wieniawski, and assisting Nelson in the performance of Beethoven's String Quartet, Opus 18, No. 4 in C Minor will be his wife, Anne Nelson, second violin; Joanne Lundblad, viola; and Doris Boyd, cello.

The musicians are all residents of Marin County.

Tam Walks Plans Ordered

Dangerously steep and slippery walkways at Tamalpais High School probably will cost $50,000 to make safe, clearly surprised school district trustees learned last night.

The estimate was made by Business Mgr. Frank A. Cassou, based on a study by the San Rafael engineering firm of Hoffman and Albritton.

The report put the district on notice, Cassou said, thus it had to act promptly to start corrections — in case it were sued by an injured student.

The trustees reluctantly voted unanimously to hire the engineering firm immediately to develop a program to correct the dangerous conditions.

The engineers' report found dangerous conditions at 10 locations, many with slopes over the engineers' criteria of a 10 per cent maximum slope. Most of the work would involve reconstruction and installation of steps.

House Bill Would Repeal Secrecy In Airline Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bill was introduced in the House Monday to repeal a section of the Airport and Airway Revenue Act of 1970 which forbids tickets and advertisements from listing the exact amount of the new 8 per cent federal "users tax" on airline tickets.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, R-N.Y., said his bill "will restore truth in taxation as far as airline tickets are concerned."

Stratton said the act "...makes it look as though Congress were trying to hide from the people the amount of taxes we are asking them to pay."

Stratton explained the original purpose of the provision "was simply to speed up the issuance of airline tickets by requiring the writing of only one figure instead of three; and also to prevent misleading travel advertisements..."

He said his bill would amend the law to allow ticket agents to show the amount of the tax on each ticket if they desired.

ex-presidents, ex-premiers and politicians to ask whom they think he should ask to try to form a new government.

Premier Mariano Rumor's 100-day center-left coalition government resigned at a 15-minute cabinet meeting Monday, precipitating the 31st governmental crisis since the fall of fascism in 1943.

The resignation caught Italians by surprise. Socialists, Communists and leftwing Roman Catholics condemned it as a plot to defeat organized labor, end social reform and shift the government to the right.

The Communist-led General Confederation of Labor asked workers "to demonstrate on their working places their firm will to reject any attempt at authoritarian developments and be vigilant against any possible provocation."

The immediate reason for the latest crisis apparently was the Socialists' intention to form regional governments with the Communists in two of 15 newly established regions—the equivalent of states in the United States.

The cabinet coalition had been formed with an agreement to keep the Communists from sharing power and the Christian Democrats and Unitarian Socialists objected to the attempts of the Socialists to cooperate with the Communists.

The jsocialists said their right to form regional governments with the Communists was laid down in agreements that led to the establishment of the latest Rumor government in March.

spread to the Southern Pacific and the Louisville and Nashville lines.

The strike comes at a time when the railroad industry has been pleading for aid from the federal government to help many carriers overcome financial difficulties, evidenced most recently by the Penn Central's decision to declare bankruptcy after the Pentagon refused to guarantee a proposed $200 million loan to the railroad.

Congress currently is holding hearings on a Nixon administration proposal to provide government guaranteed loans up to $750 million for ailing railroads.

1,232 Use College Pool Over Holiday

A record number of swimmers used the College of Marin pools during the holiday weekend, the college has announced. Total for the three days was 1,232, with 556 at the pool on July 2, 50 more than the previous one-day record.

The swimming and diving pools are open from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday, for the rest of July. The pools are closed on Sunday.

Woman Passenger Injured At Presidio

A 23-year-old San Rafael woman was examined for back and head pains at Marin General Hospital at 1:10 p.m. yesterday. Injured in an accident at the Presidio in San Francisco Sunday was Rosemary Brice of 1301 Second Street, according to the hospital.

Presidio Military Police acknowledged that she was a passenger in a car involved in a Sunday accident, but refused to give further details.

Clerk Recovers Beer

A young couple took some beer without paying for it at 12:25 a.m. today from the Short Stop Market at 1410 South Novato Boulevard, and after clerk Robert D. Hinkle recovered the beer, he found they had taken the revolver, valued at $35, which he kept to guard against robberies, Novato police reported.

Hinkle could give no description of the girl except that she was about 18 years old and drove an old Volkswagen. The man who took the beer was described as about 18 years old, six feet tall, of slim build, weighing 160 pounds and having brown hair. He was wearing a buckskin shirt and purple and red striped pants.

Tools Stolen

Two tool boxes and tools, valued at $175, were taken from inside a pickup truck at Aero Heating at 860 Sweetser Avenue, Novato, sometime between 4:30 p.m. Thursday and 8 a.m. yesterday, Randall W. Swank reported yesterday to Novato police.

in the arrangement for the pretended robbery.

Mrs. Daly told police the two armed youths forced their way into the apartment and one of them struck her husband with a steel pipe. They demanded money. When she offered to get her handbag from the kitchen, one of them went with her. The other remained with her husband.

While she was in the kitchen, she said, she heard a shot. She ran back to the living room to find her husband on the floor, bleeding from a wound in the abdomen. One of the youths grabbed her handbag, containing $6, and they ran.

Police later found the handbag, with the $6 still in it, outside the house.

A police artist prepared a sketch of one of the pair based on a description provided by Mrs. Daly. Rutherford closley resembles the sketch, Inspector McKenna said.

Therber has no criminal record, according to San Francisco and San Bruno police. The two youths have juvenile records in San Bruno and "are well known to the police department" there, said Sergeant Fraser.

Lieutenant Ellis said "all indications are that robbery was not the motive for the attack" and that the shooting "appears to be connected with the paper's strike situation."

Daly is employed as systems design analyst in charge of electronic equipment used in nontypesetting production processes at the Independent-Journal.

Late yesterday, a few hours before the arrests, Leon Olsen, president of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, issued a statement on behalf of the union which said:

"Mr. Daly was employed by the I-J after the strike began, and as such we have scant knowledge of him or his duties at the plant, other than that he had been referred to as a systems analyst. The shooting is a personal tragedy. We deplore any and all such senseless actions.

"It should be pointed out that during the six months since the I-J had displaced longtime employees with 'security forces' and imported strikebreakers, there have been other incidents not connected with the union. For example:

"A dog handler who supplied vicious dogs for the I-J was killed in San Francisco — the result of an unrelated grudge fight.

"The head of the Nor-Cal Security for the I-J absconded with more than $18,000 of the newspaper's money.

"Vandalism has occurred at the premises of merchants who have helped the union by withdrawing their advertising from struck newspapers.

"We are confident that fair-minded citizens will wait for the facts to be developed in this shooting before they jump to conclusions. As in every strike situation, there will be those who want to exploit the incident for their own selfish purposes. To listen to such people would simply be to encourage the stubborn employer to persist in his hope that he can defeat our union by continuing his refusal to bargain in good faith.

"We believe that in this shooting, as in all such cases, police should be allowed to make an objective, thorough investigation without hysteric anti-union speculation."

resistance as the guerrillas retreated southwest across the Vessoc river in the direction of Takeo.

Northwest of Phnom Penh, the spokesmen said, Communist forces appeared to have withdrawn from the main temple at the historic ruins of Angkor Wat and set up positions in a tourist hotel nearby.

UPI correspondent James Russell reported Saang was virtually leveled by air strikes. It had suffered heavy damage in two earlier battles in April and June.

Cambodian spokesmen also reported they called in South Vietnamese AC47 gunships to rake guerrilla positions around the province capital of Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of the capital.

In South Vietnam, U. S. military spokesmen said a Cobra helicopter gunship was shot down Tuesday, killing two Americans aboard. U. S. units reported killing 24 Communist troops in fighting mostly in the northern quarter of South Vietnam, but they suffered 39 wounded.

The Communists struck 24 times with rocket and mortar attacks around the country in the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. Tuesday, wounding 12 Americans.

Tentative Pact In Firemen's Strike Threat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mayor Joseph L. Alioto today announced a tentative settlement in a threatened strike by the city's 1,800 firemen.

The mayor reported agreement after a three-hour negotiating session which began at dawn. He declined to reveal details until the firemen and city Board of Supervisors approve the settlement.

But Alioto said the agreement with leaders of Firefighters Union Local 798 did not involve the hiring of additional employes. He said the use of overtime pay to keep crews at full strength was part of the tentative pact.

that way save 17 acres for open space."

Jon K. Nicholas, of 37 Meadow Drive, agreed: "I'd rather see 17 acres free and open to us than a hill covered with concrete and houses."

Norman T. Gilroy, architect for the project, warned the council that Cal-Fong could begin construction at any time on a conventional single-family subdivision under plans previously approved by the city.

Denial of the project, Gilroy said, would force Cal-Fong to build 83 homes on the hill and leave no open space.

After Mayor Wickham closed the public hearing, Hauke quickly moved approval of the density increase. Wickham seconded the motion.

But it soon became evident that no other councilman favored the development.

"The whole thing is a matter of density," Mrs. Barnard said. "I want a cluster development without an increase in density."

Andresen said he was troubled that "our little city has to accommodate the population explosion. This development is not in keeping with what we have in mind for Mill Valley."

Sensing that his motion would be defeated, Hauke said, "If we don't approve this, the hill is going to be buried under concrete.

By turning it down, we can kiss that hill goodbye."

"I agree," Andresen said, "but the price for that open space is too high."

"The price is never too high to save that hill," Hauke replied.

After the motion failed, Gilroy told the council, "The system of planning in this city makes a mockery of any developer who tries to design a project that's sensitive to the environment. I fail to see how the council can override every city body that this has come before. I fail to see how you can deny the open space to the people who voted for you."

Marin Suspects Plead Innocent On Pot Charges

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Five men arrested in Mill Valley in May for selling about 180 pounds of marijuana to narcotics agents have pleaded innocent to the charge in U.S. District Court here.

The case has been assigned to Judge Alfonso Zirpoli for hearing motions and setting a trial date on Aug. 24.

Pleading innocent Thursday to possession and sale of marijuana were Eric F. Millican, 21, of Long Beach, John A. Papia, 21, of Mill Valley; Thomas N. Hammer, 21, and Sheldon P. Levy, 21, both of San Francisco, and Ramon Bouchayer, 29, of Boardwalk 1, Larkspur.

The marijuana seized in the arrest May 5 was valued at $120,000 broken down into lids, according to narcotics agents.

equipment and appliances such as glasses.

"Health security will try to assure protection for every American family against the health service cost of serious, prolonged or expensive illness or disability," the committee said.

"There will be no cutoff point, in dollars or numbers of days of covered services or by age beyond which benefits would cease, except as noted for skilled nursing home, psychiatric and dental services."

Committee members scheduled to appear at a news conference announcing the program today, in addition to Woodcock, included Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and vice chairmen, Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, president of the Baylor College of Medicine; Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, president of the Albert & Mary Lasker Foundation; and Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League.

The committee said its plan would absorb the Medicare health insurance plan for the aged and most of the Medicaid program for the needy at an annual increased cost to the federal government of about $6 billion.

It also would eliminate the insurance coverage, with private insurance spending being rechanneled into payroll taxes to cover the new plan.

Introduction of the plan in congress could spark a national debate on univeral health insurance coverage. The American Medical Association has proposed its own plan, called Medicredit, to give tax credits to the poor for the purchase of health insurance.

United Nations Secretary General Thant told a news conference in Geneva today he would not commet on reports Russians were firing the SAM3s, but he said it was "fair, from the United Nations point of view, to distinguish between offensive and defensive weapons."

Thant also said the latest Soviet proposals on the Middle East contains "concrete and realistic elements" for a just and lasting peace in the area. He would not compare the Russian plan with a recent U.S. peace proposal but said the Russians were being realistic for the first time.

NEW ANTIRIOT WEAPON

This antiriot weapon that hurls blocks of wood from a gas-powered gun has been added to the arsenal of the Berkeley police. Known as the multiple baton shell, it was developed in Hong Kong and used in Berkeley for the first time last Saturday to halt rioting youths. The five wooden pellets are intended to be painful, but not fatal. Meanwhile, downtown Berkeley was hit last night by at least five man-caused fires within a 90-minute period. No injuries, however, were reported. (UPI Telephoto)

Committee Suggests Petaluma Tax Hike

Recommendations for tax rate increases and new taxes were offered last night to the Petaluma City Council as a means of providing more revenue for the future.

The city-wide finance committee headed by E. W. Schneider included a recommendation for an increase in the property tax rate now at $1.50 per $100 assessed valuation or, in lieu of that, a utility tax.

While the 20-member committee was evenly split on the new tax and tax rate increase, it reported that the property tax increase might be better since it would be tax deductible.

Stressing need to make all city services self-supporting, the committee suggested that the sewer connection fee on single-family homes be increased from $300 to $500 with the monthly service charge jumping from $2 to $2.46.

It also recommended higher charges for multiple dwellings and for industries which place a heavy burden on the sewer system.

On parking revenues, the committee recommended that all meters be changed to five cents per hour regardless of location. It also warned against removing meters from Petaluma Boulevard unless other spaces are provided and said that free permits issued to contractors and utility companies should be revoked and the equivalent of five cents per hour charged for spaces taken up during construction.

The committee recommended that licenses for dogs be raised from $2 per year to $4 and that cat owners be charged the same. The committee split in recommendations on higher fees for reclaiming animals and housing costs.

Other suggestions included an increase in the basic ambulance rate to $32.50 and an increase in the stand-by fee to $15 per hour. Increases were also recommended in the transient occupancy fees and business license fees.

Although the report had just been submitted, the council received a petition from W. J. Larry and 16 other property owners objecting to either a tax rate increase or utility tax. They said that new residents, who are making added service necessary, should pay the additional costs rather than older residents.

The council said it would study the committee report and schedule a special session and public hearing on the recommendations before any are enacted.

The Petaluma City Council Also:

PURCHASE — Authorized City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer to negotiate for the purchase of park property on St. Francis Drive and for property for future street widening on Magnolia Avenue and Cherry Street.

COMPLETE — Certified the completion of street work at Petaluma Boulevard South and D Street as done by the Don Dowd Co. of Sebastopol at a cost of $4,040.

GASOLINE — Set a public hearing for Aug. 17 at 7:30 p.m. on the proposed annexation of 50 acres on Casa Grande Road and Lakeville Highway.

CLOSED — Went behind closed doors with Meyer to discuss salary negotiations with employee groups.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until Thursday at 2:30 p.m. to complete the remainder of the lengthy agenda.

College Panel Debates Purchase Of Computer

Whether to lease-purchase the IBM computer that the County of Marin plans to replace this month was discussed without decision last night at a "workshop meeting" of Marin Junior College District trustees.

Donald Griffin, head of the college's data processing department, presented proposals on computer equipment from nine vendors. But most of the data concerned the advantages of acquiring the 360/30 computer now leased by the county from International Business Machines Co.

The college has an IBM 1401 computer (the type the county had before acquiring the 360/30). Griffin said it is used four hours daily for instruction and four hours for administrative records.

The trouble with it, he said, is that it is not adaptable to expansion, and is an outdated model.

The 1401 could belong to the college district with a single $78,000 payment. The 360/30 now at the Civic Center would cost $327,000, plus 5 per cent interest, with credit for lease payments the county already has made. The same model computer could be bought elsewhere for about the same price but at higher interest.

The trustees may not have long to make up their minds. James Singleton of IBM said the county has served notice it will discontinue leasing the equipment July 31. "Once it goes off rent, those credits are lost," he said. The county is converting to Radio Corp. of America equipment.

Supt. John A. Grasham said another workshop would be set up for the July 22 week to try to decide. Trustees present last night were Robert E. Rogers, Charles W. Gray, and Donald K. Felt.

Oakland Chief To 'Stay As Needed' On Seattle Force

SEATTLE (UPI) — Oakland Police Chief Charles B. Gain will be interim chief of the Seattle Police Department for "as long as he's needed" Mayor Wes Uhlman said today.

Uhlman said Gain would have his full backing but was not coming here as a hatchet man.

The Seattle Police Department currently has been upset by charges of a shakedown and payoff system among officers and gambling interests.

Gain's post will definitely be interim according to Uhlman who said there was no possibility Gain would become Seattle's permanent chief.

Acting Seattle Chief Frank Moore will be stepping down because of his health and will take the post of assistant chief in charge of technical services.

That post was previously held by M. E. (Buzz) Cook, whose current trial for perjury has led to allegations of police payoffs.

Petaluma Sewage Disposal Inadequate, Engineer Says

Petaluma's 2-year-old sewage disposal plant is already inadequate and must be improved to the tune of $3.6 million, a consulting engineer told the city council last ngiht.

Max Griffith of Yoder, Orlab and Associates, said that the $2 million plant completed in 1968 is already at 90 per cent of its capacity and is not doing the job it should.

Noting that Petaluma ranks 23 on the state-wide list of water polluters, Griffith said that standards set by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board will grow even more stringent and that plans must be made now to halt pollution of the Petaluma River.

The enginner said the main cause of the pollution appears to be the inability of the disposal plant to treat solid waste material. Griffith said that a much larger amount of solid waste finds its way into the river than should be tolerated.

He also noted that the grease content of the river is 10 times stronger than the state average and recommended a study be made to pinpoint the causes. Griffith said the 1965 study showed the largest grease contributors to be the Petaluma Cooperative Creamery, Sebastopol Meat Co. and poultry producers.

Griffith said that if construction is under way in two years, the cost will probably reach $3.6 million although alternatives should be considered.

He said that as an interim step, the city should lease the Ben C. Gerwick property adjacent to the new sewage disposal plant for storage of extra solid wastes.

He also suggested that the city find its place in the regional bay delta sewage disposal plant and not spend any more money than necessary to conform with the plan.

Griffith also suggested the city study the physical-chemical process that has recently been developed for sewage disposal, but warned the more sophisticated method may run costs up to $5 million.

City Engineer David A. Young asked the council to study the highly technical report for a month and to schedule a special session on it in late August or early September.

Marijuana Case In Superior Court

William Paul Lipps, 29, of Fairfax, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of possessing marijuana after a preliminary hearing in municipal court.

He is to appear for arraignment Monday.

Lipps was arrested in a Fairfax residence April 14 where he was house-sitting for two friends who had been arrested on suspicion of setting up a mail order drug business.

Police said they noticed a heavy odor of what appeared to be marijuana in the house when they returned in connection with the other case, and after obtaining a search warrant, they came back and found about seven ounces of suspected pot.

Petaluma Education Budgets Set

The Petaluma Board of Education adopted its budgets for 1970-71 last night and heard that an additional $120,000 may be forthcoming from the state.

The budget for the high school district of $4,863,666 represented an increase of $346,413 over the 1969-70 budget and the elementary district budget of $2,445,970 was an increase of $196,331.

The budgets will be subject to a public hearing on Aug. 4 at 8 p.m.

Schools Supt. Lesly Meyer said that as a result of the adopted state budget, the districts should each receive an additional $60,000 which had not been included in the budgets.

He said the $120,000 figure was only an estimate since no firm commitment had been received from the state. The state funds are expected to be considered in September when salary negotiations begin with teachers.

The Petaluma Board of Education also:

Tennis Buffs Get No Help, Just Sympathy

Tennis buffs last night petitioned the Corte Madera Town Council for "equal time" on the town's two courts for seasoned players to that allowed learners under the Park and Recreation Department's summer recreation program.

While sympathizing with the tennis players and agreeing that more tennis courts are needed in the town, the council refused to upset the summer program's timetable.

Joseph Wagner of 33 Birch Avenue, a petition signer, said the recreation department's use of the courts is not allowing use by others from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays.

"This started out as a five-week program in May," Wagner said, and now it is running through August. "Why can't the recreation department use the courts in the afternoon and leave the mornings open for regular tennis players?" he asked.

"There is a dire need for additional courts," Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff agreed, "but we have an equal obligation to the young and old under this innovative program.

The council agreed and tabled the matter until September.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

HOME OCCUPATION — Approved unanimously a Home Occupation permit request to practice family counseling from William M. Nagata of 14 Endeavor Drive.

PARK RULES — Approved unanimously park rules and regulation for group use of the town park and recreation facilities. The rules were drafted in a joint session last Monday with the Park and Recreation Commission.

PUBLIC CONDUCT — Approved unanimously introduction of an ordinance governing conduct on public property. The ordinance will become effective 30 days after passage.

PARKING STANDARDS — Held open a public hearing on parking space standards when it appeared that the council would vote 2 to 2 on the measure. Mayor Edward W. Colthurst, the fifth vote, was absent from last night's meeting. The new standards would give the town engineer the option of setting parking standards, two councilmen claimed in objection to the measure.

WATERCOURSE OBSTRUCTION — Tabled an ordinance which would put the financial burden on property owners of keeping Corte Madera Creek and other waterways clear of debris. The council refused to consider the ordinance until definitions of waterways were included.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned until its next regular meeting July 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

Drug Suspect Is Arrested

A 19-year-old Marin City man has been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs, marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia, after Novato police observed him sitting alone in his auto.

Released on $500 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court was Larry James Stover, of 89 Cole Drive, Apt. 19.

Stover was sitting in his car at 7:15 p.m. Sunday in front of 575 Sutro Avenue, police reported. A check of his auto license showed a $16 traffic warrant outstanding from San Francisco. In searching his car, police found a wood and brass pipe, cigarette roller, a small quantity of vegetable matter thought to be marijuana and pills.

A bench warrant with bail set at $1,000 was issued yesterday in Marin Superior Court for Johnny Grinner Jr., 20, of no fixed address, who is accused of stealing a car in Marin City May 30, 1969.

Two Scholars Reject Reagan Commendation

DAVIS (UPI)—Two Davis High School graduates unhappy with Gov. Ronald Reagan's education policies are returning certificates awarded by Reagan that commended them for outstanding scholastic achievement.

Elaine Kasimatis and Karin Von Abrams disclosed their rejection of the certificates in a letter to Rep. Robert J. Leggett, D-Vallejo. They also sent Leggett the certificates designating them "California Governor's Scholars" and asked him to return them to Reagan.

"In view of the Reagan Administration's policies toward education, we consider it ironic, and not a little hypocritical, that the governor should undertake to commend students for high scholastic achievement," the girls said in the letter.

PRINTED IN RECORD

Leggett, who had the letter printed in the Congressional Record last week, said he placed the letter on record "for the purpose of underscoring the fact that our best and brightest young people are being antagonised by our distorted priorities."

The girls questioned how certificate winners could be chosen fairly when equally bright students in less affluent districts receive poorer instruction because of Reagan's fiscal policies.

"We are fortunate to have attended school in one of the best-financed districts in the state," their letter said. "Yet even here we see the budget cuts and harmful program alterations that Reagan policies require.

DIFFERENT VIEW

"We wonder how many students in less prosperous districts, with potentials equal to or greater than ours, will never be recognized either as Governor's Scholars or simply as people with something extra to contribute to society," they said.

"It is no honor to be named a Reagan scholar," they added.

Karin, 17, said she will attend the University of California at Santa Cruz in the fall. Elaine, 18, plans to go to UC Davis. Both girls maintained straight "A" averages through their four years of high school.

Priority List For Teachers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The National Education Association's new president says teachers should be reasoning activists who are "both faithful to our profession and sensitive to the political facts of life."

President Helen Pate Bain of Nashville, Tenn., told the teacher organization's 108th annual convention Monday that "we and education will fail if we lose sight of the legislative realities of our profession."

She urged a list of priorities including state laws to achieve "fair contracts" and lessen the need for teacher strikes; state laws to provide teacher autonomy because "we must control our own profession;" adequate schools financing; "meaningful and significant" student involvement; and creation of human relations centers.

It is "imperative that we tool up our political might to defend the right of every child to be given an equal chance to grow," she said.

"We will be neither so reasonable as to acquiesce to the status quo nor so irrational as to try to impose instant perfection," she said.

Delegates at the convention's last day adopted a resolution calling for the development of means to improve "police-community and student-police relations." The resolution declared that "improved human relations is essentiai to school environment."

Delegates also rejected a resolution which would have put the organization on record as opposing American policies in Indochina.

Donald E. Morrison, 45, a history and social studies teacher from San Diego, Calif, was named president-elect. He will take office a year from now.

Navigators' Island is the old name for the Samoan Islands.

Record Forms To Be Given Out

Don's be surprised by that policeman knocking on your door this week — he just wants to give you a record form to help keep track of property that could conceivable be stolen or lost.

Joseph Brusatori, San Rafael police chief, announced that uniformed patrolmen will be passing out the forms, for serial number records which permit identification of appliances, credit cards and other property, in residential neighborhoods.

Stolen proferty is often unrecoverable, Brusatori said, because no record of serial numbers has been kept.

Man Gets Short Term For Pot

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday placed Richard Brooks Hardy, 24, former Massachusetts resident who now lives in Petaluma, on probation for one year and ordered him to spend one weekend in jail for a marijuana conviction.

He also fined Hardy $150 and ordered him not to use or possess narcotics nor to associate with persons who do.

Hardy was stopped for speeding in Novato on Feb. 21 and admitted that he was "stoned" at the time.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

18-Year-Old Vote Gains; Demos Plan Strategy On Tax Reform

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to give 18-year-olds the right to vote and all other rights of adulthood—except to buy liquor—has been approved by the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

The committee Monday approved on a voice vote and sent to the floor a proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton. If approved by two-thirds of both legislative houses and by a majority of the voters in November, it would take effect Jan. 1, 1972.

The signature of Gov. Ronald Reagan would not be needed.

The proposed amendment was previously approved by the Assembly Elections and Constitutional Amendments Committee.

It would extend the rights of adulthood, such as voting, sitting on juries and signing contracts, to persons 18 years old but would not allow them to buy liquor.

The measure, however, would allow the legislature later to increase the age for rights other than voting.

DEMO DEMANDS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate Democrats are prepared to withhold their votes on Gov. Ronald Reagan's $1 billion tax revision program unless additional aid to local schools is included, Sen. George Moscone said today.

Moscone, Democratic floor leader, said that after an unsuccessful attempt last week to force Reagan to grant more school aid in his $6.59 billion budget, Democrats are now aiming at Reagan's tax shift legislation.

"We've decided to make our fight on tax reform," the San Francisco lawmaker told newsmen.

He said Democrats were now undecided in what form their demands would be made. He said they were searching for a "consensus of the caucus."

The governor's tax revision plan is divided into two parts, with one segment requiring a two-thirds Senate approval, or 27 votes. Republicans now command only 20 votes, which means they must receive Democratic support for passage of the entire program.

Moscone said several Democrats, members of the recalcitrant 13 who withheld support for the budget, believed the fight could be better fought on the tax issue.

He said they were reluctant to press demands with a fiscal crisis facing them if the state went budgetless for too long a period.

INSURANCE CURB

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan today signed legislation to prevent insurance firms from canceling fire, homeowner and personal property insurance without good cause.

Author of the measure, which Reagan proposed, was Assemblyman Robert G. Beverly, R-Manhattan Beach.

The governor said the bill was prompted by cases in which insurance companies canceled policies in areas hit by large fires and urban riots.

Insurers have previously been able to cancel policies "arbitrarily," Reagan said, "without giving any reason for their action."

The new law, which Reagan called "a key part" of his "consumer protection program" allows cancellation only for certain reasons, such as nonpayment of premiums, fraud and gross negligence.

It also requires insurers to give policy-holders 45 days notice of intention to cancel.

POLLUTION ACT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill giving conservationists the right to seek court orders to halt activities of polluters has moved a step closer to winning Assembly passage.

The Assembly Judiciary Committee Monday approved the bill by Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, and sent it to the Ways and Means Committee on a voice vote.

Current law requires individuals or organizations such as the Sierra Club to prove they are in danger of being damaged by a pollution action before the courts will allow them to sue a firm or individuals to halt the act.

The Hayes bill gives the courts the right to order the pollution be stopped, but the person or group which files the suit is not entitled to a financial settlement for damages.

The measure applies to pollution of public lands but does not affect privately held land.

DDT BAN DEAD

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill virtually banning DDT in California by 1973 is dead for the current session of the legislature.

The Assembly Agriculture Committee Monday defeated the measure by Sen. John A. Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek. The same committee rejected a similar Nejedly bill last year.

The bill, at the request of chairman William Ketchum, R-Paso Robles, was assigned to a between-sessions legislative study.

"That's about two years too late," Nejedly complained later. He argued the pesticide should be outlawed as soon as possible because of its alleged detrimental effects on the natural environment.

In 1969, the committee defeated Nejedly legislation calling for gradual elimination of DDT and other chlorinated hydrocarbon pesticides. It approved legislation giving the state director of agriculture more power to administratively ban such bugkillers.

Nejedly's bill would have outlawed the use of DDT in California after Dec. 31, 1972. But the agriculture director could still authorize its use when he found there was "no reasonably effective and practical alternative."

Pair Nabbed On Suspicion Of Burglary

A San Rafael man and a 17-year-old girl were arrested yesterday on suspicion of burglary after police received a report that a car was being burglarized on Fourth Avenue.

Booked at Marin County Jail was David Charles McReynolds, 19, of 821 Fourth Street, and at Marin County Juvenile Hall Carol Marlene Heath, 17, of 519 C Street.

They were arrested at 7:50 p.m. about a block away from the car parked in the 1200 block of Fourth Street. The car was owned by Marvin Weissensee of 141 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo.

Jury Trial Set In Burglary Case

A jury trial was set yesterday for the week of Sept. 28 in Marin Superior Court for Steven Joseph O'Brien, 21, of Corte Madera, and Robert Donzill Price, 18, of Marin City, who are accused of burglarizing a Mill Valley residence on June 6.

The two were arrested inside a house at 28 Vasco Drive, which police said had been ransacked although nothing appeared to be missing.

Alto Sanitary Budget Adopted

A $4,000 budget for 1970-71 was adopted last night by directors of the Alto Sanitary District, Director Carl O. Heynen Jr. reported.

Heynen said the budget, which will be used chiefly for maintenance of sewer lines, will keep the district's tax rate at 5 cents, which will generate $840 in revenue. The remainder of the needed money will come from the district's reserve fund (which now exceeds $10,000) and franchise fees and interest on the reserves.

The board also voted to pay district directors $25 for each monthly meeting they attend, according to Heynen.

Trustees Overrule Textbook Critics

The Novato Unified School District board last night adopted textbooks for next school year, but not before the district came under some sharp criticism on the way some teachers were teaching.

Phillip Coady of 747 Bradley Avenue told the board that it should read and study some of the supplementary texts they were approving, as these texts contained "inflammatory material."

"Teachers in American history and social science are not using the texts, but using the time for political indoctrination of the students," Coady charged. He said that students were afraid of disagreeing with the teachers because they would be "downgraded." Coady said he had been studying these supplementary texts for the past five years.

Trustee William G. Schneeflock agreed, saying that his children bring home ideas from the classrooms that lead to heated family discussions.

"It's the duty of parents to do some of the educating of our own children, indoctrinating them the way we think they should be," Schneeflock answered.

Coady said one class studied Che Guevara for three weeks, and his son, a member of the class, did not know that they were studying communism.

Sue Johnson, Novato Advance reporter, said she did not see any harm in telling the students that "we are imperialists in South America."

Paul C. Mobley, assistant superintendent in charge of instruction, said that the supplemental texts were aimed at adding to the main text and should give divergent views.

Coady said that would be all right for college students who are adults, but not for 15-year-old children.

Supt. James G. Bunker said that a single text book could not be used. He cited as an example that the same United States history book used in California could not be used in Alabama or Georgia.

The board approved the list 6-0 with Trustee Leonora Dougherty absent.

Novato Unified School District Board Also:

REORGANIZATION — By unanimous vote, named William G. Schneeflock, president; Dan H. Barber, vice president; Carolyn M. Crabtree, clerk and Ronald D. Schenck, trustee association representative. It continued 8 p.m. the first and third Mondays at the administration building as board meeting dates and adopted the present rules for the board and the existing civil defense plan.

GRADES — Approved pass-no credit, or pass-fail grading for physical education and personal typing classes at Novato and San Marin high schools for next school year. It was tried experimentally during the past school year.

PAVING — Approved $3,525 for changing the fencing and putting rock on an enlarged parking lot at Marion School, and $668 for fencing for 195 feet on the west side of the Marin Oaks School site to close off a vacated road. The money will come from the community service fund.

ELECTION — Accepted the offer of Gayle Thompson, senior at San Marin High School and seven other high school students to deliver election literature on July 24 and 25 for the district which is making a second attempt to increase the tax limit by 85 cents per $100 assessed valuation at a special election July 28.

BORROW — Authorized the staff to borrow up to $2 million from Marin County until tax money is collected.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Thursday at the administration building to meet with the citizens committee for the tax increase.

Novato Parents Blast School Bus Decision

Cutting home-to-school bus transportation last week backfired last night on the Novato Unified School District trustees when approximately 40 irate parents questioned the board's decision.

Irene Conte of 514 Rowland Boulevard led off by asking the boards: "Why not transportation?" She pointed out that the board put $80,000 from transportation into undistributed reserves, and was told that the state pays about 40 per cent of the transportation costs.

This opened up the feeling of the parents and for a few moments the board was beseiged with unidentified people calling out such things as:

"People believe no transportation is a big joke.

"Cut out all athletics and put the money in buses.

"Cut out all field trips.

"Who's going to be responsible for the first child killed crossing the highway?"

When order was restored, Trustee William G. Schneeflock told Mrs. Conte that the district may get nothing in federal aid, little in state aid and that the board felt that teachers had the first priority.

"If you don't have kids in the classrooms, you won't need teachers. Children aren't going to walk from Black Point or Bel Marin Keys to school," Mrs. Conte answered.

Leota Cooney of 615 Manuel Drive said it wasn't right for the district to have 19 unused buses while administrators such as Supt. James G. Bunker "drive our cars."

"If my kids must walk, they can too," she said.

Earlene Wilson of 10 Gertrude Lane asked if the tax limit increase passed, would the district restore bus service?

Trustees Marett B. Boissevain and Schneeflock said that they would then vote to restore it.

Trustee Dan H. Barber responded to the person asking who would be guilty if a child was killed crossing the highway. He said it would be the voters for not approving the tax increase.

After some discussion on cutting out field trips, athletics, summer school and adult education, Schneeflock said the question would have to wait until after the July 28 election.

Briones Park Power Line Pact Reached

MARTINEZ (UPI)—East Bay Regional Park District directors reached agreement Monday with the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. for the relocation of a proposed 239,000-volt electrical transmission line in the Briones Regional Park area.

Richard C. Trudeau, the district's general manager, said the new route would be built into valleys, "screened by hilly ramparts" and would be relatively unobtrusive to park visitors.

PG&E, with State Public Utilities Commission and Superior Court approval, had planned a line that would have been visible from more than half the park.

Under the agreement, the right of way the utility firm had purchased from previous land owners will be traded for a right of way at the new location.

There will be five towers, instead of six, within the park.

Guilty Plea Filed In Weed Case

Edwin Michael Richmond, 21, of San Rafael, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of possessing a kilo of marijuana in Mill Valley on Nov. 13.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Sept. 14. He indicated that the youth would probably receive a 30-day jail sentence if he has a good record.

Richmond was arrested after officers searched his illegally parked car at Cascade Reservoir.

Alcohol, Drug Abuse Manual Is Published

The Community Planning Group for Alcohol and Drug Abuse Problems and Catholic Social Services of Marin have prepared a manual listing information on about 40 service agencies dealing with alcohol and drug abuse.

The pamphlet, already widely distributed to city and county law enforcement agencies as a referral guide, lists the hours of operation, type of services and treatments, fees, eligibility and addresses of the agencies where help for alcohol and drug problems can be found.

According to Denis A. Ragan of Corte Madera, who helped draft the manual, the pamphlet may be obtained by writing Catholic Social Services at 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael.

Anne And Charles' First U.S. Visit

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI) — When Prince Charles and Princess Anne visit the Nixons at the White House this month — July 16-18 — it will be strictly to have a good time.

No affairs of state, nor even affairs of the heart. The 21-year-old Prince Charles, heir to the throne, will not for instance be eyeing Tricia Nixon, 24, as a possible future Queen. Tricia herself has already knocked that romantic idea on the head, noting for one thing he is too young for her.

IT WILL BE the royal children's first visit to America, a treat both have wanted for years but never realized until the invitation from President Nixon's daughters. They will be the guests of Tricia, her sister, Julie, and Julie's husband, David Eisenhower.

Charles will stay in the Lincoln bedroom at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., and Anne, 19, will sleep in the Queen's Bedroom. Her mother stayed there when she visited the U.S. capital.

The White House lodgings are a courtesy seldom extended to heads of state on official visits in recent years. Royal guests and foreign leaders usually are quartered at Blair House across the street.

With the President and Mrs. Nixon staying in the background, Tricia and Julie will lead Charles and Anne through three days of American-style activities.

THEY WILL eat hamburgers and hot dogs at a cookout at Camp David. They will visit the space exhibit at the Smithsonian Institution, tour the Capitol and cruise down the Potomac to visit Mount Vernon, see the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center north of Washington and watch the Washington Senators play baseball.

Charles and Anne will be honored at a Saturday night dinner-dance at the White House by contemporaries in Washington's social circles. The word around Buckingham Palace is that it could be "the biggest party ever held at the White House by the Nixon family."

Anne will temporarily put away her trendy trouser suits and don a long white evening gown with jewels that may include diamonds, pearls and aquamarines.

In Washington, both Anne and Charles will be free to say and do as they wish. "They are on their own there," Prince Philip, their father, said recently.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE said they may be interviewed on television and will probably hold a news conference with the accent on youth.

Both have appeared on British television several times and handled themselves well. Both are good conversationalists.

BACHELOR HEIR to the British throne, Prince Charles will be a visitor to the United States beginning next week. Shown here with an unidentified young lady as he left the London theater last April, the prince has several girl friends but dates none of them frequently. (AP Wirephoto)

Anne and Charles will arrive in Washington aboard a presidential jetliner that will pick them up at the end of a royal family state visit to northwest Canada. The Queen and Prince Philip fly straight home to London from Canada.

Buckingham Palace sources said Anne, who will be 20 Aug. 15, would like to dance in a Washington discotheque and tour an American department store.

The White House has said there will be no special male escort for Anne.

CHARLES HOPES to see Congress at work, the sources said.

The future king has never met Tricia Nixon although she attended his investiture as Prince of Wales last July. Tricia met Princess Anne there and Anne later attended a dinner given for Tricia in London by the U.S. Ambassador, Walter H. Annenberg.

Making the trip with Anne will be her new lady in waiting, Mary Dawnay. Miss Dawnay, 34, is the great-granddaughter of Queen Victoria's favorite lady in waiting. A trained secretary who has done welfare work with spastic children, she and Anne are both keen horsewomen.

She looks after the Princess's correspondence, organizes her public engagements, knows what flowers Anne likes. She carries a large handbag with spare stockings, handerchiefs, tissues, white gloves, smelling salts and candy. She pays any bills Anne incurs.

A personal maid from Buckingham Palace also will accompany Anne. Charles will be accompanied by a valet and his personal equerry, David Checketts, a former Royal Air Force officer. Checketts, 40, is a short and squarely built man who, like Charles, is an avid fisherman.

IN ACCORDANCE with custom, the royal children will bring a special gift from the Queen for President and Mrs. Nixon. They will present their own separate gifts to Tricia and to Julie and David. Buckingham Palace wasn't saying what the gifts would be.

Neither Anne nor Charles will give autographs during the visit. Charles has politely explained to persistent admirers: "No member of our family ever signs autographs. If we gave one, we should have to spend half our time signing books. So we can't make any exceptions."

Both he and Anne will bring

Queenly Treatment For Run-Away While Her Sister Obeys Rules

DEAR HELEN:

It's enough to make me run off and go bad too. If you get special treatment for doing wrong, why not?

My sister lived with a guy for three months. Now she's back home and you'd think she was the queen. Mom doesn't make her do anything around the house, or obey our deadline on dates. I'm only a year younger. (I'm 16 and my sister is 17), but I'm punished and bossed, and she isn't. Not that I don't deserve it. I'm just saying Sis does too.

If she is living here, shouldn't she be under house rule, and not a pampered visitor? — M.C.

DEAR M:

She certainly should. Your mother must realize she can't spoil a girl into good behavior. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm embarrassed on dates because almost every bone in my body cracks. Lately I've got a new boy friend. Just think how he'll feel if I crack when he hugs me — like maybe he's broken something.

Is there any way to stop being a — CRACKER

DEAR CRACKER:

I know of no way, though you might check with your doctor.

Why not kid about being a cracking good date? If you can't change a condition, you can often laugh it down to size. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Congratulations on telling "Watchful" how wrong he is (about there being no more faithful couples left). He tried to convince us that married men and women never turned down an outside offer.

I'm a 15-year-old with four sisters and one brother. My father has been the most fantastic person on earth, but he never could have made it without my mother. Together they brought up six kids; together they are sending three to college, one to high school and two through grade school. Together they have taught us all how to face life, and love it.

They could never be unfaithful to each other or to us. And this goes for the parents of many other kids I know. I hope "Watchful" soon realizes he is talking about the minority. As you say, Helen, what an obsessed person looks for, he usually finds, whether it's always there or not. — OBSERVANT RATHER THAN WATCHFUL

DEAR HELEN:

I am a very young housewife with a six-month-old baby. We've just moved to California and I'm so lonely I could bawl. There isn't much extra money so I can't afford baby sitting while I go to clubs. The neighbors are all older and not very friendly. I can't very well walk up to a girl in the supermarket and make friends.

How do young couples find people like themselves when they are uprooted? — MRS. J.K.F.

DEAR MRS. F:

Sometimes those "supermarket friendships" are the best kind. Why not strike up a conversation with another young mother? She may be as lonely as you are. You might also try evening adult school while your husband babysits.

Suggestions, anyone? Those "transplanted" blues need all the help they can get. — H.

Advice To Newlyweds: No Sense Saving Money

NEW YORK (UPI) — A London economist breaks sharply with all the financial experts who advise newlyweds to make saving money as much as part of the marriage ritual as the honeymoon.

Saving for a "rainy day" is not sensible in the early days of marriage. Start stashing away later.

The economist is Prof. Maurice Peston, of the University of London. And what he does is outline a savings plan based on the fact that a husband's—and possibly the wife's—income will soar "astronomically" in the years ahead.

The economist explains, "If you are bound to be receiving higher real incomes in the course of time-these incomes being well above those required to maintain a minimum standard of living, let alone bare subsistence-it does not make sense to save excessively at the earliest stages of your earning life."

THE ECONOMIST points out that today' young marrieds have lived all their lives in a period of rising incomes. Prices, of course, have risen too, eating into those increases.

But looking at the economy in Britain alone, he says that by the time "our married couple" of today reach their 60's-say around the year 2,009, incomes will have increased in money terms by 800 per cent, in real terms by 150 per cent.

Part of his projected increase is in the ever-growing trend of wives taking on paying jobs. If it continues, he says, "real incomes . . . will be higher still."

Peston discusses family budgets in "Getting Married," published by the British Medical Association. The current issue is the 15th of this annual publication.

HE MAKES A case for a savings plan as the years go by - "especially, if quite correctly, you do not regard social security and supplementary benefits like pensions sufficient . . . It also makes sense to save for retirement," he continues.

Peston makes a case for borrowing also. "People do save to raise the deposit on a house, and that is reasonable if you cannot get a 100 per cent mortgage."

"But if you are fortunate enough to be able to borrow all the money to buy a house and pay it back over 30 years, do so with alacrity." He mentions the tax relief on the interest payments and that the house is free of capital gains tax.

PESTON DELVES into the economics of "buying good things to last" also. He points out this is an ever changing world not only economically but from the technological viewpoint.

"There is no objection in principle to buying something to last a lifetime," he says, "but it is worth considering whether something which will wear out more quickly can be replaced by something ever better still in a few years . . ."

Somber Colors

Fall will usher in a somber looking color season for day. Colors, even in patterned fabrics, are toned down, subdued. But for evening, the splashy, clear tones take over. In the toned-down category are such as Bill Blass's dulled greens, represented handsomely and expensively in a midi coat with sable collar and cuffs.

DEAN MILLER claimed Linda Keelin as his bride in a ceremony at Chapel of the Bells in Reno, Nev. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Keelin of Tiburon, and the bridegroom's mother is Mrs. Fern Laubham of San Francisco. The couple are living in Kentfield.

BRITAIN'S PRINCESS Anne and her brother, Prince Charles, will be guests of the Nixon daughters this month on their first visit to America. Photo was taken at Epsom last June. The royal visitors will stay in the White House, a rare privilege seldom extended even to heads of state. (UPI Telephoto) along some specially signed portraits of themselves for souvenir presentation to officials and staff who render them personal service during the visit.

CHARLES HAS just finished his university education at Cambridge, having studied archeology, philosophy, literature and liberal arts. He will train as a jet pilot in the Royal Air Force starting next March, then spend at least three years in the Royal Navy.

No longer the shy lad of his prep school days, Charles has a flair for acting and was a star of several drama club reviews at Cambridge. In one, he appeared singing in a garbage can.

He enjoys classical music, ballet and opera. He is an accomplished cello player. He is a fair piano player and can handle drums, the trumpet and bagpipes. He plays polo and cricket, neither very well, but prefers fishing and swimming.

A millionaire since his 21st birthday because of the lands he holds with his many royal titles, Charles lives in a three room bachelor apartment on the second floor of Buckingham Palace. It has a private entrance and stereo music everywhere, even in the bathroom.

HIS TASTE IN both clothing and women is conservative. He has several girl friends but dates none of them frequently or seriously enough to provoke talk of imminent marriage. Charles in public has relaxed considerobly from the sometimes stiff deportment of his father that he once emulated. He looks more like his mother. He has heep blue eyes, thick brown hair and a fresh complexion. Like the Queen, he can be obstinate and determined without creating a fuss. He has the Queen's warm smile and her keen sense of humor.

ANNE MORE CLOSELY resembles her father. She has light blue eyes, light blonde hair and sharp features. She is five foot seven and measures 34-26-36.

An active, outdoor girl who likes to dance the night away at parties, she is happiest when "something is going on." She is restless, easily bored, and seeks things that are new and amusing — but within the limits of royal conduct.

Like Philip, she is outspoken and will utter the occasional epithet when angered. She recently said, "I saw bloody stars" when she was thrown from her horse in a steeplechase competition. "Bloody" as used by the British is stronger than an American "damn."

She is a first class horsewoman who has competed and won honors in leading shows around Britain. She plays good tennis, swims and sails well.

Although she did not go to college, Anne is no dullard.

"THERE ARE no flies on me," she once said. She writes her own speeches and insists they not be censored by Buckingham Palace although they can be tart in spots.

She loves pop music and dancing. She enjoys eating but has to watch her weight. A stylish dresser,, she favors trouser suits and culottes.

She has scores of hats and has been called "Anne of the Thousand Hats" in British newspapers. White is her favorite after-dark color. She likes bright pinks, orange, green and blue for daytime wear.

Expectant Mother's Smoking May Affect Baby's Health

By JAMES WILKINSON

London Express Service

LONDON—A new warning to expectant mothers who smoke was given in the medical newspaper Medical News-Tribune.

Research has indicated that these women are jeopardizing the health of their babies.

For expectant mothers who smoke 10 or more cigarettes a day are nearly 50 per cent more likely to have babies who are prone to fits or convulsions.

The evidence comes from a longterm study started in 1958 and called the perinatal mortality study.

It already is known that women who smoke during pregnancy on the average have lighter babies than mothers who don't smoke, and this carries with it increased risks of trouble during the baby's early life.

The new facts will be used by doctors to stress the dangers of smoking to pregnant women.

The survey studied the development of 17,000 babies all born during the same week in 1958. Nearly 90 per cent of these babies were re-examined seven years later.

The evidence showing the link between fits and smoking was disclosed to a meeting in Denmark by Dr. Euan Ross of Bristol University Department of Child Health.

There is evidence that a mother's smoking habits can permanently affect her child's brain, he said.

Among the children with some form of convulsive illness certain other features were evident such as backwardness at reading and some social maladjustment, he said.

Belvedere Budget Set, Tax Rate Cut Likely

The Belvedere City Council last night approved without discussion an operational budget of $333,390 proposed by City Mgr. Richard L. Cavalli for fiscal 1970-71.

Capital outlay budget proposals which would raise the total budget to $460,640, an increase of $73,071 over last year's total of $387,569, were tabled till August 3 for discussion.

A finance committee composed of councilmen Thomas S. Price and Willard G. Pittman had proposed earlier, based on these figures, that the council consider reducing the tax rate for 1970-71 by 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The 1969-70 rate was $1.75.

An increase in the assessed valuation of property is expected to cover the higher outlay, according to Cavalli.

Included in the operational budget approved last night were salary increases of 7.5 per cent for all city employees except Cavalli, who received an equivalent increase in auto allowance, and 2.5 per cent merit increases for two policemen. Salaries are to cost $147,402 as opposed to $131,234 for 1969-70, 13.3 per cent increase caused by new hiring in the middle of fiscal 1969-70 and the raises.

The council also approved several drainage measures recommended by a joint Tiburon-Belvedere study committee to hold down flood damage during next winter's rainy season.

Expenditure of $600 to grade between Tiburon Highway and Lagoon Road to create a shallow holding area and direct water into an existing drainage ditch and $3,500 to biuld a silt trap for water draining from Laurel Avenue into Belvedere Lagoon was approved. The money is to come from the $4,500 in the capital outlay budget proposed for flood control.

Belvedere City Council Also:

SLIDE REPAIRS — Tabled a request by Vernon Perry, a prospective purchaser of property at 288 Beach Road, for city aid in repairing slide damage estimated by consulting engineers to cost a total of $23,000 to repair. The request will be considered July 20 if Perry, or the owner, Fidelity Savings and Loan, has obtained a survey delineating city property in the slide area and presents engineering requirements for repairing the slide.

UNDERGROUNDING — Set for July 20 a public hearing on establishment of an underground district in Belvedere and directed City Mgr. William L. Cavalli to prepare a resolution to be proposed at the meeting for undergrounding estimated to cost approximately $5,880.

KENNELS—Tabled for adoption August 3 an ordinance forbidding any household to keep more than three dogs, four months of age or older, without a variance approved by the council.

DEBRIS BOX — Tabled for adoption July 20 an ordinance draft regulating debris boxes on sidewalks and streets

ECOLOGY — Heard a report from Councilman Thomas S. Price that Mayor Denis T. Rice of Tiburon had suggested that a citizens committee on ecology Price proposed last week be made a joint Tiburon-Belvedere project. Price solicited volunteers to serve on the committee to formulate goals and methods for city-level ecology programs.

ROCK WALLS — Directed Cavalli to build an asphalt berm and erect no-parking signs on Bay View and Bella Vista avenues at Beach Road to protect the crumbling rock walls in the area. City Atty. Robert F. MacKay reported that repair of the walls was solely the responsibility of the owners.

NURSERY — Approved application by the Belvedere Nursery School to build a nine-space parking lot and to build a school on land partly zoned for residential use. Proceedings for rezoning the residential portion of the property were begun and a variance granted so the school could begin construction before the required formal resolution and public hearing on the rezoning.

LICENSE — Approved a revocable license to allow Richard Griffith to cantilever his house over a one-foot strip of city property and two feet of a tide lot zoned for recreation.

ZONING — Amended the zoning ordinance to include a small area previously omitted.

SANITARY DISTRICT — Directed Cavalli to prepare a letter to the Marin Municipal Water District backing Tiburon Sanitary District's request to be excluded from a proposed Sanitary Improvement District which is planned to include several sanitary districts in Southern Marin.

CLOSED SESSION — Went into closed session to discuss complaints against an employee.

Water Board Sets Hearing On Merger

The Marin Municipal Water District board will hold a public hearing tomorrow at 8 p.m. on proposed plans to enter into the sewage business by merging with three Marin sanitary districts.

The three districts, Homestead, Alto and Altamonte, asked more than a year ago that their operation be assumed by the water district.

The city of Mill Valley may oppose the proposed merger as the three districts use Mill Valley facilities for treatment and disposal of their sewage. The Mill Valley city manager has indicated the city itself may be interested in taking over the sanitary operations in the three areas.

Other items on the regular 1 p.m. agenda include an agreement with Marin County on a proposed bicycle path bridge over a district pipeline in Tamalpais Valley, hiring of consultants and legal counsel for a $11.5 million bond election proposed for November, and right-of-way agreements with U.S. Development Corp. of San Rafael, Tamalpais High School District, and Edward H. Kuykendall of 305 Cape Court, Mill Valley.

Jazz Festival To Include Soul Food

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—New Orleans soul food will complement New Orleans jazz at the 17th annual Newport Jazz Festival this weekend.

Festival producer George Wein said Monday red beans and rice will be added to the concession menu this year.

Wein said the New Orleans food would be prepared by Buster Holmes, whose restaurant in the historic French Quarter of New Orleans long has been a meeting place for jazz musicians.

Hub Planners Vote Praise For Zucker

It took three votes, but the San Anselmo Planning Commission finally came down on the side of Paul C. Zucker, fired planning director of Marin County. . .but left it to the city council to make it official.

The commission last night split 3-3 on two resolutions to commend Zucker for his planning efforts, then voted 4-2 to ask the city council to send Zucker a letter praising his planning activities, reported John T. O'Rourke, assistant city engineer.

Voting for Zucker on the first votes were Ragnvald Bernt Jr., Duane C. Ragan and David A. Strassman. Voting against were Philip S. Heinecke, Allen J. Creighton and John H. Colteaux

Heinecke switched his vote on the third proposal for the 4-2 margin. Commissioner Martin Stuart was absent.

Commissioners opposing the Zucker encomium said they had too little first-hand knowledge of his work to make a judgment, O'Rourke said.

In another discussion, the commission agreed by 5-1, Colteaux dissenting, that no use permit will be needed for a campaign by Bruce Benedetti, 135 Madrone Avenue, to collect bottles, cans, paper and other refuse for recycling elsewhere. The commission decided the collecting is not a home occupation and therefore needs no permit.

The San Anselmo Planning Commissio also:

LAUNDRY — Approved a use permit for the Coinette Co. to operate a coin-operated laundry at 11 Madrone Avenue.

REZONING — Denied a request by Andrew P. Stafford to zone property at 180 Tunstead Avenue for apartments instead of duplexes.

EXTENSION — Denied a request by James M. Kennedy for a one-year extension of a variance granted last August 4 for property at 130 Sequoia Drive.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Ragan as alternate to the City-County Planning Committee. The city's representatives are Creighton and Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro.

FEES — Discussed use permit fees and decided no change is needed.

Berkeley Firm Gets Rohnert Park Job

The contract for completion and widening of Southwest Boulevard was awarded last night by the Rohnert Park City Council.

Low bidder for the project was the O. C. Jones Co. of Berkeley at $168,249. The cost had been estimated at $171,894.

The contract includes the extension of the main artery from the railroad tracks into the El Colegio area and widening to four lanes from the railroad grade crossing through the planned Young America subdivision.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said plans for widening Synder Lane are nearly complete and may go out to bid next week so the two adjacent projects can be integrated.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

ASSESSMENT — Denied the request of Cofego Enterprises for assessment district proceedings to construct Santa Alicia Drive; and Cofego Drive from Commerce Boulevard to the railroad. Callinan said the firm headed by Paul Golis was already delinquent in taxes and that the property owner in between the parcels, Northern California Developers, was against the assessment district. Golis charged that the council was trying to hold up his developments. The council advised him to seek private financing as do other developers.

PIGEONS — Heard testimony on a proposed pigeon ordinance that would require pigeons to be kept 75 feet from an adjacent home. Pigeon owners argued that it would ban pigeons in residential zones and was too restrictive. Other residents argued for an outright ban on pigeons so they could barbecue in comfort. Callinan was asked to meet with both sides to settle the dispute.

TELEVISION — Received a break-down of costs on television program origination from Paul Ramyon of Stoere Cable Television and asked Callinan to consult local schools about the possibility of using video tape equipment for the televising of city council meetings.

POUND — Approved the expenditure of $250 to enclose the animal shelter so noise will not disturb residents of nearby apartments.

PARK — Authorized the purchase of 5.6 acres for a neighborhood park in the El Colegio area at a cost of $750 an acre from the Sonoma Campus Co.

State Sales Tax Hike Mainly Due To Inflation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The value of taxable retail sales in California rose by 6.5 per cent in the first quarter of 1970 but mainly because of inflation.

The State Board of Equalization said transactions totaled $9.9 billion, more than $600 million ahead of the first quarter last year. But the board said the increase was mostly due to higher prices rather than an increase in the volume of goods sold.

It said the rate of increase was the same as that recorded between the first quarter of 1969 and the same period the previous year. But the board said two-fifths of the increase represented a gain in goods distributed.

Sales by new and used car dealers were down about 9 per cent from those recorded in the first quarter last year, the board said.

Oakes Is Listed Much Improved, No Longer Critical

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Richard Oakes, the militant Indian leader who was felled by a pool cue June 11, was removed Monday from the "critical" list at San Francisco General Hospital.

Oakes, who was struck during a tavern brawl, still is "serious but he is very much improved" and can open his eyes and sit up with the help of nurses, the hospital added.

Tommy Prichert, a Samoan, is charged with assault in the case.

Oakes was a leader among Indians who seized Alcatraz Island, claiming unused federal land belongs to the Indians. The San Francisco Bay island is the site of an abandoned penitentiary.

Draft Head Rules Objectors Must Oppose All Wars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Selective Service has told local draft boards conscientious objectors must oppose all wars, not just the Vietnam War, and must be sincere in their beliefs to qualify for that draft classification.

Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr issued guidelines on the subject Monday, saying "a registrant who desires to choose the war in which he will participate is not a conscientious objector under the law. His objection must be to all wars rather than to a specific war."

He said the "primary tests" of an objector on religious, moral or ethical grounds "is the test of sincerity with which the belief is held." He said objectors should be examined to see "the nature and history of the process by which he acquired such beliefs."

WIND-WHIPPED BLAZE AT SAN QUENTIN

Firefighters from three departments battle grass fire by drenching tangled terrain at San Quentin with lengthy streams of water. The 3 p.m. fire yesterday was swiftly controlled by the prison fire squad with the assistance of the Larkspur and Kentfield fire departments, according to James W.L. Park, associate warden. The area burned was more than one of 40 acres behind staff residences on state-owned land outside the prison walls. There was no damage and the cause of the blaze is unknown, according to Park.

Board Stretches Wings On Budget

The Marin County Board of Education, empowered for the first time with full control of its own budget, last night stretched its wings a little and approved two major expenditures.

The board, however, wanted more time to cope with demands for salary increases by teachers and other employees and put those budgets over to a special session at 8 p.m. July 20.

Taking over from the board of supervisors responsibility for paying bills for many functions, the board of education last night approved a proposed budget of $384,526 for administrative services.

Byron Mauzy, director of business services, pointed out that this figure would allow an 8.5-cent tax rate for these services, lower than the approximately 10 cents predicted by the county administrator.

A comparison with last year's cost of $240,407 means little, he said, because the county formerly provided many services for the county schools such as gardening and janitorial work, not reflected in last year's figure.

The county schools now will pay the county for any such services on a contract basis, he explained.

Also approved last night was a budget of $20,000 for a personnel commission which will deal with nonteaching employees. Mauzy said this would include a $10,000 salary for a part-time director of the commission.

The board also set interviews for next Tuesday and Wednesday for applicants to the personnel commission. These will be scheduled to begin at the county schools office at 7:30 p.m. each day.

Three persons will form the commission, and it was noted last night that more than 25 persons have been nominated or applied.

The board also learned last night that the nonteaching employees want a 7.5 per cent cost-of-living increase and that the teachers have proposed two new salary schedules which include raises up to 7 per cent. The administrative staff has also asked a 7 per cent increase.

Board member Marilyn R. Crowell said last night that she didn't like "not having the proposals to study before the meeting." Other members agreed with her to postpone the salary discussions to the workshop session July 20.

The board also balked last night on appointing members to committees.

Mrs. Crowell said, "I've said before and I say it now, I don't like the committee system."

The board has traditionally conducted much of its business at committee meetings with the whole board acting often as a rubber stamp for staff proposals.

It was decided to take up the whole matter of committees at the July 20 meeting.

The board met last night at San Quentin Prison and heard a report from Daryl A. Hopkins, valedictorian for the prison's Bayview School graduation this month, describe the school as "one of the best things going on here."

RICHARDSON TAKES GAVEL FOR BOARD

Inverness resident Lee C. Richardson Jr. last night was elected president of the Marin County Board of Education on which he has served since 1965.

Richardson, 40, is a technician for RCA Communications at Point Reyes, and served as vice president of the board during the past year.

Peninsulans Reassured On Ferry Plans

A director of the Golden Gate Bridge District today assured a gathering of Belvedere and Tiburon city officials and members of the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce that Tiburon is not destined to become a major ferry terminal for Marinites commuting to San Francisco.

Joseph E. Sheeks told the breakfast meeting that Corte Madera will serve as the main terminal in Central Marin and that commuters will not flock to Tiburon.

Chamber president George Sugarman said that councilmen Anne L. Ellinwood and M. Carlisle Becker reported that Tiburon will form an advisory group to study modifications of the recently adopted Buskirk-Noble plan for downtown Tiburon. A member of the chamber will be appointed to the committee, Sugarman said.

The group also discussed new routes for Marin Transit Systems, the Marin City-based firm that operates feeder bus service to the Tiburon ferry, and called for more coordination between bus and ferry schedules.

The chamber will join the Marin County Industry-Education Council, Sugarman reported.

Housing Agency To Act On Bids

Contracts for an $80,000 modernization program for 300 units of public housing will be awarded at a meeting of the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency today at 8 p.m. in the Manzanita Center.

Director Donald O. Stutsman said six bids for the work, which includes installation of ventilating fans in the units, have been received.

Five per cent salary increases for employees of the housing authority and redevelopment agency will also be considered at the meeting.

Pleads Innocent To Weed Count

Kevin Thomas Whelan, 19, of South San Francisco, pleaded innocent yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court to possession of marijuana.

Judge Alexander J. McMahon set a preliminary hearing for July 21 at 11 a.m.

Whelan and a 17-year-old boy from South San Francisco were arrested July 3 after Petaluma police found them walking unsteadily on South McDowell Boulevard at Lauren Drive.

Hearing Opens In Store Vandalism

A preliminary hearing opened today in Marin Municipal Court for three International Typographical Union members charged with conspiring to damage property of Independent-Journal advertisers.

Opening testimony before Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. — who will decide whether there is sufficient evidence to hold the three for trial on the felony charges in superior court — was by merchants who found broken windows and chunks of lead.

The three men, Dennis Joseph Crowley, 41, of San Jose; James Robert Brucato, 31, of Santa Rosa, and Grant William Anders, 30, of Pleasant Hill, are charged with conspiring to break windows of six San Rafael stores and three Novato businesses.

The windows, which were broken on the night of June 2 and early morning of June 3, belonged to merchants who refused to discontinue advertising in the I-J.

The men were the first persons arrested in connection with such window smashing since the San Francisco Typographical Union 21 went on strike against the I-J in January. About 40 businesses have been vandalized.

Under questioning by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, owners or employees of Bellach Furniture, DeLong Chevrolet, McPhails Inc., Marin Sports Imports and Martin and Harris appliance service, all in San Rafael testified today.

They and representatives of Young Brothers and Johnson's Red Barn in Novato, told similar stories of finding holes in windows and chunks of lead in their stores, which they turned over to police.

Two other store owners were expected to testify later today.

The three union members were arrested by two sheriff's deputies about 1:30 a.m. June 3 on a frontage road leading to the Strawberry shopping center after the deputies heard a bulletin describing broken windows in San Rafael.

The three men reportedly had sling shots, chunks of lead and nuts and bolts and a list of stores in their car.

Car Theft Suspects Are Booked

Two 19-year-old youths were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday after they were reported to have forced a San Rafael man to write a $100 note and then stole his car in a dispute over damages in an auto accident a short time ago.

Jerry Wayne Hurd of Vallejo was booked on suspicion of car theft and robbery. Wymone Walker, of 3550 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, was booked on suspicion of robbery, car theft, possession of stolen property and credit card theft.

Police reported finding identification and credit cards under other names in Walker's wallet when he was apprehended in the car on Belvedere street.

Kenneth Michael Giakovnis, 24, of 18 G Street, San Rafael, told police that he had told Walker that he would pay $75 for minor damage to Walker's car in an accident in a parking lot a short time ago.

Yesterday, he reported, Walker, Hurd and a third man came to his house and demanded $100. They threatened him and forced him to sign a note for $100 and give them the car as collateral, he said, threatening to drive the car off a cliff in Marin City if no money was received by the end of the day.

Store Burglar Takes Clothing, Jewelry

A window-smashing burglar stole jewelry and leather clothing valued at $602 Saturday from the Aquarian Princess, 1527 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo police reported yesterday.

Owner Frank A. Parsons told police the break-in was between 3 and 8:30 a.m. The burglar broke a window to open the door, then entered and took earrings and necklaces, three velvet dresses, three leather coats and five leather vests.

Corte Madera Sewage Plan Still Refused

The Corte Madera Sanitary District board agreed last night that some residents along an unincorporated area of Lucky Drive near Corte Madera have no intention of ever building a sewage system as long as raw sewage can continue to be pumped into the bay.

Noting that the residents voted 11-8 against annexation to the Town of Corte Madera as a condition to joining the sanitary district, the board voted unanimously, Mayor Edward W. Colthurst absent, "not to bail them (the residents) out of anything."

The new round of quarreling came as the sanitary district board, made up of Corte Madera town councilmen, learned the residents plan to appeal the joint annexation condition to the Local Agency Formation Commission Thursday night.

"Since your board's position in this matter is well known," Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said, "the present application appears to be another in the long series of delaying tactics which have been deployed by some residents of Lucky Drive to avoid the costs of installing sewers."

The board acted to reaffirm its position declaring it would not approve annexation to the district alone, but added that if the residents wished to install their own system, the district would accept discharge on a contractual basis.

Usher told the board he felt some residents along Lucky Drive believed they would not pay for a sewage system if they annexed to the district, but thought the district would absorb the cost. They will pay the entire installation bill whether they annex or not he said.

Others, he claimed, know they will have to pay and that is the reason they are stalling. "They are very happy to continue discharging raw sewage into the bay," he said.

Usher called the planned action before The Formation Commission by the property owners who live on Lucky Drive between Fifer Avenue and Highway 101 "an idle act" without the sanitary district's approval and acceptance.

"Nobody has to take their sewage," agreed board member Robert P. Simmons. "My position is that they have had ample opportunity to enter the district, so now let them proceed with creating their own system."

Weed Possession Trial Scheduled

A jury trial has been set for the week of Aug. 24 in Marin Superior Court for Patricia Maryann O'Neill and Lawrence David Johnson, both 22, who were arrested in a drug raid last Oct. 9 on a house at 82 Southern Heights Boulevard, San Rafael.

They are charged with possessing pot, possessing it for sale and using the weed.

Trustees To Elect

The Shoreline Unified School District Board of Trustees will reorganize at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the district administration office to elect new officers and discuss the citizens' building advisory committee report.

Commission Opposes Strawberry Project

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night recommended that the county deny an application for a 202-unit apartment project in Strawberry and ask for redesign of an 18-unit townhouse development on Pelican Hill.

Planning Director Wayne E. Moody said neither area is inside Tiburon city limits, but the county planning department asked for the recommendations because the developers lie in Tiburon's sphere of interest.

The commission objected to the 202-unit development because of the high density sought, 17.7 dwelling units per acre. Moody said the commission asked the county to adhere to the densities contained in the Tiburon general plan, 1.1 to 2.5 units per acre.

Moody said the commission drew up a list of changes that it wanted made in the Pelican Hill Development. "The commissioners questioned the design, building arrangement and site planning and felt that the developer could do a better job with the large site that is available," he said.

Specifically criticized was the plan to build four groups of buildings and repeat them. The commission also asked the county to require that the lower portion of the site be developed as a park.

The Tiburon Planning Commission also:

RAILROAD — Recommended that the city council rezone the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way to park to permit construction of a bicycle and pedestrian pathway.

BASE MAP — Set Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. at City Hall to conduct hearings on a new zoning base map.

MARINERO — Recommended that the city council approve a 38-unit apartment project on Marinero Circle.

LODGE — Recommended that the city council approve a precise plan for the addition of a manager's apartment at Tiburon Lodge.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. at City Hall.

Trial Scheduled In Hub Burglary

A jury trial has been set for the week of Aug. 31 in Marin Superior Court for Dennis Victor Chesley, 20, and Robert Sterling Evans, 22, both of San Rafael, who are accused of attempting to burglarize a San Anselmo residence on June 10.

They were arrested inside a house at 283 Crescent Road, where police said the door had been forced open.

Indian Fire Trail Hydrant Approved

Directors of the Kentfield Fire District last night approved installation of a fire hydrant adjacent to the new water tank on Indian Fire Trail at a cost of $250, according to Fire Chief Kenneth T. Kamp.

Also the pre-specifications for a new pumper truck were reviewed. More study will be given to this matter during the next couple of weeks.

Panel Denies Novato Pool Rate Hikes

In spite of the request of the Novato City Council to increase charges, the Novato Parks and Recreation Commission last night would not recommend any increase in the rates charged at the Novato swim pool, according to Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director.

During the season last year from April 26 through Sept. 27, some 19,553 used the pool, bringing in $5,439, Adams said. If the rates were increased from the present 25 to 35 cents for children, 35 to 45 cents for teenagers and 50 to 60 cents for adults, it would bring in an additional $1,950, Adams reported.

However, the commission felt that there would be a decrease in the use of the pool, so that the city would probably get only about $1,200 added revenue. If lessons were increased from $3 to $4 it would add another $1,350 in income, according to Adams.

The pool is now costing the city approximately $13,000 per year above its income to operate it.

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission also:

NOVATO CREEK — Approved plans to bring a service road to the back of the Prehistory Museum at Novato Creek Park, make the parking lot off San Miguel Way and move the lot closer to the museum area.

RULES — Accepted for study proposed rules and regulations for use of city parks. This would include closing them at 10 p.m. and opening them at 6 a.m., controlling dogs, horses, model airplanes and other nuisances in the park. The commission will consider these rules at 8 p.m. July 20 in the community house. When revised, it will recommend them to the city council for adoption as an ordinance.

The Doors Still Close On Legislative Committees

"They promise you a particular piece of legislation. As soon as the legislature meets, a bill embodying that legislation is introduced. It is referred to a committee. You never hear of it again. What happened? Nobody knows what happened. . .Yet it is our business, and it is the business of every man in the state; we have a right to know all the particulars of that bill's history."—Woodrow Wilson (1913).

Things have not changed much since Woodrow Wilson, as governor of New Jersey and president-elect of the United States, gave voice to his frustration at the legislative committee process 57 years ago.

There has been some improvement, according to Richard W. Cardwell, general counsel of the Hoosier State Press Association, who just completed a survey of practices among the 50 state legislatures.

In 1959, he reported, only 16 states required legislative committee hearings to be open to the public. In 1965, that number had grown to 20, and last year, it had increased to 27 — more than half the states.

California was among the 27.

IT IS NOT too encouraging, though, to note that even today nearly half the state legislatures do not even require open hearings — to say nothing of open discussions, and public committee votes.

It is in the latter categories that California is found wanting.

Cardwell, in his survey, reported that discussions by California legislative committees are open "usually," that closed executive sessions are held "rarely," and that voting is in open session "always."

WE WISH all this were so.

Committee discussions at hearing sessions are usually open. But often the action is not taken there. A bill may be held in committee, without any vote ever being announced, until the session is over and it is dead. Or, when the vote is taken in closed session — as it is whenever the matter is a "sticky" one on which some committee members don't want to be committed publicly — who voted how is not announced.

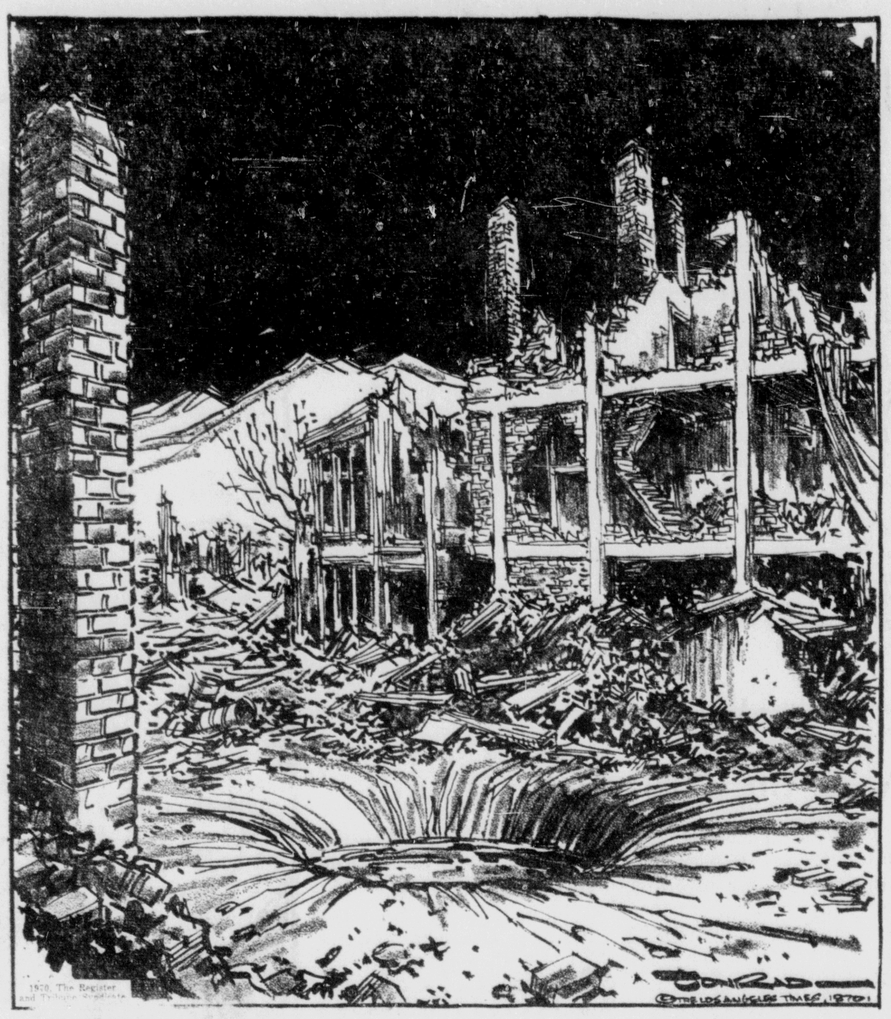
Not long ago, the Assembly Rules Committee considered changing this, to require published roll call votes on all committee decisions. The members discussed the change in private, and voted it down in private. Nobody, of course, wanted his vote recorded — so only the tally was announced, not who voted how.

THE CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE has passed quite a few bills to force other public bodies to conduct their deliberations in public, and to open their records to the public. But it is loathe to apply the same rules to itself.

Even Marin-Sonoma Assemblyman William T. Bagley, a leading proponent of doing the public's business publicly, does an about-face when it comes to the legislature itself. Since floor debate and vote are public, he holds, there is no need to require that all committee meetings and votes be public.

This is the same old rationale used by school boards, city councils and others when they sneak behind closed doors to "talk things over," then formalize in public meetings what they've decided privately.

It holds no more water for legislative committees than it does for any other public body.



It became necessary to destroy (a) South Vietnam, (b) Laos, (c) Cambodia, (d) Thailand, (e) all of the above—to save Southeast Asia.

Walsh Measure Merely First Of South's Raids On North

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Sooner or later, the state legislature must come to the realization that changing times mean changing conditions in the enactment of legislation regarding a good many things which have been taken for granted for many, many years.

An example is the passage of SB 38, by Sen. Lawrence Walsh, D-Los Angeles, which revises the allocation of highway funds from gasoline tax money to 60 per cent for southern California and 40 per cent for the north. The previous arrangement had been 55 per cent for the south, and 45 for the north.

The Walsh measure isn't through the legislature as yet, but the fighting senator from Huntington Park is thoroughly confident that it will clear the Assembly and be signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

ACCORDING to computations of the Department of Public Works, the south will benefit to the extent of about $40 million annually, meaning that the southern portion of the state will get that much more highway construction as a result of the legislative vote.

While the south long has had more population than the north, the five per cent concession when the highway users tax was inaugurated was expected to endure forever, as it was not anticipated at that time the U. S. Supreme Court would hand down its "one man, one vote" decision, thereby giving the south a majority in the state Senate.

THAT THIS is the first raid can be taken for granted, for with success the first time, more can be expected. Look for raids on the north's water for one more thing.

There could also be additional raids on the highway funds. With further apportionments occasioned by the 1970 census, it is expected that the south will gain even more representation in both Assembly and Senate.

Senator Walsh should be congratulated on his efforts for Southern California. He has made the securing of an extra five per cent one of the principal aims of the 1970 session. The vote was close, and was made strictly on north-south alignment.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Maybe it would make political sense if our public officials and highly placed intellectuals would agree, upon due reflection, that, if a citizen is deemed old enough to vote, he or she is old enough, also, to lose forever that franchise through conviction for any felonious assault on people and property. — F. Until the electorate and the persons they elect can use historical and philosophical material to help decide the major problems of the day, we shall not solve those problems, and until the general public is capable of using knowledge of the past to solve personal problems, we shall not have an orderly society. — Barnaby C. WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Planned Parenthood Actions Shocking

Shock and outrage are the only words to describe my feelings after reading last night's (June 29) article in the Independent-Journal on the Planned Parenthood Association.

This group has usurped all the rights and duties given to parents by law and by God in turning our teen-agers into sexually promiscuous young people. To dispense their products to our children without our knowledge or consent is unthinkable.

Mr. (Thomas A.) Knight stated he was not sure of the legality of their services. As the mother of four teen-age daughters I will promise to settle that point for him if I ever find this organization dispensing any of their services to my children.

This group is undermining every bit of decency we parents are trying to instill in our children. I think it's about time kids began to give their parents a break and try them out. This group claims these kids can't talk to their parents. I ask, how many of them have given their parents a chance to prove they can't?

As a parent I say this to the Planned Parenthood: You have overstepped the bounds. Stick to counseling adults and leave our children alone.

Gift Of People's Money Disturbs

The Marin County budget sessions are history, and recorded history, thanks to your reporters.

I was pleased to see that the tight budget did not allow the already very highly paid personnel to get away with those tremendous raises, especially after all the fuss that was made trying to eliminate the x-ray machine, a gift from the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association and a real service to the residents of the county, also the try to eliminate the Well Baby Conferences, and the like. After all the effort to cut the little things, my husband and I were appalled to see that the Marin County Chamber of Commerce was allowed to take $15,000 of the mere $30,000 they asked! Does this not shock you?

We are not alone in this dismay. These are the little secret allocations, begun as a trickle, which turn into a boondoggle gusher and waste our tax money. The man from the chamber of commerce told me with a straight face that Marin "needs the chamber" to promote population and hold the tax rate down! My husband and I have observed our tax rate race with the population increase, and that makes that statement silly . . .

'Well, They Win' —At Any Cost

After reading Mrs. Phyllis Van Pelt's letter (June 23) regarding a coach in Little League I felt I just had to write and get this off my chest.

We have a coach here in San Rafael who sounds similar if not worse. I won't mention names but I'm sure he'll know who I'm talking about and so will many of the parents. I've sat through two seasons of Little League and watched him win games at all costs. He resorts to being abusive treating his team like they were going on a Vietnam ambush. Has threatened other coaches verbally using old Alexander Bell's invention. The most discouraging thing about it all is when you ask the parents why they allow him to treat the kids this way they invariably answer with, "Well they win, don't they?"

What a great expose for someone who wants to see the game of baseball given back to the kids. After all people, wake up, Hitler trained the youth of Germany too!

Why Hospital Budget Goes Up

There is some additional information we believe should be made public concerning the 1970-71 budget for Marin General Hospital which, because of limitation of space and pressure of time, was not included in your otherwise very thorough coverage of the June meeting of the board of directors of the Marin Hospital District.

We think it is important that your readers know that our budget estimate of expenses for 1970-71 is $8.5 million compared to $7.3 million for the 1969-70 fiscal year; but we also believe it is most important for your readers to know why there is an increase of this size. . .

Marin General costs have gone up in several ways: First, the 1970-71 fiscal year will be the first one in which the Community Mental Health Center will be fully open for the entire 12 months. This means additional costs, but it also means additional revenue. Second, the additional patients served by the hospital means additional costs for staff and supplies in such out-patient services as the emergency department, X-ray and laboratory as well as for in-patients. But this added cost is also matched by increased revenue.

Third, the hospital is faced with the increased costs of an expanded health program for employees which was mandated by the state legislature. This extra cost must be met by more efficient administration of hospital income, and our budget foresees us doing just that. . .

Moreover, now that the original construction bonds are paid off, this year, for the first time since 1952, there will be no tax levied by the Marin Hospital District. The residents of the Marin Hospital District now own a hospital facility valued at $8 million free and clear, and the cost of operations are borne by those who use it, at rates, I might add, which are lower than all other hospitals in the county and below most of the hospitals in the Bay Area.

Two particularly lazy drop-outs wandered to the Everglades to escape the cold up north and sat dangling their feet in the tepid water when a big alligator swam up and in one bite snapped off the leg of one of them. Scientists' Pro-ABM Report Branded A Secret Fiction

WASHINGTON — The first casualty of war, Truth is also a casualty of the fierce struggle over the next round in the nuclear arms race. This was dramatically demonstrated before the Senate subcommittee on arms control in a series of exchanges that almost entirely escaped notice.

The chief propagandist for the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile program, John S. Foster Jr., Pentagon director for research and engineering, appeared before the committee early last month. Making his case for phase II of Safeguard, Foster said he had called together a panel of six distinguished scientists, asked them to put aside their political convictions and pass on the feasibility of the missile.

"Now there was considerable concern about this move" Foster testified, "but, as a matter of fact, the report was sent to the secretary of defense and what it said was that this equipment will do the jobs that the Department of Defense wants to do."

THE OTHER DAY the committee called two of the scientists who served on that panel, Marvin L. Goldberger of Princeton University and Sidney D. Drell, deputy director of the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center.

They both testified that there was no such statement as Foster had made in the report of the six scientists. The report is classified secret.

Both scientists were unalterably opposed to the work going forward on phase I of Safeguard, to protect missile bases in Montana and North Dakota, and on phase II extending the system to three or four other centers. It is unworkable as a defense system, they testified. What is more, according to Goldberger, no group of scientists, or any scientist of repute, has ever supported the Safeguard system.

THE ADVOCATES of ABM presented before congressional committees by the defense department almost to a man avoided talking about the actual system, even though they were in closed session. Goldberger said:

"The most charitable interpretation one can put on this remarkable fact is that they could not, as men of scientific integrity, defend the system that was being proposed. They concentrated instead on the Soviet threat, the intransigence of the Chinese, national determination, the virtues of defensive weapons as extolled by Mr. Kosygin (the Soviet premier), etc., but never, never on the relation of Safeguard performance to the actual or projected threat."

THE SENATE will begin debate later this month on money for safeguard. The armed services committee has reported out a military authorization bill with the Chinese ABM umbrella sheared away and other facets of the administration program pared down. Nevertheless, the vote will be a test of this newest round in the arms race.

The testimony of Doctors Goldberger and Drell goes into a scientific realm that often leaves the layman far behind. Nothing could better illustrate the bewildering complexity of these so-called weapons which, once deployed, take out of human control the choices of response.

Put in simplest terms — probably oversimplified — the scientists' case against Safeguard ABM is as follows: The controlling device is a giant radar, a great brain, that responds to a series of warning impulses by sending defensive missiles into the air to knock down incoming offensive missiles. The scientists contend (1) The giant brain is altogether too vulnerable to attack and without it Safeguard is a zombie. (2) There is no proof whatsoever — quite on the contrary — that the defensive missiles will function when the heavens are exploding with incoming nuclear flak designed to thwart them.

ONE POINT in Drell's testimony is perfectly clear. The estimated cost of phase II-A of Safeguard is $7 billion, which comes to $70 million apiece for Safeguards to protect 100 Minuteman missiles. But Minuteman III, an advance over II with multiple warheads, costs only $8 million. So a defense that is no defense at all, if one accepts the view of scientists who know most about this whole 21st century madness, costs 10 times as much as the offense.

This is what President Nixon called at a press conference in January a "virtually infallible" defense. Between the politicians and the scientists the credibility gap is appallingly wide.

Border Pact Cools Row In American Hot Spot

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

Guyana and Venezuela have acted to cool South America's most troublesome border dispute.

Under an agreement signed June 18 in Port of Spain, Trinidad, the two agreed to shelve for 12 years the dispute which arose from Venezuela's claim to about 53,000 square miles of Guyana's territory west of the Essequibo River.

It would give Venezuela agout three-fifths of Guyana.

THE QUARREL goes back to 1899 and a treaty Venezuela signed with Great Britain. The Venezuelans later declared the treaty void and have been pressing their claim since shortly before Guyana obtained its independence from Britain in 1966.

It has been a continuing source of friction between the two countries and there have been minor border clashes.

The land involved in the dispute is largely uninhabited but is rich in mineral deposits and other potential wealth.

Included is the Rupununi plateau where in 1969 ranchers and their cowboys attempted unsuccessfully a revolt against the Guyana government of Prime Minister Forbes Burnham.

The government put it down but accused Venezuela of financing and training the cattlemen, a charge officially denied by Venezuela.

MUCH OF the credit for the agreement goes to Venezuelan President Dr. Rafael Caldera who has sought to dampen down the dispute since taking office 15 months ago.

He had been hampered by a split between hawks and doves in his own cabinet, the hawks wanting to pursue the claim by force if necessary and the doves demanding that the dispute be dropped and that Venezuela proceed with development of land it already had.

Caldera favored the latter course but in taking his action may have courted more trouble in the opposition-controlled Velezuelan congress, where he is outvoted three to one.

The leading opposition party, Accion Democratica, has accused him of outright relinquishment of Venezuela's claims.

Caldera calls the agreement a "moratorium." It may be extended automatically unless either government exercises the option to end it at the end of the 2 years.

THE AGREEMENT is of substantial benefit to Guyana which now is free to go ahead with development of the area without the harassment of outside pressures.

The dispute with Venezuela has been one of two plaguing the Guyana government.

Surinam, bordering Guyana on the east, claims some 9,000 square miles in a region bordering on Surinam and Brazil to the south.

Each side has accused the other of aggression in the area which is uninhabited jungle. Diplomatic negotiations on the issue are under way in The Hague, capital of the Netherlands. Surinam is an autonomous region in the kingdom of the Netherlands.

More People On Welfare Staff –But More People On Welfare

Betty L. Presley, Marin County director of public social services, rocked more than a few taxpayers when she went before the board of supervisors during recent budget hearings for permission to hire an additional 67 staff people.

Although turned down, she did win approval to add nine — and that brought total staff for 1970-71 to 207 people. Thats quite a force, indeed, but a look at the department workload tells why.

In the past three years, public assistance to the family group under Aid to Families with Dependent Children has risen 54.7 per cent, from 10,225 cases per month in 1967-68 to 15,820 in 1969-70; aid to the disabled has jumped from 14,644 to 15,095 over the same period, or 30.1 per cent, and general relief to single persons has climbed 49.6 per cent, from 1,591 to 2,380, although that total is declining and probably will continue downward because of a tougher stance by the board of supervisors

Meanwhile, staff has increased by 12, from 195 to its present 207.

THE CASELOAD rise can be linked to the introduction of new federal programs and liberalization of long-standing ones, and a general worsening in living conditions for the poor. More recently, the listless economy has been the major factor (The AFDC roll has jumped 20 per cent in the last six months) and Miss Presley doesn't expect an upturn soon.

"Any brightening of the economic condition outlook in the last half of 1970 will take some time to reflect itself in the return to employment of those on unemployment and even longer to noticeably improve the situation of the public assistance group," she says.

MISS PRESLEY notes that major manufacturers in Marin have reduced their work forces by 35 per cent from a year ago — and apparently not just blue collar people.

"We're beginning to see some quite skilled people show up here," she says. "We especially see the fee consultant-type. The market has shrunk for their services."

On top of the increasing caseload, Miss Presley says, her staff has been inundated by a stream of legislative, regulatory and court-ordered changes which have required major overhaul of grants.

Also, state-required reinvestigation of welfare cases has fallen behind by as much as several months, burdening the clerical staff. This is where the nine new people will be deployed.

"The volume combined is a killer,' Miss Presley says.

$75,000 Allocated For Utility Undergrounding

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday allocated $75,000 to help finance three utility line undergrounding projects in Petaluma.

The money, combined with $116,000 in city funds, will permit undergrounding lines on Payran Street at Petaluma Boulevard North, South McDowell at East Washington Street and East Washington Street from the bridge to Hopper Street.

Total cost of the project was estimated at $172,000. Both the county and city receive some annual undergrounding funds from the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

In other action, Petaluma Supervisor George T. DeLong requested a study on the possibility of keeping county refuse disposal sites open until 6 p.m. during the summer months. He said that many Petalumans cannot get to the nearest disposal area by the 5 p.m. closing.

Donald B. Head, superintendent of public works, said he would look into keeping the sites open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. to accomodate garbage collection firms which like to empty collection trucks before the 8 a.m. opening. He said the companies had offered to pay the extra expense of the earlier opening.

Jail, Probation Set For Weapon, Narcotics Counts

A 34-year-old Bodega Bay man who was described as "having gone downhill ever since he received his master's degree at Stanford University in 1958," yesterday was sent to jail for four months for felony drug and weapon convictions.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court also placed John Bonner Davison on probation for two years and ordered him not to use or possess narcotics or associate with persons known to do so.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas had asked that Davison go to jail for six months, citing a long record of arrests involving weapons and narcotics.

The judge said that Davison did appear to have been in a great deal of trouble since leaving Stanford and said that he had to learn that he couldn't "run around the countryside carrying weapons and narcotics."

Davison had pleaded guilty to charges of possessing a loaded carbine rifle and a restricted drug, Desoxyphedrine, when arrested in April, 1969, and additional charges of having a revolver and morphine were dismissed.

A second man arrested with him, George Patrick Lake, 32, of Geyserville, is still being sought by authorities after he failed to appear in court shortly after being arrested.

The two were arrested after an officer approached their stopped car on Highway 101 to ask if they needed assistance. When he noticed that the license plates of the car did not match the registration, the car was searched and the weapons and drugs were found.

Trustee Ballot Delay Voted To Save $20,000

Tamalpais High School District trustees, to save $20,000, last night postponed from Sept. 15 to Nov. 3 an election to replace Gloria Melbostad, who resigned last month.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, attending his first board meeting since taking his position last Wednesday, reported that a special election in September would have cost the district $25,000.

Consolidating the election with the November general election would cut the cost to about $5,000, he said.

Mrs. Melbostad, a trustee since 1964, resigned because her new job as a history teacher at the College of Marin took up too much of her time, she said.

Cabin Cruiser Is Set Afire

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO — A 34-foot cabin cruiser, taken from the Sausalito Yacht Harbor last Wednesday night, was deliberately set afire and run aground, according to South San Francisco police.

The boat, Scoma's, was found in San Francisco Bay early Thursday.

Fire Chief John A. Marchi said yesterday it was difficult to determine the cause of the fire because of the extent of damage. But police have determined the fire was set and the boat deliberately run aground, Marchi said.

The yacht, which had been valued at $17,000, was owned by Joseph Scoma, owner of Scoma's Restaurant in Sausalito.

Bond Redemptions Exceeding Sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Savings bond redemptions exceeding sales by $30 million last month as savers continued to withdraw their funds, apparently in search of a better return on their money.

It was the 19th straight month withdrawals topped sales.

The government pays 5 per cent interest on savings bonds held to maturity - 5 years and 10 months. During the first year, bonds earn only 4 per cent. The rate rises after that to produce the overall 5 per cent yield.

Plane Loss Count To Replace Body Counts In Mideast War?

WASHINGTON — No one is quite certain if and when the United States will sell Israel the 125 fighter planes it's been asking for. The rumor in Washington is that the policy for the moment will be not to give Israel any new planes, but to replace those shot down by the enemy. If this is true, we can expect to see a decided change in the communiques emanating from Tel Aviv and the Arab capitals.

They may go something like this:

TEL AVIV, July 10 — Military spokesmen for the Israeli Air Force announced today that their planes were attacked along the Suez Canal. Twenty-seven Israeli planes were shot down, the spokesmen said, and 30 more limped back to their bases. This was the largest loss of Israeli combat aircraft ever recorded.

CAIRO, July 11 — Egyptian army officials angrily denied shooting down any Israeli planes in yesterday's battle over the Suez Canal. "Our pilots," said Gen. Gamal Emer, "missed the Israeli planes by miles.

"We have aerial photos showing all Israeli planes returned safely without so much as a bullet hole in them."

General Emer said he was also very disappointed in the new Russian-type SAM missiles which failed to hit the Israeli attackers. "It's apparent there is no hope we will ever shoot down an Israeli plane."

HAIFA, Israel, July 15 — A sneak attack along the Syrian border by Israeli fighters proved to be a catastrophe. Israeli sources said today. The high command revealed that Syrian planes had shot down 23 Israeli fighters, bringing Israeli losses for the week to 50 planes. Gen. Mordacai Rashnik has been relieved of his command for allowing these defeats to take place.

DAMASCUS, July 16 — Syrians demonstrated in the streets today against Israeli claims that Syrian fighter planes had shot down 23 Israeli planes in yesterday's dog fight over the Golan Heights.

At a giant rally in Damascus Square, Arab nationalist leaders introduced several Syrian pilots who claimed they had turned tail as soon as the Israeli planes approached.

"We did not engage them in battle," Lt. Abdullah Yafed told the screaming crowd. "The Zionist pigs did not lose any planes. They shot down five of ours."

The crowd cheered this news and then burned down the Jordanian Embassy.

TEL AVIV, July 25 — Prime Minister Golda Meir went on Israeli television tonight to regretfully announce that 30 more Israeli planes had been shot down by French-built Mirages over Libya. This was the farthest penetration Israeli planes had made. When it was pointed out after the broadcast that France had not yet delivered the Mirages to Libya, Mrs. Meir said, "I made a mistake. Our planes ran out of gas."

AMMAN, Jordan, July 26 — King Hussein demanded today that the United Nations take over the counting of Israeli planes lost in action. Charging Israel with duplicity, the king said, "We can never have peace in the Middle East as long as Israel keeps claiming plane losses it has never had."

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 1 — President Nasser and the Soviet military command announced jointly that all Arab planes had been grounded indefinitely and all antiaircraft guns had been silenced until further notice, to prevent the Israelis from announcing any more plane losses.

SOMEWHERE IN THE NEGEV, Aug. 2 — Foreign correspondents were taken on a guided tour of this top-secret Israeli air base in the Negev today. The base, which is the home of 45 fighters, was completely empty of aircraft.

A reporter asked where the planes were and the colonel in charge of the tour said, "They were all lost this morning to small-arms fire over the Dead Sea."

When it was pointed out that Israel has claimed to have lost 125 planes in three weeks, the exact number it had requested from the United States in the first place, the colonel replied, "Oy — what a coincidence!"

Escapee Admits To Felony Charge

Joseph Raymond (Smokey) Lester, 26, Washington state prison escapee who was captured in San Rafael May 20, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of being a felon who carried a concealed weapon.

Judge E. Warren McGuire sentenced him to state prison for a term to run concurrently with the one he is serving in Washington which still has eight years to run.

Police arrested Lester when they went to a residence of a former Gypsy Joker gang member and found Lester and two other men, all armed, sitting around a kitchen table. They said Lester had a .22 caliber revolver and that he had escaped from an honor farm in Washington about two months earlier.

FINESSE F[illegible]

West led hearts and continued the suit, forcing South to ruff the second round. South then drew four rounds of trumps and tried the diamond finesse. East won with the king of diamonds and returned a heart, forcing South to ruff with his last trump.

South could take his three diamonds and his six trumps, for a total of nine tricks, but whenever declarer led clubs, West was ready to take the ace of clubs and at least one heart to defeat the contract. Despite the magnificence of his trumps South had lost control of the hand.

NO-TRUMP PLAY

South should make the contract by employing a no-trump play. When you have to give up the lead twice at no-trump, you often take the trouble to lose the earlier trick to the opponent who has the long suit. When you lose the later trick to the other opponent, he may be out of the long suit and therefore may be unable to hurt you. South must follow the same principle in today's hand.

OUT OF TROUBLE

After drawing four rounds of trumps, South must first knock out the ace of clubs. West leads a third heart, forcing South to ruff with his last trump. Now South can safely try the diamond finesse. Even though the finesse loses, East is out of hearts, so that his fangs are empty of venom. No matter what East returns, South easily takes the rest of the tricks.

It's better to worry early and dye your hair than to wake up too late and tear your hair out.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player bids one spade. You hold:

♥—10 6 5 2
♦—A 10 9 6
♣—Q 6 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

If you act now, when it is cheap to do so, you can sit back and let your partner bid as much or as little as he likes. If you pass now, however, neither member of the partnership will know what to do in competitive bidding.

TV REVIEW

What Is Behind The Big Bosses?

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It is one of the sad ironies of television that some sophisticated executives have put on shows they would not watch themselves and for a mass audience they would not mingle with socially.

The fortunate network bigwigs are able to escape this unpoetic justice, but in speaking to the less fortunate, one constantly notes the inner lament of well-educated, honorable souls who must too often play down to the crowd.

We forget most of the time that these decisions are, after all, not made by computers or men in a vacuum—but by persons who usually are doing the best they can in a difficult system and face their own television critics at home, in their families and among their neighbors.

And, most difficult, they must face themselves in the mirror each day, wondering all too frequently whether their preparation for power has resulted in a satisfactory wielding of it—something that can justify their education and personal beliefs.

Thus, it has been fascinating to watch and read about the announced transfer of Mike Dann from CBS-TV, where he resigned as programming boss, to the Children's Television Workshop, which produces the acclaimed "Sesame Street" series.

Various reasons have been suggested for Dann's move, which will give him a considerably smaller salary.

One fact is that CBS-TV's new president, Robert Wood, is going to be the real boss of the programming. Another fact, undeniably, is that Dann's reputation as a ratings winner was based on accumulating the largest overall audience, whereas the new trend is for the hip young urban viewers.

But my feeling is that Dann's greatest motive for switching, now that he is financially comfortable and can afford it, was highly personal. Among other things, his colorful feud with NBC-TV's research boss, Paul Klein, did not reflect with particular dignity on his image. This intramural rivalry over ratings seemed an absurd thing over which to blow one's stack publicly. Dann already had his detractors, and now they were supplied with more ammunition.

So I think that, in the end, Dann was motivated above all by the overriding human desire to be remembered well—and to take positive steps to assure that he is. For a professional, nothing is more important than the total respect of one's colleagues. And Dann is surely aware that his new job will get him more favorable attention than the many specials he put on with profits from the ratings.

I think it is also worth noting the comment of Les Brown, video editor of "Variety," that Dann's "family was not always proud of the work Dann was doing, his wife and children having involved themselves in social causes." In fairness to some other executives, this, of course, is certainly not always the case. But it does apply to some of the less fortunate ones. Said Dann:

"I've simply reached the point in my life when I want to do something to serve the country's needs in an important area, and I feel I can use my background in TV to make a contribution. Every one in my family is doing some consequential work now for the betterment of the human race, and I need to have that kind of satisfaction now."

Senior Citizen Tax Help Is Pointed Out

Many senior citizens are failing to take advantage of state property tax assistance, Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, reported today.

Only 36,000 claims have been filed statewide so far, compared with more than 45,000 last year by this date, McCarthy said.

The three-year-old state program provides for refunds up to 95 per cent, depending on the claimant's household income.

Filing for refunds on property taxes paid last fiscal year started on May 15 and closes on Oct. 15.

McCarthy also reminded claimants that their applications should be based on their income for calendar year 1969.

To be eligible, claimants must have been over 65 as of Jan. 1, must own and occupy their home, must have paid the property taxes on the home, and must have a total household income of less than $3,350. Applications are available through the Franchise Tax Board offices at 1739 Fourth Street, Santa Rosa; 345 Larkin Street, San Francisco, and Box 1588, Sacramento.

Deputies Search For Child's Body

LAKEPORT (UPI) — Lake County sheriff's deputies hunted today for the body of a small girl, one of four persons to die in a Clear Lake boating accident July 4.

Bodies of Mrs. Mary L. Bowser, 24, and one of her daughters were found Monday. Two of Mrs. Bowser's daughters, Lorene, 5, and Deanne, 3, disappeared after a boat collision but the sheriff's office said Monday night it did not know which body was recovered.

Charles R. Barnett, 35, who piloted the boat carrying the Bowsers, died at the accident scene although the other boat's perator, Ronald Sockolov, 18, of San Francisco dove into the water and pulled him out.

Mystery Rifleman Kills Two Lions In Portland Zoo

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Both a lioness who mauled a youth to death and its mate died "lingering, agonizing deaths" from rifle wounds, zoo director Jack Marks said Monday.

"Whoever shot them had terrible aim," he said.

The lioness, named Sis, killed Roger D. Adams, 19. He and two companions entered the Portland Zoo after it closed Saturday, officials said.

Two penguins were tossed in a pond and bears were teased before Adams climbed a protective fence at the lion compound and was grabbed by the animal, officials added.

"I don't suspect anything," Marks said. "I hope the police will find out who did it—not only for humane reasons, but because the animals were part of public property."

"While I feel very sorry that the lions killed somebody, the animals reacted instinctively to an invader of their lair," he added.

Governor Grants Boy's Two Wishes

CATHEDRAL CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Billy Long, 7 suffering from a terminal brain tumor, wanted to do two things before being blind.

He wanted to visit Disneyland and to meet Red Skelton.

Thanks to California Gov. Ronald Reagan, both Billy's dreams have come true.

Monday Billy and his family were picked up at the Disneyland Hotel in Reagan's limousine and were driven to this desert community where Billy swam in Skelton's swimming pool and had lunch with the comedian.

Council Eyes Curbs On Parades, Meetings

The San Rafael City Council last night was presented with a proposed ordinance regulating meetings, assemblies and parades in public places.

The council postponed consideration of the proposal until July 20 because it had not had time to study the ordinance.

The ordinance, as proposed by City Mgr. James H. McCown, would require permits for all public gatherings except funeral processions.

McCown said the proposal was needed because the city had not regulation governing public gatherings, and that in the past he and the police department have worked out arrangements for each particular case.

The proposed ordinance states that applications for permits must be filed with the chief of police not less than 20 days before a proposed parade and not less than 14 days before a proposed public meeting or assembly.

The chief of police must approve or deny the permit at least eight days prior to the proposed event. If denied, the decision can be appealed to the city council.

If the council adopts the ordinance as proposed, a planned public activity could conceivably be denied without recourse to the council, which is scheduled to meet every two weeks.

If a permit were denied the day following a council meeting, the eight days required prior to the activity would pass before the council met two weeks later.

Use Permit For Preschool Nursery Gets Marin's Nod

A use permit for a preschool nursery for 24 children at 10 Bayview Drive outside San Rafael was approved yesterday by Ralph D. Cairns, Marin County zoning administrator.

Applicant Helen Johnson said the children would be instructed in two periods from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Cairns also said he would approve a use permit sought by the county's community mental health services department for a nursery school for 12 children at 1030 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, if parking problems can be worked out.

Use permits also were approved to allow construction of a utility building by Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. at 165 Valley Drive, Tomales; to permit a temporary mobile home for sales and office use by U.S. Development at Miller Creek Road and Highway 101, near Marinwood, and to enable Steve F. Reiter of 35 Orchard Way, San Geronimo, to keep two horses on his property for three months.

Burglary Suspect Pleads Innocent

Gerald Clair Crane, 18, of Larkspur, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to charges of twice burglarizing the Hutchinson Co. quarry in Greenbrae as well as possessing 100 pounds of dynamite on March 15.

A jury trial was set for the week of Sept. 21.

Police said Crane led them to more hidden explosives after he and showed them dynaite in the trunk of his car.

The New York Convention and Visitors Bureau says that the Big Town has 16.5 million visitors annually. Number one tourist attraction still—the Empire State building, the world's tallest structure at 1,472 feet.

Mill Valley Seeks Closing Of Reservoir

The Mill Valley City Council announced its intention last night to bar public access to the city's Cascade Reservoir during the summer fire season because of the fire danger. (Another Mill Valley City Council story, page 1)

It asked City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to prepare an emergency ordinance declaring all city-owned property in the reservoir area off-limits from May 1 to Nov. 1. The council will act on the measure and probably adopt it at its next regular meeting July 20 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Councilmen made it clear that they did not want to bar entry to the mountain lake, but had no choice. "We've tried everything," said Jerom eC. Hauke. "I hate to do this but what is the alternative?"

Only Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker spoke against the ordinance. "I don't think it's enforceable. Why pass a law that no one will obey," he asked.

Police Chief Dan Terzich said he had no opinion on the ordinance but felt it was "another Voistead Act. Unless you give us more men, it will be close to impossible to enforce it," he said.

But his department will do everything it can to enforce any ordinance the council passes, Terzich promised.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

CUTOFF — Announced its intention to vacate East Blithedale cutoff top Mortimer Conklin in exchange for property at the corner of East Blithedale Avenue and Camino Alto.

PRESSURE — Directed City Mgr. William H. Cunningham to confer with the Marin Municipal Water District on complaints of low water pressure in several areas of the city.

FLOODING — Directed City Engineer Stanley M. Bala to ask the Marin County Flood Control Advisory Board to examine flooding on Barrie Way and Glen Drive in Scot Highlands.

AUDITOR — Approved negotiation of a contract with Diehl, Evans and Co., certified public accountants, to audit the city's books.

APPOINTMENTS — Confirmed the following appointments to city commissions: Eugene McGeorge and Waltie Hecht, library; Marjorie Mahl, park and recreation, and Frederick Wright, youth.

SEWER — Heard a report by Cunningham that $11,320 has been collected for assessments in the Cascade-Lovell Sanitary Sewer District, and set Aug 3 to open bids for purchase of the sewer bonds.

CAMINO ALTO — Authorized Jordan to proceed with condemnation proceedings against owners of 13 parcels of land required for four-laning of Camino Alto.

MINUTES — Authorized Lucretia Little, city historian, to exhibit a copy of the minutes of the first city council meeting at a celebration feting the 70th anniversary of Mill Valley's founding.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to today at 7:30 p.m. at city hall to consider capital outlay in the 1970-71 budget. The next regular meeting will be July 20 at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Inmate Is Given Concurrent Term

San Quentin inmate Clarence Milton Sprague, 32, has been sentenced by Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court to a term to run concurrently with one he is now serving for armed robbery.

Sprague was convicted by a jury last month of escaping from the prison on April 18.

He is already serving a five-year-to-life term for armed robbery.

City Seeking Parking Area Under Span

The City of San Rafael has asked the state Division of Highways to lease it the land under the new Highway 101 overpass, City Mgr. James H. McCown said yesterday.

However, negotiations are dormant until the contractor finishes rerouting a creek from under the old overpass to under the new overpass, McCown said.

He said the city cannot determine how much land will be available and where it will be until the rerouting is completed.

McCown declined to say when the contract can be worked out, but the construction contract calls for completion by Jan. 1.

A parking area under the overpass would provide well-located commuter parking and ease the downtown parking problem, McCown said, so the city wanted to make its interest known early.

"We want to control the area," he said.

The city made its request about two months ago, according to the city manager.

Power Boys Win Out In A.L. All-Star Voting

NEW YORK (UPI)—First baseman Boog Powell and outfielder Frank Robinson, the 1-2 punch of the defending champion Baltimore Orioles, were top-heavy choices today when they were named to an American League All-Star team dominated by sluggers.

Also named to the team which will face the National League stars on July 14 in Cincinnati were catcher Bill Freehan of the Detroit Tigers, second baseman Davey Johnson of the Orioles, shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox, third baseman Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins and outfielders Frank Howard of the Washington Senators and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox.

Johnson was selected by Oriole manager Earl Weaver because Rod Carew of the Twins, the runaway winner in the fans' voting for a second baseman, is sidelined with an injury. Johnson finished fifth in the fans' balloting.

Power was the obvious criterion the fans used in their selections inasmuch as the top three batters in the league—Alex Johnson of the California Angels, Roy White of the New York Yankees and Tony Oliva of the Twins—were passed over in favor of sluggers.

Killebrew, Howard, Powell and Yastrzemski rank one through four in home runs, while Powell, Killebrew and Howard rank 1-2-4 in runs batted in.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced that 2,034,724 votes were cast and said the total is believed to be the largest computerized vote ever taken in sports.

Powell, who is batting .315 and leads the league in RBI in games through Sunday, was the biggest vote-getter with 1,007,930. Norm Cash of the Tigers was second among first basemen with 200,276 and the five first basemen who trailed Powell in the voting totaled 555,714 votes.

Actually, the only close vote was at shortstop where Aparicio won with 532,825 votes to 521,024 for Rico Petrocelli of the Red Sox. Jim Fregosi of the Angels was a distant third with 191,201.

Robinson polled 795,083 votes to lead the outfielders with Howard second at 680,109 and Yastrzemski third at 656,831. Oliva, the fourth best voteget-ter among the outfielders, had 446,052.

Bill Freehan was a runaway winner among the catchers, although he is having an off-season, with 944,601 votes to 148,647 for Elrod Hendricks of the Orioles. Ray Fosse of the Indians, who is among the league's batting leaders, did not show among the top six.

Carew had 878,101 votes to beat out Dick McAuliffe of the Tigers by more than 600,000. McAuliffe was passed over by Weaver because he, too, is injured but Tommy Harper of the Milwaukee Brewers and Mike Andrews of the Red Sox also outpolled Johnson.

Killebrew had 729,476 votes to beat out Brooks Robinson of the

Draft Is Key To Reds Big Rise To Power

When baseball adopted the free agent draft system in December of 1964, Gabe Paul jumped with joy. Paul started his campaign for the system when he still was general manager of the Cincinnati Reds. By the time it was adopted, Paul had moved on as president of the Cleveland Indians after a very brief stop in Houston when the Astros were a 1962 expansion club.

So Paul wasn't around in Cincinnati when the staff he trained immediately began reaping free agent awards. Paul's old Cincinnati staff picked Bernie Carbo No. 1, Johnny Bench No. 2 and Hal McRae No. 6 in the first free agent baseball draft held in the summer of 1965.

In 1966, Gary Nolan was Cincinnati's No. 1 pick out of Oroville. In 1967, Wayne Simpson was No. 1 out of Los Angeles.

Bob Howsam, who had made some great deals for the Cardinals when he was general manager in St. Louis, became Cincinnati's general manager and executive vice president in 1967.

Some Very Good Trades

In 1968, Howsam began wheeling and dealing for the Reds. He traded Vada Pinson to the Cardinals for Bobby Tolan and Wayne Granger. He traded Chico Gardenas the same year to Minnesota for Jim Merritt. Last year he got Jim McGlothlin from the Angels for Chico Ruiz and Alex Johnson.

Howsam, of course, kept Tony Perez, Pete Rose, Lee May, Tommy Helms and a rookie shortstop named Dave Concepcion he signed out of Venezuela in 1968.

Take a look at Cincinnati's pennant-bound lineup today. It is fashioned from the 1965-66-67 free agent picks, the 1968-69 trades and naturally the players Howsam had tabbed as untouchables.

The solid free agent choices by Cincinnati made it possible for Howsam to deal the players he did for pitchers to round out the team staff.

Without the free agent system it is doubtful Cincinnati could have signed Nolan or Simpson. Giant souts knew all about Nolan. Dodger scouts knew all about Simpson. And in a free enterprise bonus bidding contest, the Giants and Dodgers had the pocket books.

Best Thing For Baseball

"It's the best thing that ever happened to baseball," said Paul when the free agent draft went into effect. "Baseball is going to benefit by this wide-open system. Even those opposed to it will come to support it in time because we're all interested in anything that is for the good of the game."

Walter O'Malley was one of those who opposed the free agent draft. "It's socialism," said O'Malley.

"He had his reason for saying that," said Paul. "The Dodgers had the Los Angeles area, which always has produced a lot of good kid players, pretty well sewed up."

Whether time will prove the free agent draft to be the best thing that ever happened to baseball remains to be seen. But there is no doubt whatsoever about it making posisble Cincinnati's Big Red Machine of 1970.

WHO'S GOT IT? — Giants' third baseman Alan Gallagher (left) and shortstop Hal Lanier converged beneath a foul pop-up off the bat of Hank Aaron last night in Atlanta. Gallagher made the catch to end the fourth inning, but the Braves won the game, 12-4. (UPI Telephoto)

SAME OLD STORY

Giant Pitching Shelled

ATLANTA (UPI)—Manager Charlie Fox wasn't kidding when he said he was working with a thin pitching staff.

The mound corps of the San Francisco Giants, which has been anything but effective this season, now has been depleted by injuries.

With Skip Pitlock on the shelf with a bad ankle until after the All-Star break, and with Rich Robertson down with a heavy cold, Fox was forced Monday night to call on reliever Jerry Johnson for a starting assignment.

QUICK EXIT

Johnson, with a disappointing 7.79 earned run average, quickly was pounded by the Atlanta Braves in a 12-4 setback.

Johnson lasted only four innings, during which time he gave up eight hits and five earned runs. Mike McCormick relieved, but managed to get only one man out while giving up three runs.

The San Francisco pitchers managed to quell the bat of Hank Aaron, who went hitless in four trips. But little Felix Millan, the Braves' second baseman, pounded out six hits in six at-bats and drove in four runs. Rico Carty added a homer and two other hits for three RBI.

DIETZ HOMERS

Dick Dietz gave the Giants a 2-0 lead in the first inning with his 17th homer of the season. Carty came right back with a two-run job to tie it, and Willie Mays blasted his 18th in the third inning for the Giants to make it 4-2. Then Millan went to work.

Millan tied the score with a single and batted in a pair of runs in the Braves' five-run fifth inning.

Atlanta was not quieted until Frank Reberger came to the hill. Reberger, who had hurled six innings of scoreless relief one day earlier, fired another 2 2-3 innings of spotless baseball Monday night.

The good relief performance came too late, however, as the Giants went down to their fourth straight defeat and fell 9 1-2 games behind first place Cincinnati in the National League West.

Decker Hurls Win; 2 Hits By Boccabella

Joe Decker, former Petaluma High School star, pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 14-2 victory over Montreal in the second game of a doubleheader yesterday which the Cubs swept, winning the opener, 3-2.

Decker, a rookie righthander whose parents live in San Rafael, limited the Expos to six hits, two of them by another local product, former Marin Catholic High School catcher John Boccabella of San Anselmo.

Decker struck out five and walked four in winning his second game against four losses this season.

Chicago third baseman Ron Santo, who drove in 10 runs, eight of them in the second game, had a home run in the opener and two more in the nightcap as he led the Cubs to only their third and fourth wins in the last 19 games.

In the opener, Roberto Rodriguez took over from Bill Hands with the bases loaded and none out in the ninth inning and retired the side in order to preserve the Cubs' victory.

Novato Brothers Win Top Awards

Brothers Gerald Ghirardo, 12, and Steve, 12, of Novato, were age group winners in the University of Santa Clara Coaching Camp which ran from June 21 to July 4.

The trophies were based on all sports, in addition to leadership and sportsmanship.

Stewart Puts New Car Through Paces

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (UPI) —Scotland's Jackie Stewart, the reigning world drivers' champion, was to put the new Chaparral 2J through its first high speed time trials today for its racing debut Sunday in the Canadian-American championship.

The new car, developed by Texan Jim Hall, has never raced before. It was unveiled earlier this week, and Monday Stewart announced he would compete in his first Can-Am event in the latest American racing car.

The high-flying Scot is no stranger to the Glen course. He won the 1968 U.S. Grand Prix here in a Matra-Ford. Currently, he is second in the race for the world's drivers title, behind Australia's Jochen Rindt.

Hall is also no stranger at the Glen. His earlier Chaparrals were consistent winners here over the past five years.

Despite the highly touted new Hall entry into the Can-Am series, the money is still riding on the McLaren team cars piloted by Americans Dan Gurney and New Zealand's Denis Hulme, a former world champion. The cars have won 14 Can-Am races, including every race last year and the first two held this year, both in Canada.

The Can-Am on Sunday is the finale of a racing double header that features a six hour endurance race for the world manufacturers championship on Saturday.

In the endurance contest, Ferrari will make an all out effort to catch up on the lead built by the German Porsches in earlier races this season. Ferrari has entered two cars, with former Indy "500" winner Mario Andretti and Belgium's Jacky Icky the lead drivers.

The two factory prepared Porsches will have England's Jo Siffert and Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez as lead drivers. Co-drivers for both Ferrari and Porsche will be named later.

2 Warrior Clinics In Marin County

The San Francisco Warriors have scheduled summer instructional basketball clinics at two Marin County high schools.

The clinics, to be held at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley July 30, and Terra Linda High School Aug. 10, will consist of demonstrations and teaching sessions conducted by Warrior coach Al Attles and various members of the National Basketball Association team.

Starting time for both days is 1 p.m.

TWINS EDGE A'S

Perranoski In Key Role

OAKLAND (UPI)—Ron Perranoski would like to know what it takes to earn a spot on the All-Star squad.

The stylish reliever of the Minnesota Twins now is in his 10th season as one of the most consistent bullpen pitchers in the major leagues. Yet he never has made an All-Star squad.

2-1 WIN

"Each All-Star manager should pick a righthanded and a lefthanded reliever," said Perranoski after helping the Twins beat the Oakland A's Monday night 2-1.

"Baseball has relied a great deal on relief pitchers and they should be recognized at All-Star game time."

Perranoski, a cool veteran with superb control of his roundhouse breaking pitches, fired 2 2-3 innings of scoreless relief Monday night to pick up his 19th save of the season. He also has won five games, meaning he's figured in 24 of the Twins' 50 victories this season.

WORKHORSE

The lefty has averaged 66 mound appearances through his career and appears on his way to a similar figure this season. Through Minnesota's first 76 games, Perranoski has pitched in 34 of them.

The Twins, leaders of the American League West, rely heavily on Perranoski and fellow reliever Stan Williams because of a starting staff which has completed only 12 games. The same situation occurred last season, but Perranoski was equal to the task.

"I think I'm a better pitcher when I'm tired," he said. "My big pitches are the sinker and slow curve, and the ball tails more sharply for me if my arm is weary."

FIVE HITS

Perranoski combined with starter and winner Bill Zepp (4-0) to set down the A's on just five hits. Oakland had runners on base in all but one inning yet could not punch across the big hit.

The A's tallied their lone run in the second inning on a walk, hit batsman and a bloop single by Dave Duncan.

The Twins tied it in the third when Cesar Tovar beat out an infield hit, went to third on a single by Tony Oliva and error by Joe Rudi, and came home on Harmon Killebrew's single.

Tovar batted in the winning run against loser Diego Segui (3-5) after a walk and single by Zepp. The hit was the first for Zepp in the major leagues.

The A's, now 7 1-2 games behind Minnesota, have cracked only 17 hits in their last four games.

TROUBLE

Now they find themselves in additional trouble with injuries to veteran outfielders Felipe Alou and Tommy Davis.

Alou, batting .296 and playing in all but two games this season, came down with a kidney stones ailment. Doctors at Merritt Hospital in Oakland

Clay Loses Another Round

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Cassius Clay has lost another court battle aimed at overturning his conviction on charges of draft evasion.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday a lower court was correct in deciding federal wiretaps had nothing to do with convicting the former heavyweight boxing champion.

Clay, who prefers his black muslim name Muhammed Ali, was convicted June 20, 1967, of refusing induction into the Army. The conviction was appealed all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

While it was pending there, the federal government disclosed five telephone conversations involving Clay were tapped by the FBI. The Supreme Court sent the case back to a district court.

U.S. District Judge Joe Ingraham of Houston reviewed the matter and ruled all five conversations were irrelevant to the conviction.

Ingraham turned over logs of four of the conversations to Clay's attorneys. The judge reviewed the fifth conversation privately and ruled it was recorded by the government in connection with "the gathering of foreign intelligence."

Ingraham ruled the fifth conversation, like the other four, had nothing to do with Clay's conviction.

The circuit court's decision Monday upheld Ingraham's ruling.

MORE PROMOTIONS

Finley Outlines His Seals' Plan

OAKLAND (UPI)—The management of the Oakland Seals, minus a club president, sat and listened to new owner Charles O. Finley describe his plans to pep up the slumbering National Hockey League franchise.

Finley openly admitted Monday to a roomful of sportswriters and his coach and executives that "I know absolutely nothing about hockey."

But the colorful owner of baseball's Oakland A's outlined a series of promotional gimmicks and organizational changes which he hopes will hike attendance as well as improve the Seals' performance on the ice.

RETAINS GLOVER

Among his plans is retention of coach Fred Glover, general manager Frank Selke and executive vice president Bill Torrey, all of whom were present at the news conference.

Absent was president Bill Creasy, who voted against Finley's $4.5 million purchase of the Seals which was approved last week. Creasy, aligned with the team's former owner Trans-National Communications, officially resigned his position Monday.

"To become contenders," Finley said, "we'll have to employ more scouts, establish better working agreements with other teams and develop farm clubs."

PROMOTIONS

To help the Seals become contenders in the NHL attendance race, Finley plans a series of promotional nights, a set of snappy green and gold player uniforms with white skates, plenty of musical entertainment in the stands and a solid radio-television contract.

"We are going to do everything in our power to bring a championship team to this area, but it will take some time," Finley said. "My only role is getting enough money to pay the bills."

Finley already has been dickering with an established NHL club for the rights to "an unnamed superstar." When the name Bobby Hull was mentioned, Finley would say only, "Would I like Bobby Hull? Who wouldn't?"

FARM TEAM

"I could hardly believe," Finley said, "that a major league club like the Seals was operating without a direct farm club. They had a working agreement with Providence of the AHL, but I hope to establish an actual farm team, maybe in Birmingham."

It was rumored earlier that Finley would have a pair of live seals balancing pucks on their noses inside glass cages at the team's home games in the Oakland Coliseum. But Finley says he's holding off on those plans, at least for awhile.

"There may come a time when we'll have trained seals in the lobby spinning a puck in their nose, but right now the only kind of seals I'm interested in are winning Seals," he said.

As for those fabled white skates, which would be a variation of his baseball team's white spikes, Finley promised to think about the idea a little longer.

WHITE SHOES

"White shoes will be discussed with the players," he said, "if I feel there is a place for them in hockey."

Finley took over the Seals after the club fell into bankruptcy.

After three years in the league, the Seals have only one charismatic superstar, young Carol Vadnais. They have been averaging only 6,000-plus in attendance and have not had the funds nor ambition to pursue a steady promotional program.

And, unlike every other NHL club, the Seals have had no local television coverage of their games and only a selected number of contests on radio.

SUDDEN SAM AT SECOND — Cleveland pitcher Sam McDowell, converted to a second baseman in the eighth inning last night against Washington, steps on second to force the sliding Frank Howard. McDowell returned to the mound in the ninth, striking out the side to post his 12th victory as the Indians won, 6-4. (UPI Telephoto)

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Win, And Save, For Sam

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Southpaw Sam McDowell is one starting picture who came in to save his own game.

McDowell, the ace of the Cleveland staff, technically didn't receive credit for the save in the record books even though he came on to strike out the side in the ninth inning Monday night after being shifted to second base in the eighth by mangager Alvin Dark.

Dark had brought in righthander Dean Chance with runners on second and third and two out and the Indians leading 6-4. Chance walked Frank Howard intentionally to load the bases before getting Rick Reichardt to hit a grounder to third baseman Eddie Leon who fired to McDowell for the force play to end the inning.

RETURNS

McDowell returned to the mound in the ninth where he retired the Senators to preserve his 12th victory against four losses. Sudden Sam struck out 15 batters and it marked the eighth time this year and 67th time in his career—an American League record—that he has struck out 10 or more in a game.

Dark later explained that he brought in Chance "because the Senators had no more left-handed hitters on the bench. If they had sent up a left-handed pinch-hitter, I would have kept McDowell in. I put myself on the spot."

McDowell, who has played first base in his minor league days at Salt Lake City, admitted to being "sure surprised when he (Dark) told me to go to second. Leon threw the ball a little low and I lost it momentarily. I finally caught the ball with both knees on second base trying to force Howard."

OTHER SCORES

In other American League action. Milwaukee tripped Chicago 3-1, Minnesota edged Oakland 2-1, California downed Kansas City 6-2, and Detroit defeated Boston 6-3. Baltimore and New York were not scheduled.

In the National League, New York ripped St. Louis 10-3, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 7-5, Atlanta pounded San Francisco 12-4, Cincinnati blanked San Diego 5-0, Chicago swept a pair from the Montreal Expos, 3-2 and 14-2, and Los Angeles defeated Houston 10-8, in 10 innings.

Dave May hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning for Milwaukee to snap a 1-1 tie and enable Gene Brabender, who pitched an eight-hitter, to pick up the win.

Loser Jerry Janeski allowed only five hits but he was beaten by two of them in the seventh. Tommy Harper led off with a single and after Mike Hegan had flied out, May cracked his first homer in a Milwaukee uniform to decide the game.

HOME RUN

Jim Northrup's 15th homer with one on climaxed a three-run first inning rally as the Tigers scored five runs off Gary Peters in the first two innings and hold on for the win. Tony Conigliaro's 16th homer of the season came in the fourth inning following a walk to Carl Yastrzemski and was one of four hits off winner Les Cain.

Billy Cowan belted a three-run homer to help California's Tom Murphy gain his 10th victory in the Angels win over Kansas City. Murphy, who scored two runs, needed relief help from Eddie Fisher in the ninth after the Royals scored their second run. Cowan's homer came off Loser Jim Rooker who allowed five runs in 4 2-3 innings.

Brewers' Fan Begins His Scoreboard Stay

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—A 69-year-old Milwaukee Brewers fan, was hoisted to the top of the County Stadium scoreboard Monday night to remain there until the Brewers have a full house for an American League baseball game.

But before he could even get settled, Milton Mason, of San Diego, Calif., who has been dubbed "Bernie Brewer," had company—a crew of plumbers who fixed a leak in the plumbing of the 24-foot mobile home in which he will be living.

Mason, attired in a colorful alpine outfit with lederhousen, was lifted to the top of the scoreboard by a crane. His mobile home is completely equipped with cooking facilities, plumbing, air conditioning and a color television set.

The mobile home rests on a platform atop the 80-foot high scoreboard in right-center field.

The stunt is the idea of Milwaukee general manager Marvin Milkes and Mason is a longtime friend of Milkes. Mason has helped in the Brewers' clubhouse and worked with the trainers. He is a retired aeronautical engineer.

watched Monday night's game in civilian clothes.

The Giants' former standout at third base has been made a coach, with Jim Ray Hart being recalled from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League to take his spot on the roster. Hart, demoted to the minors earlier this season, responded with a .307 batting average and eight homers at Phoenix.

The Giants tonight hope to send a recuperated Robertson (6-6) to the mound against Jim (5-6) to the mound against Jim Nash (10-2) of Atlanta.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Last week Frank Sue, Marty Medin and I got together for a real try at some stripers. I hadn't caught a bass since April 2. That was about the time most of the fish went up the Delta on their annual spawning run.

We checked most of the local areas, but the bass seemed to be pretty scarce. Even the Department of Fish and Game checker at Caruso's had logged only five bass in the last week or so.

USING BAIT was out, with so many sharks and other predator fish in the bay, so we decided to try the rocky points inside and outside the Golden Gate using lures and jigs. What a workout! Let the jig out until it hits bottom, then give it a lift. Tiredness, backaches and snags are the general things that happen.

Then suddenly Frank has a fish on! A big fight, and finally we have a 20-pounder in the boat. We had been jigging and casting two hours by now. Frank got the fish on a bugeye. But no other hits here, so we moved over by Pt. Diablo. Another hour and about four Hopkins lures lost, then Marty gets about a 30-pounder. But that's it. We moved again and again, then decided to head in.

WE REACHED THE rocky area off Yellow Bluff after about five hours of fishing. It was about 2 p.m. and we could feel the heat as we headed for Sausalito. We thought we'd better keep fishing rather than get into that 100-degree-plus heat. Back to Yellow Bluff, and would you believe it? Marty gets two more bass, both pips, then he starts his singing. It's awful!

Finally I got a fish, about a 15-pounder, after a full eight hours of casting. After this we headed for home. That night Bob Wilson, the bass champ, comes over for the dope. Immediately, he wants to go the next day. I told him it was too much work, but he persisted, even going so far as to bet me 50 cents that we would limit out. He said we didn't work the Hopkins lures the right way. At first he wanted to bet $2 that we would limit! I finally said okay to the 50-cent bet.

THEN HE says, we have to leave home at 4:30 a.m. Good grief! But this does beat the winds, so I say okay. We launched at Sausalito at 5 a.m., slowly moving down the bay, through the fog. A compass sure helps! We made out three guys on some rocks casting. I tell Wilson that one is a guy named Poon and his son, and a friend. Bob gave me that "this guy's nuts" look, so I called and Poon waved.

It's true, on certain tides, certain fishermen have certain rocks that they call their own, and you can see them there almost every tide that's right. As we traveled along, there were approximately 30 of these anglers, some in precarious spots, and this, remember, is at 5:30 to 6 a.m.

ABOUT THIS time, I notice that Wilson has a sign posted on the boat that reads: Hopkins Lures — $3.25 each. I had lost three on the last trip, and had told Wilson they were too expensive to use at $2 each; that I wasn't bringing any along. I was using feathered jigs today. He figured to give me a fishing lesson, then I'd have to buy his lures.

Well, we finally got to his hot spot, so he cut the motor, and started jigging. I made a cast over by a rock, let it sink a little, started the retrieve, and bango! Honest, I did that three times in a row landing a 27 and two 21 pounders. Never in my life have I ever before made three casts and taken three fish. What did Bob do? He says, "Say, could you loan me one of those feather jigs?" I said for $4 each you can have as many as you want. Oh, I finally gave him a couple of old beat up ones, and in jig time he limited out too.

HE HAD TO PAY for the first, biggest and most fish, and I had to give him 50 cents for the two limits, but now wasn't that a day? We tried fly rods and for about 15 minutes had a ball, releasing the fish. Then suddenly the fish were gone! Not one other hit, so we headed for home, through fishing by 7:15 a.m.

In checking with the shore casters later, it was estimated that they had taken about 10 bass too. The one guy on the rock who I hadn't recognized with Poon was my fishing buddy Frank Sue. It seems his motor had broken down so he thought Wilson and I would pick him up if he called to us from shore as we passed. I didn't hear him, so now I am on his list. You know the one I mean!

America's Cup Trials Under Way

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—The observation trials to pick the America's Cup defender begin today.

The four candidates — Valiant, Heritage, Intrepid and Weatherly — will compete in round-robin races during the trials. Intrepid sails against Weatherly and Heritage against Valiant today.

Weatherly, the 1962 Cup defender, was added to the list of candidates Monday. The America's Cup selection committee accepted the offer of the syndicate that owns Weatherly to use the vessel at least for the first round of races.

Weatherly has been measured and would be eligible to defend the Cup if she should beat the other three yachts, all of which are newer. Intrepid defended the Cup in 1967.

The starting time for the trials today was pushed back two hours to 1 p.m. because of morning memorial services in Newport for Harold S. Vanderbilt, who successfully defended the Cup three times.

The committee will select the Cup defender by Sept. 8. The finals—against either France or Gretel of Australia—begin Sept. 15.

Billie's Future Clouded

CRYSTAL BAY, Nev. (UPI) —The future of tennis standout Billie Jean King has been clouded by a bad knee.

Mrs. King, back in the United States after a draining and disappointing defeat at Wimbledon, England, said Monday she will undergo tests to determine whether a second operation is needed on her sore knee.

TEACHING

She indicated she may go into semi-retirement and devote more time to teaching tennis at a Lake Tahoe camp of which she is co-partner.

The 26-year-old star from Long Beach, Calif., had one operation earlier in her career. Mrs. King said she would return to Long Beach for an examination by her surgeon.

"Whatever he says, I'll go along with," she said.

Mrs. King complained of leg cramps after a grueling loss to Margaret Court of Australia, 14-12, 11-9, in the longest women's match in Wimbledon history last weekend.

She called the loss her "greatest disappointment. I'm very American about it . . . winning is the essence."

WATCH

Mrs. King said her pained leg caused her at times to "stand and watch the ball go by."

She did, however, manage to team with Rosemary Casals of San Francisco for the Wimbledon doubles title.

Mrs. King's husband Larry, also 26, said his wife might be out of action at least six months if a second operation was performed. In any event, the Honolulu attorney said he is in favor of his wife taking it a little easier.

BRITISH OPEN

It's A Star-Studded Field

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI)—Six years ago, the late Tony Lema did the "impossible." He tamed the tough old course at St. Andrews at virtually first sight to win the British Open golf championship.

Lema, killed in an airplane crash in 1966, had played only one round of 18 holes in preparation for his assault on the ancient title after flying in 36 hours before the start on his first visit to Britain.

Locals considered it almost a sacrilage to mount a bid on that sort of preparation, an insult to one of the toughest tests of golf.

They cheered loudly, however, when the popular "Champagne Tony" pulled off the miracle — starting with an incredible 73, only one over par for the 6,951 yards course, in a raging gale which blew down many of the tents and sent scores soaring into the 80's.

No-one in the star-studded field assembled for the 21st Open at St. Andrews will go into this week's championship preparation.

Monday, the course was dotted with the elite of world golf and they continued today to grapple with the famed links, seeking out its fairway hazards and striving to read the vast and intricate greens.

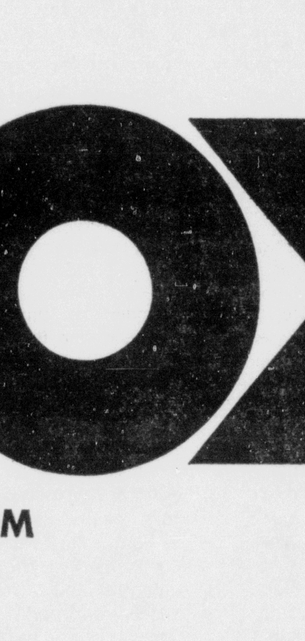
The old course contains few horrors off the tee for the accomplished driver, provided he can combat the stiff breezes which are an inherent fact of golf here.

Among those in the favored group are past winners Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player — still flourishing members of the so-called "Big Three" of golf. Arnold Palmer, the third member of the trio and a two-time title winner, will be bidding from the pack in one of the strongest lineups of talent ever assembled.

Also among the favorites are Britain's obvious "Sportsman of the Year" for the second year in succession, Tony Jacklin who last month added the U.S. Open to the British title he won last year. Masters winner Billy Casper, past U.S. Open winners Lee Trevino and Orville Moody and Australia's consistent Bruce Devlin.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG



A smooth starting approach is marked by pushing the ball away from you while taking the first step. This step is with the right foot in the four-step delivery (see illustration). You female bowlers shouldn't hesitate to do this, for it sets up the freely moving motion so necessary for a balanced approach. The arms should be at almost full length atthe end of the pushaway.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Retain Texaco For Long-Term Growth

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I invested $1,000 in Texaco at 32½. This investment was made for long-term growth. Would you please comment on the merits of this stocks? — S.B.

A. For the first time in a decade, Texaco's steady earnings growth was interrupted in 1969. Price weakness — particularly in European markets — and rapidly rising costs reduced net income 6.1 percent year-to-year. However, in the initial 1970 quarter, this weakness was partially offset by continued increases in demand and output. Thus Texaco managed to show a modest gain in net income and per share profits advanced to 75 cents in 1969. Contributing importantly to this significant rise was an 8.3 percent gain in liquids production, a 10.7 per cent advance in refinery runs and a 6.7 per cent increase in petroleum product sales.

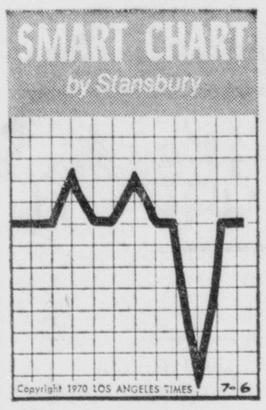
Major sources of strength for Texaco lie in the broad geographic distribution of company's crude reserves and worldwide balance between production, refining and marketing. Recent developments in the Middle East — where TX has holdings — are partly responsible for the stock's lower trading levels.

Currently selling at approximately 9x 1970's earnings estimates and carrying a 5.9 per cent yield, shares have favorable long-term growth prospects.

Q. Iam interested in Memorex. Can you tell me about the company's potential? — R.K.

A. Sales and earnings at Memorex are expected to show improved year-to-year comparisons over the balance of 1970. Important growth should develop in equipment area, with new product sales gaining momentum in the second half. Physical shipments and dollar volume of computer tape lines have become more stable and a 10 per cent or better improvement in both areas is possible.

Company sales could increase as much as 45 per cent in 1970 to around $110 million compared with last year's $77.7 million. High-margined peripheral equipment sales should partly offset the less profitable tape business and the overall pretax margin is expected to be under 1969's 17.5 per cent. Earnings should approximate $2.70 per share for 1970. The stock of this young firm has speculative appeal at current levels.



"Two of our three annual promotions were very successful."

Pessimism Still Keeps Stocks Low

NEW YORK (UPI) — Economic and political problems continued to lean on the stock market today, although volume remained relatively light.

With a little more than an hour to go declines were in front of advances by more than 300 issues. Analysts said some of the pessimism reflected belief that the market may have to test its 1970 low in order to regain its equilibrium.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was off almost 5 points at 670.73 near 2:30 p.m. The closely-watched barometer of 30 top blue chip companies hit its low for the year on May 26 when it dropped 10.20 to 631.16.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a loss of 0.72 per cent on 1,509 issues crossing the tape. Of these, 776 backtracked and 411 moved forward.

A four-hour turnover of 7,750,000 shares was slightly ahead of the 6,930,000 shares traded during the similiar period Monday.

Among the most heavily traded stocks on the big board were Westinghouse, Seaboard World Airlines, Goodyear Tire, Telex Corp., Xerox, International Telephone and Chrysler.

Prices were lower in light trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Owner Of Dutch Art Gallery Tells Plans Of Move To Fourth Street

Soon to move his business to a Fourth Street location in downtown San Rafael is B. G. (Ben) Steevens, who has operated the Dutch Art Gallery on B Street ever since he came here from Holland 10 years ago.

For most of that time he was 811 B Street, then when the building was razed two years ago to make way for a parking lot extension he moved across the street to 821, where he is now.

Steevens has leased 861 Fourth Street, where the Toy Palace used to be, through Ray Van Meter of Coldwell, Banker and Co. The store is narrower but deeper than present quarters, giving him about the same amount of total space. He is remodeling and will partition off the rear for his custom picture frame work and art and painting restorations. The front part will be decorated as a showroom for his paintings, wall plaques, special pieces and antiques. All of these stocks are imported goods.

A dedicated craftsman, an artist in his own right and a connoisseur, Steevens prefers to work solo rather than employ and train help in the specialized field which he has made his profession for over 30 years.

He plans on moving to Fourth Street by Aug. 1. New hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays. He is currently holding a pre-moving sale of his stocks on B Street.

ALLAN PEDROLI has sold the Elite Barber Shop at 1117 Fourth Street, San Rafael, ending a dynasty of about 50 years duration. He was there some 25 years and was preceded by his father for about the same length of time.

He is now selling insurance for New York Life Insurance Co., San Rafael.

The shop has been purchased by Eduardo M. De Chiara of Novato. He formerly owned Eddie's Barber Shop in Tiburon.

BANK OF AMERICA will move its downtown Novato office to the northwest corner of Grant Avenue and Sixth Street, as soon as a new building is erected there to contain it.

Architect Milton W. Chambers has designed one with 9,000 square feet and E. D. McGillicuddy Construction Co. will build it.

Centers of business activity shift, operations are expanded, more people move into new areas — and banks have to be alert to opportunities for new offices. In Marin, as elsewhere, it's a continuous contest among them to get the best locations — first, if possible.

Bank of America presently has two more locations in mind — Tiburon Boulevard and Beach Road in Tiburon for a new branch; and a change in Larkspur to a point farther north on Magnolia Avenue.

Bank of California wants to estalish its first branch in Marin in the area of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and El Portal Drive, Greenbrae.

Bank of Marin is planning to move its office at Northgate Industrial Park to larger quarters now being built next door — and would also like to line up a good location in Larkspur, on the Kent-Lark strip.

INSURANCE: Gerald M. Dini of Terra Linda will attend Provident Mutual Life's supervisors school at the company's home office in Philadelphia the latter part of this month. He is with the San Francisco agency. . .Mrs. J. P. Gatfield of Tiburon, president of the San Francisco Insurance Women's Association, has returned from the national association's convention in Oklahoma City.

HERBERT D. BURFORD, owner of Marin Lights, San Rafael, has been attending a management and business conference and seminar in the Bahamas, sponsored by Lightolier, a lighting manufacturer.
